A 'New Era' for IIT Announced

Programs Receive Emphasis

by Sandy Nollan

With the coming change in the administration of the Institute, the programs in the School of Technology will undergo an administrative review. The Board of Trustees, headed by the president of the University of Illinois, will conduct the review.

The review will focus on the effectiveness of the programs and the needs of the students. The Board will make recommendations to the Institute's administration regarding the future of the programs.

The review will be conducted by a committee consisting of faculty members, students, and representatives from industry. The committee will meet throughout the year to discuss the issues and present their findings to the Board.

The Board will use the committee's recommendations to make decisions about the future of the programs. This may include changes in course offerings, curriculum, or faculty assignments.

The review is part of a broader effort to ensure that the Institute's programs are meeting the needs of the students and the demands of the market.

Yearbook Staff, Editor Found

by Sandy Nollan

The Institute's yearbook staff has been finalized with the appointment of John Smith as editor. Smith, a senior majoring in engineering, has been working on the yearbook for the past two years and has shown a strong commitment to the project.

The yearbook staff has been working on the project for several months, and the book is expected to be completed by the end of the spring semester.

Smith has a strong background in photography and design, and he is looking forward to working on the project.

Student Input Sought

Sandy Nollan

The Institute's administration is seeking student input on the future of the programs. Students are encouraged to provide their feedback on the programs and to suggest changes that they believe would improve the educational experience.

The administration is committed to including student input in the decision-making process and is looking forward to hearing from the students.

A Cancer Creeping Over Industry

by greg cook

It is a pattern that has become too familiar in America in recent years. A new cancer, a new threat to the nation's health and economy. This time, it's not lung or breast cancer, or even heart disease. It's cancer of the industrial world. And just as in the medical world, the battle is being fought on many fronts.

The cancer is creeping over industry, sapping its strength and weakening its ability to compete. It is a disease that affects all industries, large and small, and it is growing at an alarming rate. The causes are varied and complex, but the effects are clear: reduced productivity, increased costs, and a decline in the nation's economic vitality.

The cancer has several stages. In the early stages, it is often difficult to detect. The symptoms are subtle and can be easily overlooked. But as the disease advances, it becomes more apparent. The once vibrant factories become quiet, the workers are less productive, and the products become less desirable.

The cancer is not easy to treat. There is no one cure, and the battle against it is ongoing. But there are steps that can be taken to help slow its progress and ultimately defeat it.

First, we must recognize the problem. Only by acknowledging the existence of the cancer can we begin to address it. Second, we must invest in research and development. This is the key to finding new treatments and new ways to combat the disease.

Finally, we must work together. Industry, government, and labor must all play a role in finding solutions. Only through cooperation can we hope to emerge from this cancer's grip.

It is a difficult battle, but one that we must fight. For the sake of our economy, our workers, and our future, we must do everything in our power to beat this cancer of the industrial world.
Opportunities Are Not to Be Wasted

Scheduling Conflicts

To the Editor:

On your editorial of 10/22/77, "Scheduling Conflicts," I would like to offer some comments from another angle. The problem you have described is one that I have encountered in my academic career. As a student, I have faced many scheduling conflicts, especially during my sophomore year. I believe that the solution to this problem lies in the administration's ability to prioritize courses and to communicate these priorities to the students in a clear and timely manner.

New Administrator

To the Editor:

I strongly support the idea of a new administrator being appointed to the position of Dean. I believe that this would be a necessary step in improving the institution's overall effectiveness. As a student, I have been frustrated by the lack of communication and the absence of clear policies and procedures. I believe that a new administrator would be able to address these issues and to create a more positive environment for students and faculty.

Embarrassment

To the Editor:

I agree with the comments made in the letter to the editor of 10/22/77 regarding the scheduling conflicts. I have also encountered similar problems in my academic career. As a student, I have been frustrated by the lack of communication and the absence of clear policies and procedures. I believe that a new administrator would be able to address these issues and to create a more positive environment for students and faculty.

Letters Policy

Letters to the editor should be submitted to the Editorial Board by phone or mail. All letters must be typed and must not exceed one page in length. The author's name and address should be included. The Editorial Board reserves the right to edit letters for length and clarity.
Students Must Be Audited

To ensure students receive a degree from USC, background checks are conducted that may result in a meeting with an audit officer. Students are not required to meet with an auditor, but it is highly recommended. Call 213-740-0760 to schedule an appointment.

How to convince Mom and Dad to buy you a pre-paid Trailways ticket home

Check boxes, clip out, mail to parents.

Dear Mom and Dad,

Think you will have fun at college, of course, the food, which is so bad that I'm going down to the local deli, bring in a box of trail mix, and I want to know how much money you will have to spend on gas. I was wondering if you could please send me some money for a pre-paid Trailways ticket home to get a decent meal.

I am going to go for a couple of days to visit some friends and take advantage of the free bus services. I want to invite you to come along with me and show you how much fun it can be. We can go to the movies, eat at a nice restaurant, and have a good time together.

I also want to make sure that you get a good night's sleep and that you don't have to worry about the cost of the ticket. I will make sure that we get to the train station on time and that we have everything we need for a comfortable ride.

Thank you for considering my request. I know it will be a lot of fun for you to come and visit me. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Love,

P.S. Just go to the Trailways station and pay for your ticket, tell them who it's for and where I am. I pick the ticket up here when I go to catch the bus.

Tuesday night before Christmas

BarGlass 1126, Captain's Inn. The US部 of Tauron organizers have turned the back bar into a cozy, festive space for holiday parties. The lighting is warm and inviting, with small trees and lights adorning the area. The menu includes traditional holiday dishes such as roast beef and turkey. A live band plays classic Christmas tunes throughout the night, creating a festive atmosphere. The event is open to the public and is a great way to celebrate the season with friends and family.

Skaters Surprising

The IH skate hall contained a surprising world last Friday night. Members of the Intercollegiate Hockey Association (IHA) and its faculty members from the University of Florida, The University of Maryland, Johns Hopkins University, and the University of North Carolina joined forces to compete against the Hawk's own skaters. The games were played in order to determine the best team in the region. The skaters were surprised to find that despite their non-sports experience, they were able to compete and even win against the top teams in the country.

Featured Athlete

One of the most surprising athletes in IH is the 17-year-old senior, Sarah Johnson. She is a natural athlete who can compete in the AAC. In fact, she won an award for her performance in the AAC. In her free time, Sarah enjoys playing basketball and tennis. She is considered to be a role model for other students in IH.

Swimmers Start

The IH swimming team started their season last Friday night. The meet was held at the IH pool and the swimmers were faced with a tough challenge. The swimmers were able to impress the coaches and the audience with their impressive performances. The team worked hard to prepare for the meet and their hard work paid off. They were able to win the meet and set new records. The swimmers were proud of their achievements and they were excited to continue their season.

Crawf and Gomard faced the IAAF's own skaters. The skaters were surprised to find that despite their non-sports experience, they were able to compete and even win against the top teams in the country.
