Benefit Has Norwegian Flair

The annual John Bonarage International Bank dinner procured by the ET Woman's Club will be the first time the club will hold its dinner on March 4, at 4 P.M., in Norwegian House, 513 W. North Ave., Chicago. Steuben glassware will be sold by the club, which is practicing a new custom of offering a stock of fine glassware.

The dinner will be preceded by a cocktail hour. The menu includes beef fondue, which will be served with dipping sauce, beef croquettes, beef salami, Swedish meatballs, and beef trimmings. Following dinner, a traditional Norwegian entertainment and dance program will be featured. The program will include a number of traditional Norwegian dances, and the transfers to the dance will be done by Norwegian women. The evening will conclude with a traditional Norwegian dessert, which will be served with coffee and cream.

Crackdown on Student Defaulters

President John A. G. Glad was released from the University of Chicago after being charged with defaulting on his student loans. Although Glad claims to have paid all his loans, the university refused to accept his payment due to the legal action that he had taken against the university. The university is now seeking to recover the full amount of the loans from Glad, who has been in default for over two years.

The racial composition of the student body at the University of Chicago is a matter of concern to the university administration. In an effort to address the issue, the university is planning to increase the number of minority students on campus. The university is also considering implementing a new admissions policy that would give preference to minority applicants.

The proposed cuts in the university's budget will affect the availability of scholarships and financial aid for students. The university is currently considering reducing the number of scholarships offered, as well as increasing the amount of financial aid available to students. The university is also looking into the possibility of increasing tuition fees to help offset the budget shortfall.

Technology News Survey

What Students Have to Say

People think:

- "I remember when the Technology News Survey was first conducted." (Student, University of California)
- "The Technology News Survey is a valuable resource for students." (Professor, Stanford University)
- "The Technology News Survey has not changed much over the years." (Alumni, Carnegie Mellon University)
- "The Technology News Survey is outdated and needs to be updated." (Student, MIT)

Questionnaire:

- Do you have access to Technology News?
- Do you have an opinion about the Technology News Survey?
- Have you participated in a Technology News Survey before?
- How do you feel about the Technology News Survey?
- How often do you read the Technology News Survey?
- Do you think the Technology News Survey is relevant to your field of study?
- What would you want to see added to the Technology News Survey?

Survey Results:

- 75% of respondents have access to the Technology News Survey.
- 60% of respondents have participated in a Technology News Survey before.
- 80% of respondents feel the Technology News Survey is relevant to their field of study.
- 50% of respondents would like to see more interactive elements added to the Technology News Survey.

Conclusion:

The Technology News Survey is a valuable resource for students, faculty, and alumni. However, improvements are needed to make it more relevant and interactive. Future surveys should consider incorporating student feedback to better meet the needs of the community.

“American Pop” Is Reality Animation

by Sue Risen

The newest part of Whedon's "American Pop" is, in the director's words, "an odyssey through the back of the country." The sumptuous, 80-minute, 16mm film, which opened last week at the IFC Center in New York, is a collection of scenes that Whedon and his collaborators have shot in the American South, Midwest, and West. The film is a journey through a complex and often contradictory society, where the past and present coexist in unexpected ways.

Kings/Survivor Make IIT Come Alive

by Andrew Rees

Despite the usually grim and somber atmosphere of IIT, mixed with so much talk, and even too a feeling of the type of opening: The Kings prevailed and the Hearts were not even close.

Through the crowd was pumping from those top speakers, some of those who were there were swamped by the music.

The Kings opened the show with their popular "Rock and Roll" and the audience's energy was carried over by the band's energy. Their performance was so impressive that even the Hearts were impressed by the Kings' performance. The band's energy was so intense that even the Hearts were impressed by the Kings' performance.

The Hearts followed with their own version of "Rock and Roll" and the audience was captivated by the band's energy. Their performance was so impressive that even the Kings were impressed by the Hearts' performance.

The Hearts followed with their own version of "Rock and Roll" and the audience was captivated by the band's energy. Their performance was so impressive that even the Kings were impressed by the Hearts' performance.

The Kings closed out the show with their final number, "Rock and Roll". The audience was overwhelmed by the band's energy and the performance was so impressive that even the Hearts were impressed by the Kings' performance.

Rush to Buy 'Moving Pictures'

by Robert Ark

Rush's latest album, 'Moving Pictures', is a true classic of rock and roll. Following the successful 'A Farewell to Kings', Rush once again proved their ability to produce a masterful blend of rock and roll. The album is packed with hits like "The Colour of Night" and "Stand Up". The band's signature sound of guitar and drums is once again on full display.

The album's lead single, "The Colour of Night", is a powerful anthem of hope and inspiration. The song's driving rhythm and catchy melody will have you singing along in no time. "Stand Up" is another highlight of the album, with its infectious beat and driving rhythm.

The band's trademark sound of guitar and drums is once again on full display. The album is produced by the legendary Bob Rock, who has worked with some of the biggest names in rock and roll. The production is top-notch and the sound is crystal clear.

Rush's 'Moving Pictures' is a must-listen for any fan of rock and roll. The album is available now and is sure to become a classic of the genre.
Swimmers Close Third

HIT's women's swim team recently finished their 1987 season with the completion of their final meet against Boston University on February 25-26 in Boston, MA. The Bears emerged victorious in all three division one females' relay events. However, the team managed to come in third place overall. The Bears brought two talented Swimmers to the meet in April, both of whom have been integral to the team's success throughout the season. The team's strong performance is a testament to their dedication and hard work throughout the year.
