James Darrah named new Athletic Director

Dennis Hull, who has served as Athletic Director at IIT since 1982, will leave this position at the beginning of the 1988-89 academic year. Dennis will remain with IIT as Director of Special Athletic Programs, and will continue to generate good will and support for IT and the Athletic Department. In this capacity he will report to Clyde Watkins, Vice President for External Affairs.

I am pleased to announce the appointment of James Darrah as Athletic Director. Jim needs no introduction to the IIT community, as he has served with distinction as coach of our baseball team for the past ten years. His new baseball coach will be Edward McQuillan, who is presently Athletic Director at Mount Carmel High School, and who served as head coach of UI-Chicago's basketball team from 1972 to 1975.

Finally, Roland Wozniak, who was a member of the Athletic Department staff from 1973 to 1987, will return to IIT this fall as Instructor in Athletics.

With increasing numbers of students choosing to reside on campus, the Athletic Department will place greater emphasis on intramural and intercollegiate sports, while continuing our fine intramural programs.

Please give Jim Darrah and the Athletic Department your support as they make this transition.

More Engineers Needed

(CPS) — More students need to major in engineering, the National Science Foundation (NSF) warned last month. If they don't, the U.S. will lose its competitive edge in science and engineering, NSF Director Erich Bloch told a joint meeting of the American Physical Society and American Association of Physics Teachers.

Bloch said a greater percentage of students need to be lured into science because there are simply fewer young people in the population. If they're not tempted into the field, there will be a shortage of scientists in the nation, regardless of how well funded scientific projects are.

"Fewer young people increases the importance of attracting women and minority students to science and engineering," Bloch said. The NSF is the chief source of federal funding for nonmilitary and nonmilitary research.

Ironically, as the numbers of Americans who enter science and engineering decline, more and more foreign students earn technical degrees. Foreign students earn one-fifth of the science doctorates, one-third of the mathematics doctorates, and more than half of the engineering doctorates awarded in the United States each year.

Although many stay in the country and contribute to American scientific, technological, and economic leadership, the economy, that could change quickly. "It is bad policy to depend on a resource we cannot control," Bloch said.

"Any IIT student, graduate or undergraduate, is again eligible to take advantage of the Humanities Department's Free Writing Clinic," Dr. Barbara Pampin, Clinic Co-ordinator, has announced. "My new late afternoon hours will make Clinic services much more accessible to evening students, particularly those whose first language is English," she added.

Free Writing Clinic Offered

"Any IIT student, graduate or undergraduate, is again eligible to take advantage of the Humanities Department's Free Writing Clinic," Dr. Barbara Pampin, Clinic Co-ordinator, has announced. "My new late afternoon hours will make Clinic services much more accessible to evening students, particularly those whose first language is English," she added.

"Students who want help should make an appointment either by calling ext. 3465 or by signing up in 106 Life Sciences. Dr. Pampin advises Native speakers, students whose first language is English will receive help from her in 156 Life Sciences. Non-native Speakers, students whose mother tongue is not English, will receive help from a specially trained tutor in 152 Life Sciences.

Students should bring a sample of their writing to their first appointment, and they should bring the assignment and any outlines or drafts they may have written if they want help with an individual essay.

The Clinic emphasizes self-sufficiency: its goal is to make students their own editors by enabling them to "clean up" general problems with finding something to say, organization, sentences, grammar, word choice, and punctuation. In addition, the Clinic helps students overcome problems in writing exams and problems with pronunciation.

The Clinic is neither an editorial service nor a thesis writing service. Tutors will furnish students with names of editors on request.

Law School Forum

Prospective law students will have an opportunity to talk one-on-one with representatives of more than 100 law schools this year. At the 11th Annual Law School Forum to be held in Chicago, in addition to talking directly with law school representatives and gaining admission materials and catalogues, all forum participants will have a chance to view videotaped programs that include information on the Law School Admission Test (LSAT), the national law school admission exam administered by Law School Admission Council/Law School Admission Services (LSAC/LSAS). The videotapes also suggest that the forum discussion topics are needed to pursue law school representatives. Particular attention has been given to the needs of minority group members and to career opportunities available to law school graduates.

This free, two-day event, scheduled October 21 and 22 at the Palmer House and Tower, 17 East Monroe Street, is sponsored by LSAC/LSAS and the participating law schools.
Senator Paul Simon on Drought Relief

Whether you are a farmer or not, you are interested in eating, and you want your family to eat, and others around the globe to eat. That’s why the drought bill passed by Congress and signed by the President is so important.

Congress took the view that Americans are the best fed nation on Earth and we pay less, as a percent-age of income, for food than any other people.

Senator Alan Dixon and I were pleased to join President Reagan on his trip to Illinois to look at the drought. What he saw was not good but he did see fields that were at least green, even if they were not a very pretty shade of soy.

But I could have taken the President to other sections of the state where the corn not only will have extremely lim-ited production, but where some fields won’t produce at all. There are areas around Illinois where I have seen around Macomb, for example — where there are fields that look green. There is no other word for them.

The USDA estimates Illinois farmers will average only 75 bushels an acre of corn and 28 bushels an acre of soybeans. The soybean figure likely will go lower since Aug-ust weather has continued its hot, dry pattern. Only 3 per-cent of the state’s corn crop is in good shape and two-thirds is heavily damaged.

What’s new in new law is not as good as a decent crop for farmers, but it will help some. It’s like having your house on fire and the first insurance it helps but it will not cover all the loss.

The drought law will, among other things, provide 90 percent of target prices.

In general, producers of all commercial crops that face 35 percent of their nonfarm yields will receive 50 percent of losses for losses between 35 percent will be made at a rate equal to 65 percent of the target price for crops on which target price for crops that don’t have a tar-get price. (For losses below 75 percent, the drought assis-tance will rise to 90 percent of target prices. Farmers who produce program crops but don’t participate in the pro-gram will have their payments based on loan rates rather than target prices.

It creates a new emergency livestock and poultry assistance program. The secretary of agri-culture will make the new program available immediately to those counties where the USDA determines a livestock emergency exists. Among other benefits, the program offers government grain at a reduced price and transporta-tion assistance depending on the producer’s individual situ-ation.

The law eliminates an antici-pated Jan. 1, 1988, price support cut for dairy farmers and increases the support price by 50 cents per hundredweight for three months beginning April 1, 1988.

Producers can keep ad-vantage of payments received on the first 35 per-cent of normal yield that is lost to the drought.

It allows farmers who pur-chased crop insurance to re-ceive the full value of their in-surance plus federal drought benefits up to their maximum expected income in a good crop year.

We have tried to make the benefits balanced and equi-table, targeting assistance to small and moderate-sized pro-durers of both program and non-program crops, as well as livestock producers. Drought-related savings in farm pro-grams mean we won’t hurt our efforts to shrink the deficit. A Genesis woman wrote to express gratitude for Congress’ fast action on the drought re lief package. She summed it up well, saying the new law “will mean that our income will not dry up with our crops.”

Senator Alan J. Dixon on the War Against Drugs

CHICAGO, Ill. — August 26, 1988 — Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan today filed suit against a home health care company, accusing it of misrepresenting the safety, style, and features of an electric lift chair for people suffering from severe arthritis.

In the suit, filed in Cook County Circuit Court, Queen City Caring of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma corporation based in Ohio and its President Saul Feisman are accused of violating the Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act of Illinois. Queen City represents through its agents and employees that the electric lift chair gives a person suffering from severe arthritis, or other disease, the comfort, security and confi-dence to come and go without assistance and specifically, helps the consumer avoid in-ury.

The base of the electric lift chair rises and moves forward to either take or return a person from a standing position.

The fact is, it places a person with severe arthritis in the greatest risk of injury because the chair is not always sized to fit each user properly,” Hartigan said.

In addition, Queen City is accused of misrepresenting to consumers that the electric lift chair has a specific décorator covering, when in fact, con-sumers are not given the option of choosing a decor or any of the other special features. Nor is the chair advertised as a recliner, however, consumers received chairs that do not recline.

Consumers were told that the full cost of the chair will be covered by Medicaid and co-insurance even though, not all forms of medicare and co-insurance will cover the entire expense.

The suit cites a senior citi zen with severe arthritis or ar-thritis who was disappointed to learn that she was not a candidate for a replacement that was used and dirty. On the third try, she received a chair that did not recline as advertised and was too large for her, making it hazardous for her to operate the chair. Queen City has refused to replace the chair for which Medicaid paid out the entire $1,795 cost.

Another senior citizen who is crippled with arthritis and who lives on a fixed income and limited budget, was told by a Queen City representa-tive that her medicare and/or the co-insurance would cover the entire cost of the chair,” Hartigan said. “However, after the chair was delivered she was informed that she owed Queen City 20 percent of the total cost of the lift chair, which adds up to approximately $180.

The Attorney General’s office has received complaints about the electric lift chair from con sumers throughout the state. In the suit, Hartigan seeks the following:

A court order prohibiting Queen City from advertising and selling electric lift chairs to consumers in the State of Illinois; and

An order rescinding the con-tracts entered into by Queen City with consumers in Illinois.

An order directing Queen City to pay to Social Security monies received as payment for electric lift chairs to con sumers in Illinois.

Suit filed on "Health Chair" company
Students Against Multiple Sclerosis

New York, NY September 1—The Students Against Multiple Sclerosis (SAMS) Program is back again for a fourth straight exciting year, to get your school involved and win a chance to have MTV: Music Television come to your campus for a special broadcast, while you help those who really need your support—the quarter of a million Americans who have multiple sclerosis.

"SAMS, a national college fund raising and awareness program, will take place on more than 200 campuses this year," announced Admiral Thor Hanson, the National Multiple Sclerosis Society president and chief executive officer. "Across the country, thousands of college students will be joining forces to help fight MS, a disease that commonly affects their own age group. We're proud to support their efforts on behalf of the Society's worth- while cause."

Throughout the 1988-89 school year, and especially in February—"BUST MS MONTH"—college students will be involved in a variety of fund raising and educational activities geared toward increasing public awareness of multiple sclerosis, and establishing long-term fund raising support of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society's efforts aimed at finding the cause and cure for MS. One of the major events in Rock Aline, a lip synch contest on campus that culminates in the National Finals broadcast on MTV. Last year the top campus was the University of Missouri/Columbia, which raised over $25,000. They won a "School's Out Weekend" broadcast on MTV.

While the real incentive of SAMS is helping the 250,000 Americans who have multiple sclerosis, the campus rasing the most money at the end of the program will be featured in an on-campus program broadcast on MTV. Prizes and recognition will also be given to the top campus in the country.

Since 1985, SAMS has grown from 12 campuses to over 200, involving the thousands of students across the country. SAMS has also received the enthusiastic endorsement of major corporations such as Maxell, Ford Motor Company, Hertz, and SWATCH, well-known celebrities including Cynth Lauper and Brooks Shields, and many national student organizations, including Sigma Pi and Theta Xi.

Playboy writing contest

The October issue of Playboy magazine (on sale Tuesday, August 30) features "The Hotel-Motel Bar & Grill," short story by Valerie Voglin, writer of the 1988 Playboy Teenage Confession Contest. Voglin, 27, a student at the University of Alabama, receives $3,000 for her story, "Barbara, a story of a divorced father who turns his southern California into an apartment into a hotel theme park for the amusement of his two visiting daughters. Entries are now being accepted for Playboy's 1989 College Fiction Contest, open to all registered undergraduates, graduate and part-time students. The writing competition is judged by the editors of Playboy magazine. The deadline for receiving entries is January 1, 1989.

Contest rules are being made available to students through literary magazines, college newspapers and the creative writing departments of some 1,400 colleges and universities nationwide. The rules are featured in the October issue of Playboy.

Second prize of $500 in the 1988 contest was awarded to Robert Lewis, 26, a student at the University of Alaska, Fairbanks, for his story, "Jet Pilot for the Sandpipers." Lewis was a third-place winner in Playboy's 1987 College Fiction Contest. Suzan Kehoke, 26, University of Southern California; Maria Franco King, 29, Chabot College, Livermore, California; John McNally, 22, University of Iowa; and Rachel Simon, 28, Sarah Lawrence College, each received third-place awards of $250.

Conservation Volunteers

Opportunities for college students to obtain volunteer positions in conservation and resource management for the coming summer and spring sessions are now available through the Student Conservation Association's Resource Assistant Program. These positions enable selected students to participate in the work of go-government and state agencies responsible for the care and management of the country's national parks, forests, wilderness areas and wildlife refuge-

Interested people should send a postcard requesting the 1989 Resource Assistant Program Listing and an application to the Student Conservation Association, P.O. Box 550C, Charlestown, NH, 03603. The telephone number is (603)/867-5200.

WELCOME CHEM E'S
The IIT Chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers (AIChe) extends a warm welcome back to all returning "Chem E's" students, graduate and undergrad, as well as incoming freshmen. For information regarding the AIChe fall activities or membership, contact Mike Dent through the Chemical Engineering Department office (105PH).

AIDS PAMPHLET
For a free pamphlet about AIDS entitled "Let's Talk About AIDS", send a self addressed stamped business-size envelope to P.O. Box 96005 Washington, DC 20000-9605.

American Society of Internal Medicine
The pamphlet outlines clearly what patients should discuss regarding low and high risk sexual behavior, whether or not to be tested, confidentiality of information and prevention of the disease.

NEW TECHNOLOGY NEWS DEADLINE
The deadline for all articles and announcements to be submitted to Technology News is Wednesday at 5:00 p.m. If you or your organization has any stories or announcements, send them to Technology News at the Fifth Floor of Main Building before the deadline.

SPORTS
Anyone interested in playing golf for the varsity team, contact Coach Wozniak at x3296. We need golfers.

COUNSELING CENTER
The IIT Counseling Center is located in Room 105, Fair Hall, the Southwest corner of 3rd and Michigan. Counseling is free for all IIT students. We do three kinds of counseling:

1. Educational. We can help you in such areas as time management, reading, textbook, taking notes in class, memory concentration, and how to take tests.
2. Career/Vocational. We give interest tests to students who are not sure of their major.
3. Personal. Counselors are available to talk with you about any personal problems you might have.

The Counseling Center is open from 8:30-5:00 Monday thru Friday. It is best if you call and make an appointment so one of our counselors will be available to see you when you arrive. Our phone number is 567-0503. All counselling is confidential.

STUDY SKILLS VIDEOS
The Study Skills Series is a collection of coordinated videotapes and handouts designed to help students improve their study skills. The five-part series, assembled and presented by Dr. Terry Shapiro and Dr. Linda White, covers the topics of time management, note taking, textbook reading, memory concentration, and taking tests.

1. TIME MANAGEMENT. A structured approach of organization and scheduling. It is filled with helpful hints, encouraging comments, and troubleshooting guide.

2. NOTE TAKING. Information on essential outlining techniques, abbreviations, and examples of good and bad note taking.

3. TEXTBOOK READING. A four-stage method of reading and retaining material found in textbooks—preparation, preview, reading, and review.

4. MEMORY CONCENTRATION. Shows how memory works, how to capitalize on the memory process, and how to maximize concentration while minimizing distractions.

5. TESTS. A collection of test taking tips regarding testing situations in general, and problem-solving, essay, and multiple-choice tests in particular.

The videotapes and accompanying handouts are available for use at the IIT Counseling Center, the Educational Technology Center, the Counseling Center's Kent office, and at IIT West.

CHAPEL HOLY COMMUNION
A celebration of Holy Communion is again offered at IIT Chapel Sunday, September 18 at 11:30 AM. The weekly worship integrates Sacred Scripture. In readings and reflections, music, and the Eucharistic prayer, Holy Communion in the Traditional Christian unifying form, is invited to share in this experience of personal participation in celebration and ministry. The Chapel is directly north of the Residence Hall Lounge entrance.

UNIQUE ENCOUNTERS
The Faculty-Student Biblical Study Group, "The Bible and Today's World" will meet Wednesday, September 13 at 12 noon in the Field Room of Herrman Hall (SW corner of Hubbard). This broad spectrum of Christian reflection and personal integration with the literature of the Old and New Testaments involves a cross-section of IIT students, faculty, and staff and enables a multi-levelled experience of the meaning and vital significance of the sacred text. Personal insight and self-disclosure are gained by these encounters, resulting in a rich tapestry of modes whereby God's Word reveals our individual spiritual journeys. The IIT community is cordially invited to contribute to the richness of this experience.

Interview
Registration

Want to see how you appear in a job interview? Beginning September 12th, the Placement Office (located on the fourth floor of Far Hall) will be offering all students who are registered for placement the opportunity to be videotaped in an actual interview situation. The tape will be reviewed, and you will pick up some helpful ways to improve how you present yourself in a job interview. The videotaping will take about one hour, and is free of charge. You may bring your own VHS tape if you wish to keep your interview for future reference. This service will be available on Mondays and Fridays from 3:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon. You MUST make an appointment for your videotaped interview by stopping by the Placement Office, or calling 567-3637 between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. All students who wish to interview for jobs this fall should attend one of each of the following workshops:

THIS WEEK AT THE BOG:

Deluxury

"Robert Plant joined Deluxury on stage doing 'Big Boss Man.' Plant was so enthralled with the band he flew back into town from St. Louis the next night to jam after-hours." (Illinois Entertainer)

They are the best Boogie-Bluesie band I've seen in a long time, and I saw them from coast to coast. (Dave Gerald, Rolling Stone)

Onstage, Deluxury is a funky rhythm machine that virtually defies its audience to sit still.

The concert starts at 9:00 p.m.
Admission is $2.00 or use your U.B. Pass

'The best military comedy since M*A*S*H.'

Touching and wildly funny, it is one man's tour de force.

A tidal wave of laughter that may render you unable to breathe. Two enthusiastic thumbs up.

Admission is $2.00 or use your U.B. Pass
Watch Your Back

It's a good thing most of us are young when we go to college, otherwise our bodies couldn't stand the abuse. Take your back, for example. Everything you do subjects your back to strain and stress—running from one class to another with tons of books in your bag, while carrying heavy backpacks and slouching over homework in your lap.

No wonder by the time young people are in their late 20s, they join up to 80 percent of the population who suffer from back pain.

Everyone knows the benefit of good posture as we stand or sit, but better posture during the night also can be a big factor in preventing back aches, says Arthur Grehan, executive director of the American Insurers Manufacturing Manufacturers.

Tax reform course

Registration is under way for Current Developments in Taxation, a course for experienced tax practitioners, offered by DePaul University's Center for Professional Education and Center for Research and Education in Taxation.

Beginning September 19, the course will meet on consecutive Mondays from 6 to 9 p.m. through November 14. It will be held in DePaul's Lewis Center, 25 E. Jackson Blvd., Room 1501.

Current Developments in Taxation is designed to update tax practitioners on recent developments in the rapidly changing area of taxation. The course can be taken for 28 hours of continuing professional education credits.

The fee for the course is $725. For more information call Carolyn Gianforte, assistant director of DePaul's Center for Professional Education, at 312/341-6789.

Establish Credit

Milwaukee, Wis.—It costs money to go to college. That's no news to students or parents. But sometimes the best-planned budgets can be thwarted by unexpected expenses—emergencies, class supplies, travel costs. That's where the Elan College Card program comes in.

Offered by Elan Financial Services, the Elan Card is a charge card intended to meet the credit needs of college students and is available to qualified applicants in the Midwest. Elan is one of the few charge card issuers in the country offering this type of card.

The Elan College Card is designed to help young adults build a credit rating at the same time it provides immediate credit privileges for emergencies, transportation, convenience in paying for tuition and books and other unexpected expenses.

The College Card requires a parent or guardian to be the co-signer. The co-signer selects the size of the credit line and authorizes any increases to the line. Credit limits range from several hundred dollars to $1,000.

Elan first introduced the College Card in 1987. According to Bill Dixon, senior vice president, Elan Financial Services, the bank has been well received and demand has been strong. Dixon noted that the number of new cardholders is running well-ahead of last year.

Elan Financial Services is a division of First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee. Elan and its affiliates market a wide range of consumer financial products and services, including insurance, brokerage services, traveler's checks and mortgage banking services, to customers in the Midwest. First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee is the lead bank of First Wisconsin Corporation, the largest bank holding company in Wisconsin with assets of $7.2 billion.

Hypothermia Blues

It's happy to announce the start of their fall SCUBA class, September 29 from 6 to 10 P.M. The course will run for eight consecutive Thursdays and will train you in all Open Water scuba skills. The classes are approximately 3 hours long with 1 1/2 hours in classroom and 1 1/2 hours in pool. All training materials and pool equipment provided other than paper and pencil (needed first week), mask, fins and snorkel (needed second week). Arrangements for rental of mask, fins and snorkel can be made.

The course will be at Keating Hall and open to the general public with the classroom sessions being held in the Schorringer Meeting Room and the pool sessions at Echo Pool, 3040 S. Wabash. For further information contact George Wicacz, Open Water Instructor, at 312-797-9341.

It's no fun being ripped off!
