IIT Poll Says Bush

IIT likes Vice President Bush, so it would seem according to a poll taken by Tech News of 100 student, staff, and faculty members. In our poll, we posessed the following question: "If the elections were held today, given the choice of the two, would you vote for Bush or DuKakis?" Alternately, names were switched in the phrasing of the question.

59% responded by "voting" Bush, and 41% DuKakis. Of the 41 who voted DuKakis, 80% answered immediately, while 10% had to be prodded a second time for an answer. 86% of those voting for Bush answered immediately, and 14% had to be asked twice. All of this means is that even with the margin of error taken into account, Vice President George Bush still has somewhere between 51% to 63% of the students' support. However, we should not be noted to think that DuKakis' supporters seem to be more solid in their opinion.

Now for the real shocker, among faculty members, 61% voted DuKakis, 39% Bush. Among students, 56% DuKakis, 44% Bush. This may put to rest the concept that Gauyale is attracting the vote to the Republican side because of his good looks. Along these lines, Bushes and Dubaks stand solidly behind their candidates. 94% of those who consider themselves Republicans voted for Bush, while 71% of the Democrats cast their vote for the Democratic. Independents truly lived up to their name; of 26 people who declared themselves unattached to any particular party, 13 voted Bush, 13 voted DuKakis.

Is The Supercollider Worth It?

CHICAGO, IL, October 26, 1988 — Illinois taxpayers may pay $1.7 billion for a science facility that will produce as few as 500 permanent jobs, according to a study released today by a Chicago-based research organization.

The Heartland study points out that no high technology cor- mend. Seventeen are good, three are very poor. What do you dwell on? If you are like most people, you dwell on the poor decisions, convincing yourself you did a lousy job. You downplay the 17 great evaluations.

Dwelling on past failures, especially when they are not rep- resented by your current performance, will cause your stress to climb and confidence to fall, and serve as a rehearsal for more failure.

And college students are experts when it comes to reliving past failures and creating unnecessary stress. In fact, the Nuprin Pain Report, the first national study on pain in America, documented that more than 24 people are likely to suffer from pain than any other age group.

To avoid stress caused by "ah oo" thinking, review your past successes realistically. Did you really do a lousy job? Are you highlighting and exaggerating the negative? If it is not a big deal, learn from it. Examine your thoughts and behavior that caused the poor performance. Plan and re-

More on Stress Relief

Most people forget how good they are. They dismiss past successes and become overly sensitive to highlights in their performance. So remember all the things you did right.

Say you got 20 evaluations on a presentation you made in class. Seventeen are good, three are very poor. What do you dwell on? If you are like most people, you dwell on the poor decisions, convincing yourself you did a lousy job. You downplay the 17 great evaluations.

Dwelling on past failures, especially when they are not rep- resented by your current performance, will cause your stress to climb and confidence to fall, and serve as a rehearsal for more failure.

Presidential Issues

Thursday, November 3, during the next election, the contest between President Bush and Governor Wald is going to be the major question in the presidential election campaign. Following this, the audience will be free to address questions to either speaker. The opposite speaker will also be given opportunity for a short rebuttal.

Professor Barbara Furman of IIT's Sociology faculty will moderate.

This political forum, in the midst of a heated contest " Campaign '88" is one of several Office of Student Life programs to facilitate experience of public life on IIT's campus.
LETTER FROM
DANIEL SCHAER

To the IIT Community:

There have been a number of criminal incidents this fall on 35th Street, south of campus. These include "smash-and-grab," purse snatchings, and an armed robbery, as recently as nine days ago. This recent robbery should make it clear to all of us on campus that 35th Street, especially the stretch from the State Street CTA station to the Dan Ryan, is a dangerous area. Parking cars should not be left on 35th or 31st to gain access to the expressway. IIT Police and the Chicago Police Department have increased their patrols in this area in order to provide more of a deterrent. Those who must walk to the CTA stations on 35th need to exercise caution. When possible and especially after 6 p.m., walk with a friend, or call IIT’s Campus Police Department, 567-3334, does provide an escort service. More people need to take advantage of the service.

Over the next several months, the Student Leadership Subcommittee on Security and the university administration will be meeting to explore ways of making IIT a safer campus. If you have any suggestions on how to improve campus security, please contact me in the Student Life Office in Hermann Hall, Larry Gaddis, Director of Campus Police.

Sincerely,
William D. Schaer
Dean of Student Life

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

It is the intent of this letter to involve the general residence hall population in a movement for better food service. We, the undersigned, represent merely a small portion of the students who students required to effect a general interest in improving and generally maintaining the current quality of food service. In short we want "input" from residence hall students and the Residence Halls granting the students in the IIT Residence Halls the opportunity to realize that they can, indeed, do something about the way they live and that there are people out there willing to listen to them. We, the undersigned, entered our suggestions, as the cause the greater change. Towards the end of the semester, a report on the State of Food Service will be produced and made available to IIT Residence Halls personnel. The following is the contents of the report:

One of these is used by vicious terrorists who have no regard for humanity to blow up political targets.

The other is used by God-fearing citizens to demonstrate their belief in the sanctity of life by blowing up abortion clinics.

Which is which?
The IIT Jazz Band

Unbeknownst to many at IIT, there is a small but dedicated group of musicians who perform every week at the HUB. I’m speaking, of course, of the IIT Jazz Bands, under the direction of Niel Dunip.

Neil has been the driving force behind the jazz bands since 1972, when IIT first discovered the need for a musical outlet for its students. At that time, only 5 musicians could be gleaned from the student body to comprise what is now an eclectic group of dedicated musicians from the IIT community and elsewhere. In order to complete the instrumentation necessary for the formation of a big band, Neil recruited musicians from the student body, IIT staff, UTAH employees, and others whom he continued on page 7.

United Way Campaign

The 1988-89 IIT United Way Crusade of Mercy Campaign is off to a promising start, according to Campaign Chairman Manny Fries.

“We have succeeded,” Fries says, “in getting a number of first-time contributions to add to the pledges expected from those who have contributed in the past years.”

Fries and David Zesmer, Associate Chairman, hope that members of the IIT faculty, staff, and administration will participate generously so that IIT will meet its campaign goal of $49,000 — an increase of about 10 percent over last year. The overall goal for the Chicago area is $50,000,000. The United Way Crusade of Mercy supports almost 400 health and social service agencies in Metropolitan Chicago.

The Unknown Reviewers

"The Unknown Reviewers is a new weekly feature in Technology News. The reviewers, whose names remain unknown, will be reviewing the Thursday night BGG concerts throughout the semester."

THE UNKNOWN REVIEWERS (LEFT)

I’m not one who listens to a lot of heavy metal, and I don’t really enjoy it that much, but on October 13, a band invaded the BGG and made this reviewer begin to hear it a little differently.

That band was called “1313”, and through their mix of their own songs and medleys of some rock classics, the crowd, as well as myself, went home not only entertained, but also a little bit deaf.

The band started at 10:20, due to the fact that they had an opening act, and they played straight till midnight with only one short break. Beginning with a few of their own songs, the band made it clear that they were there for a night of heavy metal. Cool to a deaf.

The band played a mix of metal versions of “Money”, “Jumpin’ Jack Flash”, “Gloria”, “Shook Me All Night Long”, and others, and concluded with the cheap Thrash of “The Boys” which brought the BGG crowd to its feet. Many of their own songs followed, and the crowd stayed with the energy of the band. “1313” went back into another medley going from The Who, into The Beach Boys, into The Beatles, into others, into Led Zeppelin, and back into The Who. This band showed me that even rock classics could be done justice with a heavy metal edge, even an older song like The Raspberries classic “Go Away.”

The band finished with a couple of their own songs, but even though most no one there ever heard the songs before, the band kept the crowd engaged until the smoke machine drifted away. The band was led by a guy on vocals who had enough energy to keep the crowd going even if they didn’t know what the song was. On bass guitar was Tony Vincent and on drums, was Chuck Lewis, both of which kept the crowd engaged by giving a couple of line solos. On electric guitar was Rob Lewis, who, although sounded good, seemed to lack the energy the rest of the band had.

As Band goes on, the Unknown Reviewers scales, I give “1313” the thumbs up. They were full of energy, able to keep the crowd going with them, had good visual effects, and most of all, loud.

THE UNKNOWN REVIEWERS (RIGHT)

“1313” brought some new and exciting things into the BGG on the 13th of October. For the first time that I’ve seen in three years of BGG nights there was an opening act. They were a young band called Class Act. Although they lacked the enthusiasm of “1313”, and their sound was a bit rough, in a few years they could become a standard BGG band.

“1313” cam on about 10:20 ready to jam. Unlike my counterpart, I like metal, the louder the better, so I really enjoyed the lights, smoke, and especially the loud music. I was a bit disappointed at first that they didn’t play any cover songs, but the first medley really got me into the show. I thought they did a great “Shocked Me All Night Long”, and “Gloria”; they had me singing along with the rest of the crowd. The next group of original material was just that, original. They had a wide mix of songs from fast and loud to ballads, as was said by a person sitting nearby.

They sound a lot like Dokken. Their next medley was a wide variety of music all with their own sound, and all preserved with great enthusiasm. I was really impressed with Moe, the lead singer. He has the enthusiasm and energy to get the BGG crowd into songs, even if they didn’t know them.

“1313” is a band that could become a regular at the BGG. I only have two complaints with them. First, like my partner in crime said, the guitar player just seemed to be going for the ride. He was good, but he didn’t have the energy the rest of the band possessed. Secondly, although their music was good, BGG crowds seem to enjoy cover music more than original music. These things are minor, and this Unknown Reviewer gives “1313” a big thumbs up. I don’t mind waiting up on Friday with ringing ears and achin head if the night before was like that.

IIT POLICE

With an increase in of the so-called “Smash and Grab” type of robbery occurring in areas surrounding IIT, some simple precautions should be exercised while traveling by car, especially by women.

“Smash and Grab” refers to incidents in which a thief breaks a car window on the passenger or driver side and steals a purse or other valuable items from the front seat; these types of crimes occur most often when the car is stopped in traffic at intersections, expressway ramps and other such places. Most victims are female and driving alone.

Most of the “Smash and Grab” incidents in our area have occurred on 35th Street, between State Street and LaSalle in the westbound traffic lane. If you usually travel along this route, extra caution is urged, or it possible, use another route.

For example, to access the northbound ramp for the Dan Ryan Expressway, go west on 33rd Street to Wentworth, Wentworth to 35th Street, and east to the northbound ramp.

Also, consider using Lake Shore Drive or other local roads to travel north from IIT Center. Additionally, the Illinois Dept. of Transportation reports that the northbound ramp at 31st Street should be open by October 29, 1988.

PREVENTION TIPS:
+ Select your route carefully
+ Place your purse underneath the driver's seat or in the trunk.
+ Place all other bulky and valuable items in the trunk, to avoid temptation and to minimize risk.
+ Keep all doors locked and windows rolled up while driving.
+ Look a round you while stopped in traffic and be alert for anyone approaching your car.
+ Keep a reasonable distance between your car and the car in front of you that you can maneuver away from a suspected thief.
+ Most “Smash and Grab” incidents occur when the motorist is “sandwiched” between two cars.
+ If approached by a suspicious person, sound your horn to attract attention.
+ Try to observe the suspect for a good description later.
+ Leave your car in gear or drive position so that you can move away immediately from any dangerous or suspicious circumstance.
+ Don't stop to talk to a stranger.
+ Keep a reasonable distance (a block) when walking to give directions.
+ Try to drive in the left lane (away from the curb) where you will be less vulnerable and most difficult to approach.
+ Keep your radio off or at a low volume, remaining alert to hear or recognize anything suspicious.
+ Always know where you are going and have alternate routes.
+ Drive with a full tank of gas and be sure your auto is in good running condition.
+ If possible, and for your safety, remove or cover up your jewelry when driving or riding public transportation.
+ Report any incidents to the police as soon as possible with a description of the offender, his car and license if one is used.

The IIT Police Department, in cooperation with the Chicago Police Dept. and other law enforcement agencies, has increased their patrol presence in many locations on and around the I.I.T. Campus, in an effort to provide more of a deterrent to these types of crime.

Volleyball Playoffs Begin Friday
The IT Women's Volleyball Team finished in 2nd place in the Chicagoland Collegiate Athletic Conference Tournament and also defeated Judson College and North Park College in matches last week. The Scarlet Hawk's won loss record currently is 30-8. In the conference tournament the Hawks defeated Rosary College 15-9, 15-6 but then dropped their next match to National College of Education 5-15, 10-15. This loss dropped IT into the losers bracket where the Hawks beat Olivet Nazarene 14-16, 15-4, 15-7; and St. Xavier 15-1, 19-8. IT then got revenge on National College of Education 6-15, 15-9, 15-6. This win should affect the national ranking as N.C.E. is currently in 20th place, the Hawks at 35th place. IT then faced St. Francis (now nationally ranked 5th), and lost 15-3, 15-9.
Kim Whallen, Tracy Leondaro, Megan Regan, and Lisa Espenlii were named to the All-Conference team and Espenlii also received the Newcomer of the Year Award. This award is given annually to the most valuable freshman in the conference. A large crowd was on hand for the 25th of October to watch the Hawks play Judson and North Park. This year's Fan Appreciation Night included Union Board door prizes and a hospitality room for the spectators and players after the match. Among the fans for this evening's action was Professor Feldberg. The Hawks easily defeated Judson 15-2, 15-2, 16-14, and North Park 15-3, 15-9, 15-12 to make the evening a complete success.
This week IT will travel to Trinity Christian on Tuesday and return home on Friday and Saturday to host the NAIA District 20 playoffs. Plan to attend this tournament and watch our Scarlet Hawk Volleyball Team!

STRESS
It's often left blank on quizzes. That indicates that it was stress, not lack of knowledge, that caused you to blank out on the answer. The mental "block" is the mental "error." If the first question on an exam is difficult, you might begin to think, "Uh oh, I don't know anything; I'm going to fail." Stress leads to confidence dissonance. You begin to feel like a failure and dwell too long on that first question. The stress and panic will likely remain and prevent you from concentrating on the rest of the exam. Instead, start off the test with a victory. Look over the exam and find a question that you do know — a "can do." Answer that first. Starting out with a win will build your confidence and start you off on a roll. Winners, prior to a pressure situation, plan for every eventuality. They will anticipate anything that may arise, including the unexpected and undesired.

Jazz Band
For the next in its series of concerts, the Jazz Band will perform on Friday, November 4, at 8 p.m. in the Student Center. The band will be directed by Professor Stambaugh. The program will feature a variety of jazz and blues music.

Singer
The band will perform an arrangement of "Chasing the Ashes," written over the past 50 years, and played by such luminaries as Duke Ellington, Count Basie's Orchestra, the Woody Herman "Heidi," Count Basie's Orchestra, Buddy Rich's Big Band, and the Tonight Show Band, to name a few.

The bands have been open to IT students since their inception, and Niels continues to hold auditions every year to bring in new talent to IT in order to attract new talent to the bands. Since IHS has no formal music program, this is the opportunity for students to express themselves in a musical forum while attending IT.

The venue are not limited to the IHS, however. For in the past years, IT's big bands have had the opportunity to play at different locations throughout the Chicago area, the Hub, the Jazz Showcase, the Wenzel Coach, and various churches, schools, and jazz festivals. In addition, IT has called upon the bands to play at many events here on campus. This allows the band to promote its institution. Proceeds from these engagements are funnelled back into the band in the form of new charts and equipment.

To say that there is a wonderful resource in the form of big bands would be understating the case. Niels Dunlap's personal reputation extends far back into the musical heritage of Chicago, having led bands from the late '40s or even for another since the 1940's, and served in every capacity imaginable at the VanderCook College of Music. He kept the bands alive over the past 16 years.

If you have never heard a band described as an "ensemble," or "a closet jazz lover's paradise," then you owe it to yourself to spend a Tuesday night at the IHS playing the IHS Big Bands. Playing times are 7:00 p.m., for the 'B' Band and 9:00 p.m. for the 'A' Band. In the embarrassing game of entertaining, the 'A' Band in the Beg. And if you would like to find out how to join one of the bands, see Niels on Tuesday. You won't regret it.
