Do You Know These People?

The candidates

The following information in italics was given to Tech News by the Press Manager of their candidate, and is therefore subject to discrepancy. However, the comments presented are the impressions and opinions of the news editor. These opinions have been derived from following the campaign, and a forum presented last Tuesday by the headline club, which was attended by all of the candidates with the exception of Daley.

Kenneth Hurst: Republican

(No information available at time of printing)

Unrecognized by the Republican party, Kenneth Hurst accuses his party of being “overrun by Democratic retreads.” Along with trying to “return Chicago to a two-party system,” Mr. Hurst plans to get work done in the C.I.A. Although he was a committee man of the 39th ward for 4 years, he is still not getting the respect that he feels he deserves. When asked what the most important issue in the campaign was, Hurst replied that the top issues were education and bringing business to Chicago.

Sheila Jones-LaRouche: Republican

(No information available at time of printing)

Referred to by a member of the press as a perennial mayoral candidate, Mrs. Jones refers to herself as an ally of Lyndon LaRouche, a man who has been called a right-wing extremist. Sheila’s views on just about everything have been highly criticized by the press, giving her the just cause to attack journalism at every chance she is given. But she is quick to point out that it was her party that first suggested taking drastic measures to combat A.I.D.S. and that she is the only black woman candidate.

Eugene Sawyer Jr.: Democratic

Richard M. Daley: Democratic

(Born in Chicago, 1942. B.A. in history from DePaul University. J.D. in law. 1970 appointed to the Illinois Constitutional Convention. 1972, elected to the state Senate, 23rd district. Led fight to remove tax from food and medicine and sponsored nursing home care reform act. Re-elected 76th and 78th. 78th State attorney general since 1979. Established: gangs crime unit (with a conviction rate of 87%); public utilities division; and collected $70 million in delinquent taxes. Daley decided to cancel out of the Headline Club, a practice that is usually followed by candidates who are leading in the polls to prevent them from accidentally damaging themselves by saying something stupid. But Daley has been losing his lead, and he may just come out of hiding to try and keep things from slipping away. Keep an eye out for future debates, something that Daley has been trying to avoid after being criticized for being a poor speaker.

Drinking in the Bog

"We're just trying to allow those who choose of legal drinking age to drink." - Bill Schafer

by John Abbott

This re-assurance by the dean of student life came in response to the apprehension of Michelle Kochan that prohibitive might some day hit IIT. In the first open-air A.T.S. meeting of the semester, President Richard A. Marassas Jr., the topic of alcohol on campus again became the focus of controversy. During the meeting, Bill Schafer attempted to clarify the intent of the new restrictions with the above quote. "It was students who actually came up with the suggestions of the wristbands, much to my surprise," he added.

A.T.S. Vice President Michelle Kochan, visibly upset by the apathetic reaction of the students, summed up her feelings during the meeting. "I have a lot of respect for the reason why I suggested to put this on the agenda of this meeting was because of the way things have been going this semester. All of a sudden there were no pitcher in the bog... people got mad at the bog. The bog is never as down at the bog as it is when before all this happened. And I just really wanted to present this opinion like this happening again, we all know... the school of all a sudden decides that the quad should be dry and rush in and present this again. This is the main reason why I've called this meeting and that's why it's so important. We need to talk about how we prevent this and have the abrupt treatments of the underage drinking problem in the future."

Before the meeting was over, it was decided by A.T.S. to pursue this issue further and keep discussion open.

Another issue that was discussed, was the use of the programming office space in Herman Hall. A possible future area for clubs to meet with one desk for each student organization. In a proposed plan, each group could submit a proposal for the use. Any groups that are interested in participating should talk to Bill Schafer or A.T.S. for more information.

Improving IIT

The Academic Subcommitte of the Student Leadership Committee has met twice this semester—January 18 and 25. The meeting on Jan. 25 was also attended by the Associate Deans and by Peter Johnson, the new Dean of Undergraduate Academic Affairs. Following is a summary of our work to date:

1. Free Period

We are working on restoring the integrity of the "free period" during the week. Historically, classes could not be scheduled on Tuesday and Thursdays from 2-3 p.m. The Tuesday slot was given to students for meetings and the Thursday slot was given to the faculty for meetings. Over the years there has been an increase in the number of free periods, especially on Thursday. We are working to reestablish these times as true class-free periods. Although the time slot that will have to be worked out is the scheduling of courses, especially freshman courses. The number of class times to be scheduled is still in question and we hope to have some classes this week at the end of the fall term.

2. Faculty Evaluations

Each undergraduate college will continue using the own form. In addition, we are developing a short form that can be used across all colleges. Results of the faculty evaluations will be published in Next Term.

3. Awards

Each college will forward to our committee the name of the person selected as best teacher to the college. Service award nominations will be solicited through a university-wide memo.

4. Staff

The problem of not listing professor's names in the schedule of classes is being addressed. Last fall, "Dr. Staff" appeared approximately 180 times. This spring he appeared 180 times. The Deans of the undergraduate colleges are diligently working on this problem.

5. Summer School

Concerns regarding summer school programming were brought up into. These include questions about financial aid, when to schedule courses (day or evening), using summer school to help IIT students finish in four years, attracting students from other colleges who return to Chicago in the summer, etc.

Letter to the Editor

The start of the Spring Term affords opportunity to express overdue recognition for the numerous instances of student and staff generosity in time and energy expended in volunteer community service. An impressive response to the December appeal for clothing for the needy and homeless ended up in the quiet back yard of the residence. Contribute to the those who can and deeply appreciate them—through Dearborn House philanthropy, the Salvation Army and other shelters—continues.

Further examples of volunteer projects can be cited among the various student organizations, honorary societies, residence hall groups, ROTC, fraternities and sororities. At the end of February, the Blood Bank facilities of Life Source will be on campus. Details of sponsorship and registration will be set forth coming.

Other charitable causes such as medical research and support systems coping with muscular dystrophy, cancer, multiple sclerosis, diabetes and therapeutic/prosthetic care have handshaded to engaged IIT students among the above-mentioned groups. Citations of distinction are not the only benefit accruing to our campus. The impact on their spirit and heightened consciousness of living relationships will remain forever.

From the Newsdesk

by John Abbott

Okay, so maybe you've noticed. The paper looks different. Not just the red print, I mean, but the whole thing. We're trying to improve the paper in a number of different ways. We're trying to make it so that you actually want to read the paper rather than read the paper because you have nothing better to do. We're trying to not only cover IIT, but also an attempt to educate you on things that you might not be aware of.

Last week we ran a "no apology" story on the front of our paper. "What does it mean?" a few people asked. Outside of the literal interpretation? Nothing. The idea was to get you to ask why it was there. Here we have gathered some of the finest minds in the state, and yet the students are reluctant to ask difficult questions. Why does "right wing" strike a student's nerves? E. Schadn asks.

You get the point. On the front of this week's paper, we are covering the majortals candidates. Even if you don't agree with my assessment of the people running for office, please take note of who's running. We will be focusing on each candidate as the election approaches to try to give you another point of view for upcoming days. At times, my writing may become controversial to some. Please remember, when I say that it's my opinion, that's what I mean.

But don't be afraid to ask why.

Oops, We Fooled!

By John Abbott

Technology News wishes to extend an apology to both Dr. Francisco Ruiz and to Dr. Henry Stark. We accidentally ran Dr. Stark's photo where Dr. Ruiz's should have been. Dr. Ruiz has received the Danasawa Award from the International Conference on Liquid Atomization and Spray Systems (ICLASS). Dr. Henry Stark has been elected a Fellow by the board of directors of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE). We congratulate these men on their achievements and apologize for our mistakes. We hope that this mistake did not confuse their students - yes, you are in the right class.

BUSCH GARDENS
THE DARK CONTINENT
TAMPA, FLORIDA
LAST WEEKS QUESTION:
WHEN (SEASON AND YEAR) DID THE MAIN BUILDING LOSE ITS SOUTH ATTIC TOWER?

ANSWER

The attic tower burned and was torn down in winter 1947-48. Since the blaze occurred during semester break, no official record in the news exists of the story behind it, although an alumnus recalls that it started in the fifth floor drafting room.

Main Building itself is the original home of the Armour Institute, founded by Philip Danforth Armour in 1890 on the condition that Frank Wakely Gunsaulus, the eloquent young minister who delivered the "Million Dollar Sermon" inspiring its birth, assume the presidency. Mr. Armour set a pragmatic tone for the school -- and made the front page in Chicago papers -- by declaring the "the religion of Armour Institute will be 16 ounces to the pound, but denominational; and it makes no difference to me whether its converts are baptized in a soup bowl, a pond, or the Chicago River."

The cornerstone for the building was laid in 1891, with completion in 1893. A five-story brick building, Romanesque in style with Norman windows, it was designed by Chicago architects Patten and Fisher. The commemorative window (painted at right) overlooks the lobby of Main Building. The center panel depicts a young man who takes a crown of triumph from the altar of fame, while the two female figures on either side represent Heat, Light, Gravity, and Motion; they suggest that the forces of Nature, if used wisely, can be of great assistance to the ambitious striving for success. Frank Wakely Gunsaulus, represented in the plaque described at right, in many ways personified success. Preacher, educator, lecturer, author, novelist, historian, and collector of rare books and art, Frank Gunsaulus was so well known in his time that thousands would gather to hear him preach at the Auditorium Theater. "The instant that he appeared before an audience and before he had spoken a word, every eye was riveted upon him... his listeners would sit spellbound under the charm of a consummate artist, one whose medium was the spoken word."

On Armour Institute's Opening Day -- Thursday, September 14, 1893 -- the school was flooded with unanticipated applicants. Original estimates of 800 students were revised upward to 400 over the course of the summer -- then upped by an additional 1200 young men and women who applied for admission that day! By mid-afternoon, the new President was off to find more teachers for the 700 admitted students. Armour's largest departments in 1893 were Domestic Arts, with 100 girls, and Engineering, with 80 boys.

Well, it's finally here, the triumphant return of the unknown reviewers that you may or may not have been waiting for. Whether you like them or not, you have to think of them as the bands keeping playing, and from the looks of the schedule, we'll at least last one more semester.

The concert started out with the return of The Famous Vacationers, a band that played many times in the Dog. About the only thing I can really say about that Thursday was it was very strange. It was strange in a couple of ways. First, for a band that has played here many times, and with us a good reception, it just didn't seem to interact with the crowd at the Dog. They played some of their usual songs like "Not Fade Away," but didn't seem to receive as well as usual. There were people complaining that the band sucked, but I couldn't understand why, if they were good, why didn't they do it? Why, if they thought they did that much, they didn't just leave? Personally, I enjoyed the reggae sound that they had. My only complaint with the band was that they didn't seem to respect the people who enjoyed the music they played. They had a couple of dood jocks on guitar, harmonica and keyboard, and started the show with the attitude of just 'havin' fun.'

The new Unknown Reviewers ratings scale, from this reviewer gives the band one thumbs up. I liked the music they played and thought they played it well, but they just didn't seem to have what it looked to shut up the obnoxious people.

Looking at the rest of the schedule for Bob's bands, it looks like it should be a good one. Some of the bands returning, like Shudd 'n' Drive, Ryngg, and Smasht Alley (remember Moe), along with some new bands, like the band UFO, and hopefully existing bands like such as Risk, Decades, and Crack'd Act. It looks like it will be a wild and entertaining semester in the Bog, with lots of singing and dancing, but only if you show up. I know I won't miss a show.

THE DUDE ON THE RIGHT.

Yes, we're back again. The Unknown Reviewers are back and better than ever. This semester we're going to tell you all about the bands you're missing if you're not at the Bog on Thursday night.

The first Bog band of the semester was an old favorite, The Famous Vacationers. They were definitely a party band, with a lot of energy, from the great harmonica jams to the guitar solos these guys showed real talent, and their reggae sound was a nice change of pace to the normal band sound. The major problem with this band is they didn't know how to deal with a loud Bog crowd. They tried to put down some of the people who were h e e c k i n g them, and I think that really gave the crowd the bad attitude about the band. One other thing I didn't like about this band is that they wasted too much time between songs. Some joking around a good deal, and keeps the crowd in the show, but after a while it got old, and the crowd got on the Unknown Reviewer rating scale I give The Famous Vacationers one thumb up because I rate the bands on how they sound more than how they interact with the crowd. They played very well, with a mix of old songs and original pieces. That's a total of two thumbs up from both of us, which means they were a good enjoyable band, but they could have been better.

I personally can't wait for some of these bands. Union Board has gone out of their way to get what seems to be a good mix of old favorites, like Shudd 'n' Drive, Ryngg, and a lot of new names like Crack'd Act, and Decades. All and all, this semester concert series should be a lot of promise, and I hope to see the Bog full on Thursday nights. That's all until next week, when we review a new band, Double Exposure.

The events listed in here are planned for you. The only way Winter Fest '89 will be a huge success is if you participate in and support the events. The purpose of this Winter Festival is to have fun. The events have been planned by IIT students for IIT students. Times listed in here are the starting times for the events. If you wish to participate, please arrive at the time listed. Spectators are welcomed for all events. Prizes will either be awarded at the dance or at the basketball game on Saturday. If you are not available to pick up your prize at the time it is awarded, it will be available in the Dean of Students Office after Tuesday, Feb 14, 1989.

A skating rink is being operated on the tennis courts north of the Commons Building for general use during Winter Fest. The rules of the rink are common courtesy and skating is at your own risk. You need to provide your own ice skates. For some events, which snow would be necessary for, an alternate has been planned.

Denoted by an (*).

Advance registration for events will occur the week before Winter Fest 89 (Jan 30 - Feb 3). You may pre-register Monday - Friday in the Hub from 12 - 3pm and in the Residence Hall Cafeteria from 4:45 - 6pm. The event will say if advance registration is necessary.

At the Dance, the Winter Fest Committee will crown a Tech Nerd King and Queen. To enter, there is a form to fill out which you would submit with a picture at advance registration. We can also take your picture. Cash prizes will be awarded. Five finalists for each will be allowed to compete.

Those invited to participate are the students, faculty and staff of the Illinois Institute of Technology, VanderCook College of Music, and Illinois College of Optometry.

Thank you for participating and enjoy the Winter Fest 89.

Students Wins IEEE Award

A project proposal "Natural Control of a Robotic Arm," entered by the ITI Student Branch of IEEE, has won an international IEEE award, a 1989-90. The award is an IEEE-Renex Award of Allied-Signal, Inc. The ITI Student Branch was one of nine worldwide to receive an award this year, one in Canada, and two in India. A Renex award, provides up to $500 for construction materials for a winning proposal, which is judged on the basis of importance of the project, clarity of presentation, and quality of the work. Awards were given to students for their contributions to advancement of students' experience at the forefront of their fields. By Jan. 30, the ITI Branch will receive a check for precisely the amount requested, $456.54. The low cost stems from the invention to build the cheapest arm ever, one used to study problems of controlling "natural robots."

The arm will be built by a freshman, Chris Chappell, who in high school, won many awards from NASA, USAF, and Navy and the IEEE Jets Award at Minnesota Science Fairs and the International Science Fair. He represented his state at the Lawrence Livermore Supernumerary Honors Program and at the NIH Centennial Scholarship Program in Washington, and was President of the Minnesota Junior Academy of Science.

The award was announced in a letter to Prof. Jafer Sanie of ECE, Counselor of the ITI Branch, from the Chairman of the Bendix award Committee of IEEE, Dr. Peter Gehmlich.

The work will be backed up by research on human movement by students, Ramasamy Harirahani (CS) and Jim Joniat (ECE) in Prof. Robert Jaeger's laboratory at Pratt Institute, and work on "natural robots" by Prof. Peter Greene. The controller will use dynamics and artificial intelligence programs developed by Greene's students: Al Knuts, Peter Kibyewicz, Jeff Krom, Don Muehow, Don Solomon, Yong-Chen Zhu, and others.

Greene explains natural robotics with an example. If you are righthanded, hold a pen in your left hand and try to write upside down and backwards. This is slow and confusing. Now hold a piece of paper horizontally in front of you and write normally—but do it by holding the pen still and moving the paper underneath. If you do this fast, without thinking, it is easy, and it feels like normal writing. Note that your left hand is moving almost the same as when it wrote upside down and backwards, but you are no longer confused. Now take away the paper and try UNLESS CHECK, your right hand doesn't even know how to get started.

This shows that difficulty doesn't just depend upon the movement itself, but whether a plan for the movement can tap into information from well-developed action plans—here, the plan for normal writing, made to work by a plan for holding a tool against a workspace, in which two opposable thumbs control the mechanics, like one thinks about a movement determines which information structures it inherits to make it simple.

United Way Drive

In 1988 ITI United Way/ Crusade of Miami Campaign has raised more than $52,500, which according to Campaign Chairman Manny Fries.

"Our goal," Fries said, "we actually raised more than $52,500. This represents an increase of about 11 percent over the 1957 figures. Fries was gratified by the increased number of Fair Share and Fair Share Plus contributors.

Fries attributed our extraordinary success to the "wonderful generosity and compassion" of the members of the ITI community. "Our 473 contributors recognize that we have a responsibility to the 400 or so agencies supported by the United Way. These institutions help serve the unique human needs of Chicago and its suburbs," Fries and his associate, chairman, David Zasmer, "deeply appreciate the efforts—in some cases the sacrifices—of all who participated. The ITI campaign is a way to live up to a support of President Mayer Feldberg.

Fries said that he and Zasmer, who will chair next year's campaign, look forward to a far more improvement. "We want to reach out to faculty and staff who did not contribute this year. And we want a higher percentage of cards to be returned.

Although the 1988 campaign is virtually over, Fries pointed out that those who wish to contribute but have never got around to it may still return cards with contributions or pledges. They may return their cards to Prins, the Main Building, or to Zasmer, in the Department of Humanities (Life Sciences Building).
IFC Basketball

IFC Basketball is starting up shortly and the competition will be great for the first time in years. The leading contenders for the title are Pi Kappa Phi. The Kappas are led by junior guard Tim McCane who guides the all-star team last year. He is supported by sophomore swingmen Mike Mikula and Rick Biehl.

Alpha Epsilon Pi has finished fourth the last two years and appears ready to break into the top three this year. The team is returning all five starters, including two-time all-star forwards Doug Muller and center Keith Eberhardt.

Bob Apter and forward John Sodeika are good role players also. Theta Xi turned some heads last year and are a young up-and-coming team. Senior guard Yoan Kim is a two-time all star and lends stability to a team. Forward Bob Zwieg is a leading player for Theta Xi and they have an agreed-upon time frame.

Delta Tau Delta is the two-time defending champion but has been devastated by losses. Seniors all-star center Phil Leftridge and forward Brian Brands will lead the Delta quest for a third straight title. Sigma Phi Epsilon returns all but two key players from last year's team. Forwards Brian Salapetek and Dave Bulhuis will lead the Sig Eps as they reload with new players.

Alpha Sigma Phi will count on senior guard Cliff Westwood and junior center Ted Ewing for leadership as they go for their second basketball title after winning volleyball.

Forward Ken Oda will lead the Tau Epsilon Phi team. The Taps are one of the quicker teams on the quad. Guard John West will lead a rebuilding Phi Delta Kappa team.

Triangle will try to continue the strides it made last year. Juniors Mike Lohmann and Mike Duba will lead the Triangle team.
