It was just two months ago that part of the Spanish Army in Mexico was conduction a measure which had been long gestating in the heart of the nation. Last week, the situation seemed still uncertain. The Allied troops were still advancing, but the outcome of the conflict was far from clear. The victorious Allies were preparing for the next phase of their campaign, while the defeated Central Powers were accelerating their efforts to regain the initiative.

A S A P, Britain is resuming public orders of various types to involve the nation in a matter of national defense against its northern neighbor, Germany. The plans, which are part of a broad strategy, include the despatch of troops to the Baltic region, the establishment of a defensive line along the northern coast, and the building of a large fleet of warships. The British government has also been preparing for a possible invasion, and the country is bracing for the worst.

The British Admiralty, in a statement, announced that it had begun preparations for a possible invasion of the British Isles. The statement said that the Admiralty had been working on plans for several weeks, and that it was confident that it could meet any challenge that might be presented.

Meanwhile, in Berlin, the German government was also preparing for a possible invasion. The German military was undergoing a major reorganization, and the country was mobilizing its forces for a possible war. The German government was also working on plans to withstand any invasion, and the country was bracing for the worst.

Green Caps

Regulations for the wearing of green caps will be platonically made to the freshmen within the next few days. Briefly, they will be worn from the Freshman Handshake tomorrow night until Thanksgiving Day, and in the spring from about St. Patrick’s Day until the class rush of which more will be said later. The wearing of “pats” for freshmen has become the traditional rite of the first year of men on college campuses throughout the United States. Alarmed, some parents have felt that their sons will be subjected to the same fraternities that have existed in the past.

KALEIDOSCOPE

ALMOST EVERY PERSON has his own interpretation of any particular musical selection. Mr. Frania, who was a student here last year, said recently, "It’s a great pity that people don’t enjoy the music they listen to. It’s a pity to hear people say ‘Oh, that’s nice!’ and then go on with their conversation without giving it a moment’s consideration."

The CHILL of winter is in the air. City, country, and campus become less colorful as the days become colder. The snowpiles increase, the leaves drop and the trees become bare. The sound of the distant wind is heard more frequently, and the automobile becomes a more popular method of transportation.

The PROFESSIONAL is angry, furiously angry. There is no time for leisure, no time for relaxation, no time for thinking. The work must be done and done quickly. The professional man is under constant pressure to produce, to succeed, to win.

It is DIFFICULT to estimate the extent of the problem of world hunger. In some parts of the world, food is scarce and people are starving. In other parts, the problem is not as severe, but it is still a major concern.

The SOLOMONS PEACE is the peace that exists when there is no war. It is a state of peace that is maintained through diplomacy and negotiation. It is a time when nations are able to live together in harmony, without conflict or violence.

FALL INTERCLASS BASEBALL PLAY STARTS MONDAY

The Coming Week Will See Teams in Opden Field

FROST TO HAVE COACH

The coach of the hot meeting hill will consist again on Opden Field as the school as the other schools in the baseball league. The orders are to practice with the usual enthusiasm and strict adherence to the rules, and both teams will be expected to work on the days immediately following, and in the order received.

Bats, balls, equipment, uniforms, and teams will be furnished by the school through baseball managers Farley, and inter-school managers Harris, but participants must furnish their own uniforms, bats, and gloves. The rules in force last year will still hold, making ready for the official game to begin, collector to play the same position they held in their official game.

Big Tourny Crisp

All teams will be on any appreciation at all.

The games start a week from today with the home of the upper classmen. As the bat meets the ball, the thrill and excitement of the game is experienced.

North Central will have opportunity to win after winning the last year's victory, and its coach, Mr. Fairley, is in the midst of the game.

The games will be played on each school's home ground, and the games will be played on the same day.

In contrast to the previous years, the riders, the students, are expected to have a team that will win.
