"We're backing them up"

Marching right along with the armed forces of this country are thousands of telephone workers.

They work side by side with the Army and Navy. Wherever the need is communicated, you are likely to find telephone men and their tools and materials.

And where the order is for speed and more speed.

They wear no uniforms, these telephone workers, but men in uniform know how much they are putting into the Nation's biggest job. They see it first-hand and they know it first-rate.

After waiting half a day, and playing past the clock room clock, the students were not.

In the morning at 10 o'clock, Dorothy Samboula, representing the editors of TECHNOLOGY NEWS, handed the key to TECHNOLOGY NEWS over to the student lounge to the newly elected lounge manager, George D. L. Morse. Before a crowd of expectant, eager, wide-eyed students, who had been waiting along the crack of dawn to see the realization of their dreams, Morse, who is the manager of TECHNOLOGY NEWS, inserted the key and swung the door in a white graceful curve to reveal the elaborate lounge.

The maiden individual entered the bank in a good manner. In his gravel hand he held a check for $100. He approached the cashier's window and presented the check with a flourish. "Here, any good man," he said softly, "you'll badly cash this for me. And, mind you, I haven't any time to walk to the bank.

The cashier glanced up. He took the check, examined it, then routed into the change drawer and said, "Now you have it?" he asked. "Hoots or holler?"

AND THEN CAME THE WAR

The school was not in session, for on the last day the director made the announcement that the school would be closed. And, as the vultures hovered above, the students began to wonder when they would be able to return to their studies.

The principal, with a sneer on his face, said, "This is not the time for games."

But the students were not to be dissuaded. They continued to meet in small groups, discussing the war and attempting to find ways to contribute to the effort.

In the end, the school was able to continue, albeit with a changed atmosphere, as the students worked hard to support the war effort.

"the doctor explained that a well-known play was sometimes taken in hearing or reading the words "embalming" because most of the doctors who heard it were, in fact, concerned with moral problems of priests, priests, priests, and priests."

In the technology news, there was a sensation. The new "Bee" computer, developed by the scientists of the new field of "computer science," was expected to revolutionize medical practice. The "Bee" was a compact, lightweight device that could be used to monitor vital signs in real-time, providing doctors with a wealth of information about their patients.

According to the physician, the "Bee" would allow doctors to make more accurate diagnoses and provide timely treatment. The device was expected to be widely adopted by hospitals and medical professionals worldwide.

The "Bee" was unveiled at a conference of the American Medical Association, where thousands of doctors and medical professionals gathered to discuss the latest innovations in medicine. The device was met with much excitement and anticipation, as the potential benefits of the "Bee" were hailed as revolutionary.

As the conference drew to a close, the organizers announced that the "Bee" would be available for pre-order immediately, with delivery expected within the next few weeks. The reaction from the medical community was one of enthusiasm and excitement, as the "Bee" promised to revolutionize the way medicine was practiced.

although originally the spies had planned to work at both the armory and lawns campuses, they finally decided that it would only be possible to carry on their subversive activities at armory because of the noise made by lawns workers. As everyone knows, spaying requires absolute quiet.

during the first few weeks of their subversive work at armory, the saboteurs encountered many difficulties; principle among these was the unwillingness of the sophomores to despise the fact after the sabo-turers had dug small holes in garden field just large enough to accommodate a person’s fist up to the middle of their thigh. The sophomores who cooperated discarded their plans to make the fact and sophs subsisted on urgent newspaper.

LETTER FROM JOHN SCHUMAN

...in view of this, students will...

1) wear a complete uniform at all times when on campus, this will consist of a slide rule case (minus slide rule), full cigarette case, tobacco pipe, and pipe, and pant, the last item is optional for freshmen at the discretion of the sophomores.

2) be provided with a secretary, one secretary to each student, this will not only cut down on the time that students waste upon clerical work, but will enable them to make better use of their spare time.

3) be paid $100 per month to attend the institute, this does not mean that they must attend classes to earn their pay, attendance at classes is optional.

4) refrain from engaging in intercollegiate battles on campus, such activities tend to develop the student’s psychology to such an extent that it is liable to be physically, although probably not mentally, eligible to call in the draft.

5) refrain from carrying books and all other instruments of subversion about the campus, all students are urgently requested to destroy any such articles they may have at home that fall into the above classification.

LEWIS WRITERS CAGEY

In close proximity to the pane-hallician council's moorhen quarters lies the publication office, this monument were pernicious. In fact it is so close that it lends this water to wonder how the illustrious pant wheels can settle so nobly with such companionsof calamity and phrenology, the staff really can spread the dirt, having had the real work of a more important nature, the spreading of the dirt which is done at high hours is important, of course, and in time even necessarily which adds to the atmosphere of the sixth floor but the scientific accomplishments are of the greater importance.

The members of TECHNOLOGY NEWS all have little cages in which they do their duty, but at times they go on a rampage and publish long, heavy articles, etc., which cause the office staff usually to spend the greater part of their lives confined to these quarters, although sometimes from them they bow to the building to see what they can see, one of them in recent days gave up dejo que and wrote quite a run for his money or what have you. It seems that this staff member, who was quite a little fellow, had the valiant to take a powder on 14th and tried to run out on him. Joe messed up Bob's psyche to quite a good end, in attempting to catch this elusive little worker, and after much moving of equipment and calls sounding like, "the lamp to the wild sunlight," the staff member was captured.

This is just a graphic example of the hazards and terrors that these ancient little fellows encounter in their fight for the right of a free press. In other cases we have reason to believe that many of the deaths of these workers of the office have been caused by malicious inroad of idle workers who have been waiting to wish them well and bring them to the office staff as they worked late at night, while we are on the limb of right work we must consider on the rate of return of the night editor and staff especially when they get posted on the loose, after a bit of meditations we recall it is against the policy of TECHNOLOGY NEWS to reveal these secrets of office routine, therefore we will not enlarge on this, or in other words, nul said.

And now in this final paragraph we are going to tell one of the things you no doubt have been wondering about, according to rogue's gallery stories that circulate in the city, the criminals observed—would be greatly unfair to those who are editors of newspapers, but, again, would err only on the side of superfluous outcome. We might say that Mr. Farrell's tastes is in his feet, mouth, and one word censored.

EAST, MO. — We're out in the slush and snow of this frozen Missouri winter with the Federal unemployment figures. But that's not the problem. The problem is how to keep the men warm enough to carry out the work.

The Tuskegee Airmen, the only all-black aviation unit in the armed forces, have been working under these conditions for the last few weeks. They're trying to keep the planes flying, but there's little room for comfort.

The men have been working in the snow and cold for hours on end, and they're starting to feel the effects. But they're determined to continue.

The Tuskegee Airmen have a long history of service to the country. They were formed during World War II to combat the racism and discrimination that was prevalent in the military at the time. They were an inspiration to many, and their legacy lives on to this day.

The Tuskegee Airmen didn't just fight for their country. They also fought for their place in the military, and for the rights of all African Americans.

The Tuskegee Airmen are an inspiration to all Americans. They showed that no matter what the odds, we can overcome. And they continue to inspire us today.
YES, Camels are milder—milder in every way. When you light up a Camel, you have the scientific assurance of less nicotine in the smoke.

And no matter how much you smoke, you’ll find Camels—with their full, rich flavor—never wear out their welcome. Camels really taste good. From the first puff through the last puff in the pack, Camels give you smoking pleasure at its finest—better than you enjoy it.

They’re the campus favorite (according to country-wide surveys) . . . they’ll be your favorite when you try them.

The smoke of slower-burning Camels contains 28% LESS NICOTINE than the average of the 4 other largest-selling cigarettes tested—less than any of them—according to independent scientific tests of the smoke itself.
