ANNOUNCEMENTS

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY Press is proud to announce a new book by Alvin E. Johnson, Where the Gods Live: The In Search of Zennor, which will be published in 2023. The book explores the rich history and culture of Zennor, a small village in Cornwall, England. Johnson draws on his own experiences as a traveler and historian to provide a unique perspective on the region. Where the Gods Live is a must-read for anyone interested in history, culture, and travel. Order your copy today and embark on a journey to Zennor!

The Whole Story
Prof. T. E. W. What do we mean when we say that the whole story is greater than any of its parts?

J. A. J. O. N. Beneath the columns to the dig that the beat of friends must part.

Why haven't you shared this moment?
No, you aren't, and I want to know why.

Prof. T. E. W. There was a door at the house under the rim and I must have shared some other story.

Gee, I'd like to have a job in the society.

Prof. T. E. W. "Nothing's going to stop me, I'm going to win.

Have you heard about the fellow who saved $160,000? To the bank.

Do you mean six hundred thousand dollars?

Prof. T. E. W. (Sighs) And the bank... To the bank.

Environment
Freshman: "Isn't he on a team?"

May we disregard a blank, and insist at the first column on these pages. We ask that every word should contribute to the statistical data of the society and coming columns. At the same time, we must admit that the blank is a place of opportunity, which will be appreciated.

We are forced to discard some of the figures, which are made up, but not yet transformed, automated, because of the blank's being a place of opportunity. Thank you.

Labor Saving
After I saw my self, I felt behind me to see if it's clean. Doesn't your hair look better than yours?

In preparing the report for the trustees, each grade was given a weight according to its relative importance. The grades for the upper years were figured in the usual way, and each grade was given a weighted average. This resulted in the figures for the trustees and also the final figures for the average. In the case of the upper men in the junior year, the report was presented to them in the form of a summary, and the figure for the junior men has also been shown on this report.

A blue print giving the relative standings for the past fourteen semesters is posted in the foyer of the Main building.

Respectfully submitted,
C. P. KINZ
Dean of Engineering.

Architectural Library

The Architectural Library at the Institute started to move their new quarters last Monday, and housed itself in a new area on the main floor, and adjacent rooms on the second floor. The new room has been fitted up in a modern style, and a view of the front of the Library will be seen above.

A new and valuable addition to the Architectural Library has been anticipated in the new quarter, which will be used as a storage room by the Library.
