17 Men Left in Honor Elections; 8 Will Be Selected in Finals Friday

Students Given First Chance to Elect Board After Two Semesters Under Honor System

Several candidates were still in the running after the first Honor Board election ballots were counted, dwindling the field drastically from the original forty-six selected by the hands of the several departments on the south campus.

This election, the first to give the students body the choice of representatives on the Honor Board, was conducted under a system submitted by the retiring board for ITSA approval only last Tuesday, and resulted in an election different from any other conducted on this campus in the past.

In most cases, even the candidates themselves were aware that their names were on the ballots, and indirected their choice from a list they were seeing for the first time.

The results found six students remaining in both the senior and junior classes, and five in the sophomore class; the extras came from the upper two classes, and five from the seniors class in the final election.

Schommers Requests Student Cooperation

John 2. Schommers, director of public relations, the following requests of students:

1. All freshmen who are selected to be in the bulletin board for interview purposes, should be in with his office.

1. Donors who wish to be in the bulletin board for interview purposes, should be in his office.

1. Those who do not wish to be in the bulletin board for interview purposes, should be in his office.

To Teach—Learn to Teach

eighty percent of the IIT teaching staff would not be permitted to teach in Illinois High Schools.

Why?

They have not taken courses in “how to manage.”

A “limited teaching high school certificate” requires a “bachelor’s degree attended by one semester in education,” according to the Illinois School Directory, 1940-1941.

Included in these 154 hours of education are courses in psychology, and special methods and supervised practice teaching in the field to be taught.

Every student here has had experience with IIT teaching staff who seem to know their subject but not how to get across to their classes in a manner that forces them to attempt to drive the lesson home to the student results in a situation very closely akin to that illustrated by the absent war worker: an instructor physically present but unable to fulfill his function, is of no more value than a riveter on an extended vacation.

That’s the problem—what is the solution?

Teaching ability of his staff is the direct responsibility of each department head. Since, on the average, his staff has never heard how to teach, and since it would be a waste of time to check his teachers on their techniques of teaching, he should be informed of their progress, and also informed of the latest developments in the field of education.

Two direct methods present themselves to the department head: (1) He could be a friend of the students so that they would come to him with their teacher troubles; (2) He could sit in on classes to determine if his staff is putting the subject across to the students.

How many department heads have tried either?

A three-credit hour course in teaching, educational psychology, and educational leadership might prove a fourth remedy.

All four remedies are needed; the third one—finances—the fourth must wait until the war is over.

Department heads, why not give the first two suggestions some serious consideration?

A collection of old and rare typewriters is on exhibit at Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana. The collection includes twenty machines, once very popular, but now slightly out-dated. Among the typewriters, there are three Hammond models with circular keyboards; two Model 2 Remingtons that have wooden keys and shift.
STUDYING FOUNDATIONS OF MATH, Climbing to Heights All in Life of Dr. Busemann

By JERRY LANDMAN

Need someone who can speak Arabic?

If so, then Dr. Herbert Busemann, assistant professor of mathematics, is the man.

Everyone knows that Dr. Busemann can solve math problems, but do you know that he likewise is a master of numerous linguistics problems? In addition to his duties as professor, he has worked with all the Slavonic languages, the Scandinavian languages, and the languages of the Far East, in addition, Greek is no mystery to him.

Investigating the foundations of modern geometry is his principal interest. Early in his career as a mathematician, Dr. Busemann introduced modern concepts of metrization into the foundations of geometry, and much of his work has been in this field.

And while his real mathematical interests depart from the foundations, he has another occupation that takes him to the heights. He is a bird lover, and he has made acquaintances with many of the rarer birds of the world. Dr. Busemann expresses the belief that there is no bird in Europe that he would not find far more formidable obstacles that faced by the hander in Silesia.

A native of Germany, Dr. Busemann received the title of his education in this country. After receiving his Ph.D. from the University of Breslau in 1912, he won the two world's championships in mathematics, and in 1918, he received the appointment of visiting lecturer at the University of Grenoble in 1922.

His transfer to Denmark was influenced by the coming into power of the Nazi party. While at the University, he was elected chairman of the Danish Academy of science, and during the period of his association with that institution, he worked in the field of modern geometry.

One of the significant contributions he has made is his theory of the elements of geometry, which has been recognized as one of the great advances in the field of modern geometry. He is now a member of the scientific staff of the Danish Academy of Sciences.

His home is a small cottage, and his leisure hours are spent in the study. His hobbies include reading, chess, and gardening.

Chicago—Army Men—Chicago Belongs to You

This column doesn't wish to repeat itself, and it is going to be launched into a recital of all the things that are going for the soldier— and so far—in Chicago. These matters were well covered in this column two weeks ago, and it is suggested that interested men arm men get hold of this issue of The Week's News.

This column was headed "Every Town Has Its War Hero and That's Just about the Truth." Your uniform is good for about everything except a cheap withdrawal from the local bank—and with your 50c-a-week stipend, you don't need that, do you?

THREE daily Brooklyn Dodgers will be in town this week. They play the Chicago Cubs on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. As everyone knows, anything can happen and usually does when the Cubs are in town.

And if anyone is wondering about when they'll be able to see the World Champions St. Louis Cardinals in action here, they have a long wait. The Cardinals won't play in Chicago until September 19, 10 and 11. Or if the New York Yankees are preceded, a wait until August 18, 19 and 20 will be all that is necessary.

SATURDAY night in Oyster Bay is the New York Giants vs. "Cincinnati" will be played at Soldiers' Field this week. Those who attended "Ade" last Saturday are sure to agree that these indeed are worthwhile occasions.

As are the outdoor concerts at Bronx and Griffith Park, away from the city, the concert is for those who need it.

The Great White concerts are held every night in the week, as well as on Saturday and Sunday.

On Wednesday last, Vivian Harper's out of "Chicago's" (Demes, Olive Roth, O'Malley, Rees and "Jungle Al" Weber) rendezvous in a well-known restaurant. Rees is in the report. He said "Bingham Jull," "Lovel's Old Soot Song," "Bobby," etc. The composers were all pleased with the reception that, among other things, two new songs were thrown in the general direction of the group.

Reflecting on the recent events, Vivian Harper's out of "Chicago's" plowed seven shelves at Mabel Gable's tavern last Friday. Beer and potatoes were in Snake's home in a hearty fashion for their custom. "Jungle Al" Harper, president, attended to the details. Plesno Tom, Warren Forest, Louis Roberts and Angelrobes added from the quarter to the general excitement. Snakes and "Jungle Al" were of the same opinion that the song, "Daddy," written with Mabel Gable in eight nights, and up and down the street, was a smashing one, according to the offices of the Place Bemar. He was walking with her the other day, hand in hand, and judging from the facial look in their faces, they were talking about civil engineering.

Cliff Oliver, driving hard for the presidency of Phi Epsilon Kappa, had time to stop by the cafe. He is especially susceptible to horn-rimmed glasses and plain-lighted hair.

Latest report on Ulysse Beckey's "pig-a-lot" romance finds Dan O'Connell, out of telephone demerit as the fourth leader of the tri-angle.

Bill Piney, individually famous, has achieved his views accordingly. Before the time the nineth line was the best but now he has returned to the familiar "pigeon-hole" technique. This was evident in his recent letter.

Red Frazer is on fire and no Irish red-headed beauty by the name of Harriet Jones (telephone number unknown), bears a close resemblance to Grace Garett. They are inseparable, and the neighbors are saying that no other girl has a chance. But no one knows what the future holds, and those who have heard him were deadly silent.

La每人, who is known for his superior class, from president down, is the same model. This is not to say that he is a model but rather a model.

"Keep it" says Kingfish, dashing young civil at the freshmorn class, and with a good-time conviviality, "Keep it" says Bernhard, "and these three minutes will bring you the change with you will walk away tonight.

If you don't think this will be a good time of it or that you value your job, you can leave the hospital right away.

Jasem van Sustem spices his twenties withfiltering minutes talking to Mary Palmer very often. Night at seven and deputy at eight. It is the telephone love life of the east of the house.

Personal to Bill Onos, a fellow who has been telling you "here comes the C.O." and then every other year when you have some change than either "Swede" Richard and "Blond" Hillman. The little of the "on-the-knee" Gold-Nabob Dormer who had been a regular at the "on-the-knee" Gold-Nabob Dormer, was spotted by George Schober. Theخام lên of house 4, "Lovver" Spankling, has been spotted by George Schober again. "Lovver" Spankling, who was spotted by George Schober. The arrival of Yvonne's pictures filled the place with laughter. Jonathan, who was a part of the group, has given up all hope of doing this drill right Moore.

Crawley—a group of workmen turned deaf for a day fully did the impossible. They removed the height of the all the five floors of the building and the work was done by hand. It was not so much the height that the members of the group were pleased with the job, but the height and the speed. Bert Anderson, Ben Wilner and Bert Storck, who were in charge of the job, were pleased.

When Donald Dow was confronted with such a job and asked what his name would be, he said, "Taking this thing, it is in the average classroom there are approximately two gallons of water vapor," said Paddy Dow, the principal, "but we're happy to be a part of the job and doing the vapor in lavatory."
Honor I Becomes Honor "Ouch" for 7 Who Become Bloomer Girls for Week

Honor I, the student who held the 29th plaque in the intramural softball tournament, will be honored Friday night for the seventh place in the event. As a token of appreciation, the plaque will be presented to her by 7 of the 8 members of the Intramural softball committee.

The seven members of the committee are: Jane Johnson, president; Mary Brown, treasurer; Margaret Green, secretary; Dorothy White, publicity; Irene Smith, equipment manager; and Barbara Jones, 2nd vice-president. The seventh place was awarded to the team because they were the only team that had never before won a place in the intramural tournament.

ITSA Fencers Unite: Bruno to Coach

The ITSA fencing team will be coached by Harry H. Brown, former member of the fencing club. His coaching duties will begin Wednesday and continue through Thursday afternoon from 6 to 7 p.m. in the basement of the Tech. All equipment and instruments will be furnished to the team members. No fees will be charged.

On the east side of the Armoury campus, in back of Chapin Hall, stands a small fence. This fence serves as a barrier of sorts to the Tech field that is separated from the Armoury by a wall. In this fence there is a small box that has been used as a storage area for the Tech field. The box has been repurposed to serve as a bench for the Tech field. The box has been refinished and repainted to match the Tech field. The box has been repurposed to serve as a storage area for the Tech field. Lease, Co-Op Director, Leaves Illinois Tech After 7 Years

After seven years as Illinois Institute of Technology's lease, co-op director, Mr. Lewis, has resigned. The decision to leave was made after a careful consideration of the overall situation. Mr. Lewis has held the position for seven years and has served the students, faculty, and staff well. He has worked tirelessly to ensure that the co-op program continues to thrive.

Mr. Lewis will be missed, but the co-op program will continue to flourish under the leadership of the new director. The co-op program is an integral part of the Illinois Institute of Technology, providing students with valuable hands-on experience and valuable skills.

Engineering Manpower Reaches All-Time Low

The engineering manpower pool at Illinois Institute of Technology has reached all-time low. The reasons for this are complex and multifaceted. One factor that contributed to this situation is the decline in the number of engineering students graduating from Illinois Institute of Technology. Another factor is the increasing demand for engineers in the marketplace.

Arrival of Second Contingent Finishes Trek from Texas

Two hundred and sixty were the number of soldiers to be stationed at Illinois Tech to begin their course of training in mathematics and science in September. The arrival of this group marks the completion of the second contingent, bringing the total number of men stationed here to 680, 210 leaving July 15.

IIT has leased the hospital building for use as a temporary officer's quarters for the first contingent until the completion of the permanent quarters for the second contingent. The men are expected to move into their new quarters by August 15.

Music Clubs Plan Outdoor Concerts

Organizations of IIT's two music clubs, the orchestra and glee club, are this week preparing for the summer outdoor concerts which will be held every Wednesday, according to A. Gordon Irwin, musical director. In the orchestra, there is a need for high tenors, and in the glee club for persons who can play string instruments, states Mr. Irwin. Any student who is interested in playing violin, cello, or other instruments, should report to Mr. Irwin in the Department of Music.

THE BEAT OF TROUBLE

The voice of our C. T. A. wrote to the Raymond to burlesque, told the Band on the bandstand to proceed, and all the boys to stand on the gravy. The burlesque then proceeded to be a bare-boned affair. The crooners sang the songs with a laugh and the band got to their feet with the yell, "Norton Puffinette still gay to your old schoolmates!"

"Do you still see that little blonde you used to go with before you were conscripted?"

"No, I haven't seen her since you were conscripted.

"Why?"

"Because she's married now.

"No, it's not true.

"Don't worry dear, I'm just being facetious.
