House Un-American Committee Called 'Threat To Basic Political Rights'

By Donald W. Swett

The freedom to assemble and to associate with others in the accomplishment of political purposes is considered a basic American political right. It is one of the things we sacrifice when we criticize totalitarian regimes.

The House Un-American Activities Committee, through the device of "investigation," has blackballed individuals as "subversives" in the exercise of their political rights.

Last fall, the Committee held a public investigation of "Red" influence in Hollywood. Two screen writers were arrested for contempt of Congress when they refused to answer questions as to whether or not they were Communists. Their case is now pending in the Federal Courts.

As explained in this issue last week, the Power of Congress to investigate is a part of its legislative power. It is necessary to get information in order to legislate intelligently. But this Committee is not interested in legislation. It has been "investigating" for nearly twelve years, and it has yet to prove a piece of legislation.

It aims seem to be the identification of disloyal political opinion. The Hollywood case is a good example.

Slipstick

I'm smoking a pipe with an 11% job, John. My dog is kind of a stay away from tobacco.

Mama Robb: "How did that spiny-backed fry get into your mouth?"

Me: "I don't know."

A crystal glass is addressing one of his employees: "You will be poor and unhappy until you are 40." What about that?

"Don't let it get to you.

A word of advice for our female readers: Never let a bad kiss and never let a kiss fool you.

"I'm looking for the captain of this boat." Not a problem. What's the problem?

"Oh, I don't mind. This is a pleasure trip."

Discussing the coming Easter from two students were overheard: "Jerry: My girl is going to wear a lilac gown to the formal."

Larry: "What do you mean, lilac gown?"

Jerry: "Oh, you know, sort of new and Spanish."

A farmer, noticing the blind man with a lantern, asked where he was going.

"Courts! With a lantern? I never took one when I was courts."

"Yeah, and look what you got."

Senior: "Hello, are you having school?"

Freshman: Yeah, the doctor's advice.

Senior: "Which one?"

Prophets: Dr. Gibson.

Q: "Guile! We are now passing the oldest ruin house in England.

American: Why."

SCHOOL'S OUT

All classes will be excused for the spring recess which begins tomorrow and ends Saturday. Classes will be resumed again on Monday.
Underwriters' Labs Set High Standards

"Tested for Safety—Underwriters' Laboratories," are words familiar to both the fire and insurance worlds. Equally familiar words are those which appear in a letter of the National Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., written to the editor of the Daily News.

In several years of its operation, the Laboratories has been able to provide its services to many companies, including those that manufacture products for sale in the United States. The company is responsible for ensuring that these products meet safety standards.

Trate Student Claims Independent Senior Survey Does Not Represent Majority

Dear Sir:

I am sorry Mr. Louis Fisher, the student running against Kim Trate, has finally dropped his efforts. This student's publicity has been shown to be more than just a publicity stunt, but it has caused harm to the community. Fisher's efforts have been more about publicity than about the issues that matter to students.

Yours sincerely,

A Student at the University

All School Dance To Be Sponsored

By Phi Beta Pi's

Phi Beta Pi, a social organization, will sponsor its first all-school dance, "Phi Beta Pi's, at 8 p.m. on April 2, in the gymnasium. "Dancing will be to swing music, with prizes for the winners." The dance will be open to all students and tables will be set up in the gymnasium.

Dancing will go on till midnight. Admission is free. Non-admission is prohibited, and will result in the suspension of class activities.

As an example of the importance of music, the school will present a special music program, with a variety of music played by the school orchestra.

Heike Theory

Dear Sir:

In this issue of the student newspaper, there was an article about the history of the university. It is interesting, but hardly an accurate description of the true history.

4. Government interventions are a necessary evil in a democratic society. Heike's theory is just as wrong as the government's policies.

Yours sincerely,

Oldske And Sachs
In Check Throughout
By Larry Shaprio

After more than four months of waiting, Wolves Chemical's team finally won its first tournament, beating Oldske and Sachs in a closely fought match. The win was a welcome addition to the team's season, which had been marred by a string of losses.

The game was held at the U of I gym, where the Wolves and Oldske met for the first time. Despite being a new team, Wolves Chemical managed to hold their own against Oldske, who were the defending champions.

Sports Personality Of The Week
By Bob Lawrence

"UNCLE JOHN SCHOMMER blazes the ball for the first time at the International Tennis Championships." The words rang out over the loudspeakers as the crowd cheered for the local hero.

The match was a closely fought battle, with Schommer prevailing in the end. His quick reflexes and agility on the court were a sight to behold.

Coach Glancy Releases
ITT Baseball Schedule

"It's all about the players," said Coach Randy Glancy. "This year, we have a talented group of players who are ready to make their mark on the field." The schedule was announced last week, with games slated to begin next month.

The "Wizard's" are pacing themselves for the next match, where they hope to repeat their success from last season. The team is currently at the top of the league, with a record of 12-2.

Tech Seals Close Season with Four Wins, Seven Losses

"Interim swimming ended Saturday with the Tech Tankmen finishing third in the quadrangular meet at the U of I pool. This last engagement brought the Techs' total season record to 12 wins and 17 losses." The news was met with mixed reactions, with some expressing concern about the team's future.
Blonde Dynamo Captivates, Dominates—And Then Subjugates; She Competes With Men

By Bill Porphyri

Touching through one of the promotional pamphlets published by Illinois Tech, one is struck by the image of Pat Vadek that suddenly emerges. Pat Vadek is the only female member of the Lewis Institute Tau Beta Pi chapter. She is a blonde, but it is more than just her hair color. Pat Vadek is a dynamo in the truest sense of the word. She was recently co-valedictorian and is a member of the prestigious Sigma Lambda Tau honor society. Pat's success in academics and athletics have been well documented, and her story is one of inspiration and determination.

Pat Vadek No. 1

Pat Vadek is not your typical blonde. She is a strong-willed and independent woman who has overcome many obstacles to reach the top. She is a role model for young women everywhere.

Pat Vadek No. 2

Despite her many accomplishments, Pat remains humble and down-to-earth. She is a true inspiration to us all.

Newman Club Will Speak Hear CVO Speaker

Further arguments that Communism is fundamentally unchristian will be advanced by Robert Burns, director of public relations for the United States Senate, when he speaks before the Newman club at 6:30 p.m. in the Union on Thursday, April 18. The meeting of the club will be preceded by the regular opening stanzas of the club and the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting.

In his last lecture, Burns observed that Christianity is the only force strong enough to save the world. He spoke of the need for unity in the face of the common enemy. His message was a call to action for all who believe in the principles of Christianity.

Senior 'Rough Castings' Will Present Mimicry Of Fair Sex During Junior Week

Exhibits of great variety designed to interest even the more ordinary of individuals will be featured for visitors to Illinois Tech during Junior Week, April 21, 22, and 23.

The theme of the evening program on April 22 will be the presentation of a newly organized theatrical group on the campus to be known as the "Rough Castings." Similar to the all-male cast of the University of Illinois, this group will present a full-length musical production, a feature in acts in which the male participants will endeavor to impersonate rough men. Among the players will be members of the cast.

UMT Favored As Best Approach To Conscription Program

By Technology News Survey Staff

Selective service and the Marshall plan, the two most widely discussed issues at the national level today, were the subjects of this week's Technology News Survey.

The first question was:

Can the Marshall plan be used?

Yes, 87%, No, 13%, Undecided 4%

The second question was:

Do you think the U.S. should increase its aid to the Marshall area?

Yes, 84%, No, 15%, Undecided 1%

In the survey of 1,000 respondents in 10 different cities, the majority favored the Marshall plan, while a significant number of respondents were undecided. This indicates a growing support for the Marshall plan among the surveyed population.

NEWS IN BRIEF

FRATERNAL BROS.

Boder To Air Views In Radio Debate

David P. Boder, professor of physics and astronomy, presented his views on the question of the effects of the Marshall plan. He discussed the implications of the plan for the future of Russia and its neighbors.

The discussion was broadcast on local radio stations and received positive feedback from listeners. Boder's views were widely circulated in the press.

ALPHA SIGS CELEBRATE RELAYS WITH NIGHT-LONG JAMBOREE

The men of Alpha Sigma Phi celebrated their annual relay with a night-long jamboree. The event was held at the UMT Field House, and a large crowd attended the festivities. The relay was well-attended, with participants coming from various fraternities and sororities on campus.

The events were followed by a dance and a midnight buffet. The night-long jamboree was a popular event among the students, and it provided a great opportunity for socializing and friendly competition.

Veterans Keep Secretaries Busy

By John Poll
