ITSA Has a Busy Night; Eighth Annual Parents' Day CORE Chapter Approved Promises To Be A Success

by Dave Rynders

Wednesday's ITSA Board of Central meeting culminated in open discussion on the rampant quitting on ITT's campus. President Weland sought to draw Board members out about their ideas and suggestions for reversing the railroad station to the greater students in spirit-building activities.

The problem lies in the lack of promotion and selling of both ITSA and small group activity. If more of these activities were taken up, and not necessarily on a large social basis, students would begin to seek, and even more important, initiate, the kind of enjoyable activities that makes a campus "alive."

As committee reports came in, Steve Adelman announced that he hasn't read the committee's signature yet for the Chem 112 test schedule. Freshmen aren't doing much better by letting this opportunity to get themselves off the hook by a No of their hands. I'm told the elections commission election, chairman Strawn has only received any applications for joining the commission.

Applications for the following positions are being received in the Dean of Students Office, advising and counseling room. The Technology News, integral, The Tech Directory, and the student union and station manager of radio station WHIT. Applications should be turned in before 5 p.m., April 24.

Tom Wajerni has scheduled the fund raising dinner at K. F. Kondy Library on May 5. The Sophomore class planned a Pizza Night for April 26.

Three new groups, the India Association, the International Club, and CORE (Committee of Racial Equality) were recognized as independent organizations.

Dean Manktelow's budget program is progressing well. Weland encourages the Board to sustain interest in the project among students.

Prepare for Farewell; Poster Planed

A poster party on Monday will start the publicity campaign for the Senior Farewell. The party will be held from once until 9 p.m. in room 303 on the HUB mezzanine. Crayons and poster board will be provided by the Senior Class. All seniors and their guests are invited regardless of their artistic talents.

"The party is going to be two reasons," said Senior Class President Mike Archer. "First, I found that more seniors were not aware of what type of event the Senior Farewell is, and this will help set their attention to it. Second, the class has no other activities that the Senior Farewell has to promote their class event should help to build class spirit."

Arrangements have been made to hold the Farewell at the Shoreland Hotel on May 30th. The menu will include a meat entrée and will be provided by Ronnie Rogers and his band.

Negro Candidate for US President To Give Talk

Clifford DeBerry, Negro candidate for the United States on the Socialist Workers Party ticket, will speak at ITT in the HUB auditorium on Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. His topic will be "The Negro Challenge to the Present Social Order."

This lecture is sponsored by the Student Senate, the election union and the election campaign, and the importance of the Negroes "breathing politically from the Democratic and Republican's '64 election."

According to DeBerry, "I support Negro political action as exemplified by the formation of a Negro National Political Party and Malcolm X's call for a Black Nationalist Party."

According to Mike King, educational interest of American interest is to be nominated for President by a political party. Campaign workers expect to place him in the top ten states. He is already placed in Michigan, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. In his talk at ITT, DeBerry will analyze the main issue in the

Tech's College Bowl Appearance Is Rapidly Approaching; Final Preparations Are Now

Training is still in progress for the prospective members of the College Bowl team. With Tech's first appearance only a little over a week away, final selections and preparations are being made. Team coach Donald Martin said, "Training has been too busy to work with information. In the short time we have, we can do little to prepare the team members with new information upon which the questions will be based."

"Members had good general backgrounds plus a comprehensive knowledge of their specific area before they were accepted. Rather we train the contestants toward quick recall and precise answering of questions."

When the team is ready to play on April 26, they will be one of the technical teams. They will one-man's run with no lights, cameras, or makeup up, and one dress rehearsal with everything before the program (it is broadcast live) goes on the air.

Manson further explained, "We will select the team that we think is the best balanced one we can produce." Prospective team members must train daily for current events questions by reading at least one paper a day thoroughly, and reading Time or Newsweek every week.

As to our prospective opponent, Manson said, "We will play either Alfred University, or Westminster Polytechnic Institute, myself am hoping we meet Worchester Tech."

Tech's first appearance on the College Bowl is Sunday, April 26, 4:30 pm, Channel 5, in living color.
Letters to the Editor

Editor Is Challenged, Librarian Underfire, and Scranton Replies

Dear Dave,

As reported on page 3 of the Technology News, March 28, 1965, the administration of the Technology News is in a state of flux. The current editor, Dave Scranton, has been asked to resign by the Board of Directors. The new editor will be appointed by the Board of Directors.

The reasons for this change in leadership are unclear. However, it is clear that the administration of the Technology News is experiencing difficulties. The current editor, Dave Scranton, is a respected journalist with a long history of service to the magazine.

We hope that the new editor will be able to stabilize the situation and ensure the continued success of the Technology News.

Sincerely,

Dear Dave,

I would like to comment on your article in the April 10 issue of the Technology News. I believe that your analysis of the current state of the Technology News is accurate and insightful. However, I would like to add some additional thoughts.

First, I believe that the Technology News is an important publication that serves a valuable purpose. It is a forum for the exchange of ideas and information on a wide range of topics, including technology, science, and public policy.

Second, I believe that the Technology News is facing a number of challenges. These challenges include declining circulation, financial difficulties, and a lack of leadership.

I urge the Board of Directors to take action to address these challenges. I believe that the Technology News can be rescued and that it can continue to serve the needs of its readers.

Sincerely,

As far as the(formal) philosophy lacking in our "total" education

by David Siegert

I think that the problem with education today is best summed up by saying that there are too many people who really understand the problem itself. Part of this lack of understanding stems from the fact that students and faculty alike consider philosophy on an informal level and by so doing lack a clear understanding of the traditions of the Western World which shape our thinking today.

In Europe: universities, philosophy penetrates every aspect of education and is treated on a technical level. How many times have you heard the question asked in an American classroom, "What is your favorite philosophy?" Unfortunately, the question is asked too few times. The opposite is the case in many European universities.

If we make no attempt to understand the traditions which have influenced our ideals and ideas, we can never hope to accomplish something approaching "total education." In the same sense we can never hope to have integration on any level other than a physical one—unless we understand each other and ourselves; this is impossible unless we understand the forces which have shaped our thinking.

At the same time we must try to understand what education on the college or university level hopes to achieve. "Some American colleges have developed the philosophy that their educational opportunities and responsibilities are not confined to the classroom: the college is a community whose every impact on the student is a component of his education." says John T. Rule, former dean of students at MIT in his article "Must the College Pave the Way?" in the April issue of the Atlantic Monthly.

One would like to believe that any college is the enlightened university aspiring to provide a comprehensive education. However, the Technology News has reported in its April 10 issue that the Technology News is facing a number of challenges. The current editor, Dave Scranton, has been asked to resign by the Board of Directors. The new editor will be appointed by the Board of Directors.

We hope that the new editor will be able to stabilize the situation and ensure the continued success of the Technology News.

Sincerely,

Is Enough Time Available for Pub Board to Complete Its Duties

We hope that the first meeting of the new members of the Publications Board was held on Thursday evening as planned. Because Technology News went to press before the meeting, we can only speculate.The problems which arise when the new board is called upon to do so. Since there has been no Pub Board to function until this time, all of the functions of the board which should have been carried out before this time as well as other functions which remain to be carried out must be accomplished in the five weeks which remain in this semester.

By functions we refer to the appointment of the editors, business managers, and the station manager of the publications staff. The news has been exciting and volatile at the end of the semester. We hope that it will continue.

Sincerely,

Dear Dave,

In view of Mr. Hentki's comments in the last edition of Technology News concerning whether or not the ITT Library facilities should be extended to include a two-hour reserve system, I am sure that most of the ITT students will be pleased to find that they have been given the opportunity to reply to this issue. In the previous issue, I stated that I was working on a proposal to extend the reserve system, and I am pleased to announce that it is ready to be submitted to the library staff and the ITT administration.

Second, the availability of books in the library is not as limited as Mr. Hentki suggests. With the reserve system, students can have access to a wider range of books, and this will help to meet the needs of a larger number of students.

Third, the reserve system will benefit all students. It will allow students to have access to books that they may not have previously been able to use. This will help to ensure that everyone has access to the information they need to succeed.

Fourth, the reserve system will also benefit the library. It will allow the library to increase its collection of books, which will help to meet the needs of all students.

Finally, I would like to thank all of the students who have supported this proposal. I hope that you will continue to support the library and the reserve system.

Sincerely,

Booth House Meeting Held To Answer Tutors Queries

Tutors participating in the Booth House reading project from IIT, Lake Forest College, and Roosevelt University met with parents and tutors last Friday to discuss the newly instituted tutorial program and how it can better help the students. Lynn Orner, Joe Flowers, and Bill Cosbrovsky from the Reading Education and Development organization attended from IIT.

According to Flowers, "We learned that children in this area lack an environment which will help them do well in school. Part of the tutors' job is to fill this need."

"Since most of the tutors are inexperienced," he continued, "the meeting was of particular importance since it gave the tutors a chance to ask questions about the best methods and materials to be used.

"The meeting also enabled tutors and tutors to coordinate their efforts in the project," he concluded.

The reading program, started earlier this year, serves the housing development immediately north of the ITI campus.

According to Rene Amsden, who is the head of R.E.A.D. at IIT, "progress of the program is being encouraging so far, but there is still a need for tutors." In the Chicago area over 1500 students from 31 colleges, churches, synagogues, sororities, high schools, and alumni groups are spending several hours a week helping children with their reading problems. Some 3400 children are benefiting from this extra, individual help.

Anyone interested in devoting two hours a week to helping grammar school children with their reading problems should contact Liz Levy (Ext. 2748) or Rene Amsden (VI-2930).

Ford Mustang

Ford Mustang... a car as American as its name. And one that you'll find in the dictionary definition: small, hardy and half-wood. Conceived as a nimble, sporty car, the Mustang offers distinctive styling in two basic packages—Convertible and Hardtop. Both are 2-door, 4-passenger vehicles. The price? Sporty going never came more economically.

It took a lot of hard work and many people with creativity, imagination and drive to get the "gril" to town. All kinds of skills were involved: styling, research, manufacturing, marketing, product planning and many others were involved and will be needed in the future. For the Mustang is merely the latest expression of Ford Motor Company's ability to anticipate modern tastes in design.

In Ford Motor Company's search to find better ways to do the unexpected, there is the constant need to sell people with a flair for the future. This year, approximately 10,000 students in all areas of study and with all kinds of motives can enjoy the challenge of creating new automotive marketing and manufacturing concepts. If you're interested in joining a leader in a growing industry, check with your Placement Office or write us. Maybe you can help "name" the next Mustang.

Parties at the Greeks

by Jerry Schubert

Triangle revels the NCAA this weekend, sponsoring a basketball tournament of its own at Northwestern's U. Armour Chaper will play host to twenty-one of their brother's events from across the country, for a weekend of fun and games. Well, games anyway.

Delt's kept the pin parade and ball tournaments going last week, with Jim Foley pinning Susan Krantz and John Bullock, serving Kim Buss, Marilene Kristoff. Refusing to be outdone, however, were Pi Kappa Phi Skiplika who pinned Sandy Wolfe and conference John Van Onest, who invigorated Barbara Pote, who Pi Kappa is holding a "Party of Spring" party tomorrow, H.M.M.M. Music by the Straussky Quintet. Delta's are stung with a pajama party tomorrow at the house. Hall-capping are DZ, with their "A Night at the D-Zoo" party insight, and Kappa, who are holding a Parents Day dinner Sunday. A group of the nuns (natch) Phi Kappa will honor their alumni tomorrow night with a smoker.

Triangle celebrated it's Founding Day last Sunday with a house banquet. Featured guest of honor was one of the original founders of Armour Chapter.

UB Offers a Folk Concert

Featuring The Gaslighters

by Mrs. Mary Kay O'Brien

The date, time, and place are Saturday, May 2, 8-10 p.m. in the HUB auditorium. The event is a folk music concert by the Gaslight Singers. This concert is an added feature in the UB concert series. Tickets may be purchased at the HUB newsstand for only $2.50, and holders of season tickets may purchase them for half-price.

Since you probably didn't see the premiere of the Gaslight Singers in The Shadows, the top Washington, D.C. folk music group, here is what Washington's Evening Star said of the group.

"The Shadows has come up with one of those acts that holds special appeal for staunch seekers. It is a group called the Gaslight Singers—a pretty girl and three boys who seem destined for certain fame in the folk music field. See them now at the Shadows and a year from now you can adopt a superior air and say: 'Oh, I knew them when nobody had ever heard of them.'"

The group consists of three fellows—Earl Zimmerman, Al Albus and Jeff Hymen—and a very attractive young lady, Martha Velser, all college students. Martha Velser was born in New York City and attended the School of

DePaul U Netters Crush The Tech Racketeers 8-1

DePaul University's netters downed the Tech tennis team Tuesday on their home courts by the score of 8-1, as they swept the five singles matches and two of the three doubles matches.

Playing with strong winds and unfamiliar clay courts, Tech could not cope with the seasoned DePaul squad which last year was one of the best in the Chicago area.

Tech's number two doubles team of Steve Keller and Jim Fitzgerald were the only ones who could gain a victory as they won their first and third sets to win 7-5, 6-4, and 6-2.

In singles action, captain Vic Morgent ear played No. 1 lost 6-0, 6-1; Jim Fitzgerald (No. 2) lost 6-0, 6-0; Lex Busch (No. 3) lost 6-1, 6-1; Steve Keller (No. 4) lost 6-3, 6-0; Gordon Thompson (No. 5) lost 61, 6-1; and John Schoenthal (No. 6) lost 6-0, 6-2.

The number one doubles team of Morgent ear and Mike Friedrich lost 6-2, 7-5 and the third team of Bunch and Schoenthal lost 6-4, 6-3.

This was the netters first match of the season and the future does not look as gloom as the out-

Techhawks Roll Into Win Column For '64 Season; Defeat U of C by 6-5 Margin

The Tech baseball team notched their first victory of the season Tuesday by defeating the University of Chicago by a score of 6 to 5. Gary Flanagan came across the plate with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning on a single ball. Phil Govert picked up the win in relief and Derrell Ryan pitched fine ball for eight innings, giving up only nine hits in the contest. Rich Hansen hit two doubles to right center to send Ziegler across the plate.

Single runs were picked up in the fourth and fifth innings to give the Techhawks a 4-0 lead going into the bottom of the sixth. The Maroons then picked up a run on a single ball. A passed ball by the catcher gave Tech their winning run.

Linksters Drop Four Way Meet At White Pines

In the first match of the season, the Tech field hockey team picked up a 1-0 victory over Loyola, DePaul, and the University of Illinois on Monday at White Pines Country Club in Chicago, April 4.

The team played with a total of four men, two against each squad. The Tech field hockey team went on to win two points against Loyola, four and one half against DePaul, and one against the Pier.

Tech went on to win the fourth match of the season with almost the same team from last season. Tech will have a chance to even their record tomorrow as they travel to Aurora.
