Senior Electricals End Written Quiz

This is the story of how one ordinary measure or technical code might be made the subject of an extraordinary event.

It appears that Professor Dow, a member of the electrical engineering department, was already a few weeks ahead of the others in the matter of sending in his written quiz. Professor Dow, as usual, had written his quiz before the letter went out, and had it ready for the class the day after it was sent.

It happened that the quiz was to be taken in the morning, and Professor Dow, being late, brought it to class in the afternoon. When the students saw that it was ready, they all crowded around it and began to look at it. Professor Dow, seeing this, said:

"You boys are all too quick. The quiz is not ready for you yet. I will bring it back to class in the morning."

In order to show that the students were not too quick, Professor Dow wrote a little note on the back of the quiz, which said:

"You boys are all too quick. The quiz is not ready for you yet. I will bring it back to class in the morning."

In this way, the students were made to understand that the quiz was not ready for them yet, and they went away disappointed.

The next day, the quiz was ready, and Professor Dow brought it back to class in the morning. The students were all very happy to see it, and they sat down to take it.

The quiz was a great success, and Professor Dow was very pleased with the results. He said:

"You boys have all done very well. The quiz was not easy, but you all did your best."

Professor Dow's special lecture on electrical engineering was also a great success. The students were all very interested in it, and they asked many questions about the subject.

CAMELS

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

HAVE you noticed the new trend in cigarettes—freshness is the key word?

That’s because a fresh cigarette, as demonstrated by CAMELS, is something smokers have discovered as better than anything they’ve ever tried before.

Camels are fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack because they’re made fresh to start with—blended choice, delicately mild, un-parted tobaccos in which the natural moisture and fragrant flavors are vigilantly safeguarded.

“... no bamboozlin’ about that!”

Surely! When a word is spoken, you know it! The word is spoken by CHESTERFIELD. A smoker picks up a package, and he likes its appearance — no heavy labels or codes from him. That says: “real smoking satisfaction.”

Then he examines a Chesterfield. It is well-filled, it is neat in appearance; the paper is pure white, soft.

He lights up. At the very first puff he feels the real smoking satisfaction. He decides that it is better than any he ever smoked — just plain and satisfying.

Then he learns it is mild. That’s another way of saying that there is nothin’ wrong with it. And again he’s satisfied.

Safely — they go to work. The right tobacco, the CHESTERFIELD kind, cured and rolled by experienced hands. Chesterfield does a complete job of it. They Satisfy!
