HOME COMING 1967

The combined IIT and Armour Homecoming festivities included a parade and a bonfire. The parade started at 2:30 pm and the bonfire at 6:00 pm.

The parade included floats, bands, and the IIT and Armour floats. The parade route started at the Armour campus and ended at the IIT campus.

The bonfire was held on the football field at IIT. The bonfire was themed around the theme of "Great Gatsby" and included music, dancing, and food.

The Homecoming week also included a variety of other events such as the football game, the Homecoming dance, and the Homecoming Queen pageant.

And Who's This Guy Demus?

The story of Guy Demus, a student at IIT, who was the center of attention during the Homecoming festivities.

In the end, the Homecoming week was a success, with a large turnout of students and alumni.

Letters to the Editor

Dear EIC:
As the semester draws to a close, glorious Techawk screeches to a halt. His case slide rule, takes his finger from his ear, and asks the inevitable question: “Where is the Tech Directory?”

Thomas G. Russell
Daniel E. Cole
David L. Bowman
Chester M. Franck

The Directory has never come out on time. The greatest inconvenience, however, has been since the Public Relations department and ITTF have taken over what was once a student publication.

When the Directory does finally come out, it will be of little value to students, and hence not be purchased.

The publication is a good example of how student’s money is wasted through administration inefficiency. EIC

Dear EIC:
I read Greg Cook’s comments about the Directory in Technology News last Friday. I can’t really tell whether he’s criticizing SDS as a whole (both locally and nationally), our campus group specifically, or the national SDS only.

Nonetheless, I feel there is sufficient cause to educate him in certain facts.

No chapter should reflect on another. Each chapter is autonomous. The national office of SDS merely acts as a coordinator of action and a dissemination of information. Each chapter should be valued on its own merits and not some blanket appraisal of hundreds of chapters each with differing opinions. He leveled many charges against us and I intend to answer them one by one.

CHARGE NO. 1: We are playing at being grownup.

Now really, Mr. Cook, do you think this is what we’re all about? A man (we consider you a man) in such a responsible position as yours is lowering his credibility level by making such foolish statements. No one is playing grownup. We are growing up to stand for what we believe in. (Contrary to the impression you leave in the article, we believe in many things.)

CHARGE NO. 2: We are appallingly stereo typed in organization.

No argument. We have been in the past but there are encouraging signs for the future. As for mass demonstrations, have you ever tried handling thousands of people who are really burned up?

CHARGE NO. 3: We are misdirected in objectives.

Really? I didn’t know that. I thought you were. Of course, it looks different from our side.

CHARGE NO. 4: We are clumsy in execution.

By execution, I take it that you don’t mean murder. We don’t murder. The other side murders, don’t you see? They are quite good at it, by the way. Any deep emotional hurt is hard to control. The people who are demonstrating have been deeply offended by the government that represents them. This try to perform a man at an intelligent level of action but have been constantly frustrated in their attempts. It is extremely difficult to execute a program with precision when the people are so emotionally involved. You wouldn’t have any more success under the circumstances.

I will conclude this letter by asking questions. Who the hell are you anyway? Have you ever been a member of SDS or the CTA? What makes you an authority on the SDS? What sensible alternatives to the war do you propose? Are you sure that you are altogether correct?

Haven’t you done the same things you’re accusing us of doing?

Together in peace.

Pub Board Picks Savage Spring EIC; New Editor Discusses Semester Plans

Publications Board of ITSA, in a special meeting on Monday, appointed Stephen Savage Editor-in-Chief of Technology News for the spring semester of 1968. Steve is a fifth semester scientific writing major in the LL and P departments.

Savage, who will succeed Mike Belletre, is presently Associate Editor and acting Photo Editor. He has been with the paper for over four semesters and a member of the Editorial Board for the past two semesters.

Other positions on Technology News held by the new appointees were: Special Correspondent to Union Board, Co-News Editor, News Editor, and Managing Editor.

When asked to comment on staff plans for the next semester, Savage stated that he hopes to retain the present staff while attempting to augment staff members.

He hopes that added staff members might be obtained especially from the freshman class, since they will have completed a semester at Tech and can better tell how much time they can apply toward extracurricular activities.

In discussing the operation of next semester's paper, Savage commented that he hoped to "advance" deadlines for articles from Tuesday to Monday.

Savage pointed out that this change would help improve staff-editor contact and "editorial" administrative work, and at the same time reduce printing costs.

Other improvements, which plans to start work on, are better coordination of photo assignments, a larger working photo staff and better scheduling of darkroom work by both Technology News and Iota.

Bill Welte, Business Manager, continues in that capacity until the yearly appointment in April of a new manager. Savage officially takes over the duties of Editor-in-Chief on February 5.

team in 1932, and from then until 1949, Sonny coached the grapplers.

He subsequently became assistant athletic director, coached the baseball and basketball teams, and managed the student union, from 1940-47. And just to keep from getting bored, during the war years, he was an administrative assistant in the War Training Program of the army.

In 1949, Weissman was appointed to succeed a retiring John Schommer as athletic director. Sonny stepped into the job with a vigor and vitality matched only by Schommer's own.

But all the while, Sonny's first love, boxing, was important. He became one of the foremost referees in the state, and during the late 40's and early 50's was a Quad Busy With HC-67 Decorations by Hubby

Many of the areas on campus will feature decorations for Homecoming '67, and not to be omitted is the quadrangle.

Triangle will mark 75 years of progress with the use of several decorations. A trolley car on the pitch black complete with rails will be seen.

Alpha Sigma Phi will compare the old with the new with their white Tuskegee Phi will feature 75 years with a large "75." Delta Tau Delta will display a Taffybank as will the Skulls of Phi Kappa Sigma who will also correlate the past with the present.

Phi Kappa Phi will relate Tech's 75 years of growth to that of College's by presenting the gym and the civic center.

Sigma Phi Epsilon will decorate their house on three sides with various decorations and slogans.

While enjoying the Homecoming weekend, don't forget to visit the quad to see the colorful decorations displayed.

65 years.

But with all these honors and activities, what does Sonny feel has been most important in his 40 years at Tech? I posed this question to him, and was not surprised to hear his humble answer.

"Seeing the boys accomplish something themselves," Sonny replied. "Looking back, my greatest delight is to see that boys I knew years ago have made something of their lives."

Guess who forgot his NoDoz.

Report of the Special Commission to Reconsider the Effects of Women

Preface: It is with some regret and not a little concern for the disheartenment which may arise from the publication of our results that we release this document. However, in the light of its importance and with the conviction that the public has a right to know, we present our findings and conclusions, with a reminder that the evidence has been audited with all due fairness and honesty. We have examined every fact and every assertion in our report, and we stand firm in the truth of what we have written.

For the Commission
(John Doe)

Part One

Women, by and large, are inimical to the well-being of men. They are an invidious and vindictive race, not at all to be trusted for many reasons, but particularly because they are the product of an evil conspiracy between Revkin and Maslenform. Much given to underhandedness, misrepresentation and general dishonesty, they are, like their natural ally the cat, inscrutable beings who are not to be trusted.

Incidentally, much of what we say in this report is subject to change upon further evidence. We are presently working on a project to establish a new standard of human values.

Bunny Raffle, Two Bands Slated For December 8 McKinley Mixer

The dance will be open to all students, both new and returning, and will feature two bands. Those interested in participating are encouraged to attend.

Haddad Presents Arab Viewpoint in Mid East War

The third in a series of panel discussions sponsored by the department of political science was held Tuesday, November 23. The speaker was Professor Hassan, Haddad. The speaker's paper on the Middle East—the Arab view—was presented by the student paper, "The Arab Viewpoint in the Middle East: The Arab view on the Arab Nation." While admitting the Arab nations lack of unity in handling the crisis, Prof. Haddad condemned America's policy of exclusion toward the Arab nations and their resistance against the Jewish settlers. He added that there is a "good chance" of the peace being accepted.

Dean Barnett also announced that the date for the end of Christmas vacation will be December 23, 1967, at 1:00 p.m.

Haddad's presentation will be followed by a discussion on the "The Arab Viewpoint in the Middle East: The Arab view on the Arab Nation." The discussion will be held in the Ada S. McKinley House, and is open to all students.
Tech's '67 Basketball Team Honored By ITSA Dinner at Stockyard Inn

by Byrd

Last Tuesday night, ITSA held a steak dinner at the Stockyard Inn as a tribute to the men who are members of ITSA's athletic teams.

Al Ver, president of ITSA, introduced the night's two speakers: Ed Clancy, head basketball coach, and Sonny Weinman. Both men admitted that this unprecedented event was a long time coming, but there was never a diner more well deserved.

Coach Clancy introduced the team members who will be out on the new gym floor fighting to win this weekend's games, and Sonny added his forty years of wisdom to spur the men on. Also attending the dinner were Dr. Brophy and his wife, Dean Hogan, Dean Barnett, Dean Holmes, and their wives.

The main purpose of the dinner, however, was simply to give recognition to a small handful of men of ITSA, who are willing to take the small amount of spare time they have to devote it to fighting for the school, and as Sonny pointed out, both the administration and the students are one hundred percent behind them.

For the first time in a great while, our team steps out on that hastily put together gym floor Friday and Saturday, they're going to have the cheers and support of a big student body behind them, and this is going to be what makes the difference between having a group of guys playing ball on the court, not only for themselves, but also for the school they represent.

FORUM

I am sitting in my apartment on the ninth floor of Carman Hall. It is now 3:05 am and I am looking out the window. What do I see? Very little. Why? Because of the lack of Institute action for proper lighting on campus. After all, the members of the administration don't have to live on campus. They all retreat into their more comfortable homes in the suburbs before the sun goes down, or very soon thereafter.

A brief survey of the lighting conditions which I see:

There are no lights on Washburn avenue from Thirty-first street to Thirty-third street at most frequented by dormitories and apartment residents. There are seven lights visible on Washburn from Thirty-third to Thirty-fourth streets (in the institute giving preference to fraternity's). There is no lighting in any of the other parking lots except for four lights west of the El tracks between Thirty-first and Thirty-second. The common area is dark - there is only one light - that on the SW side.

There is no lighting on the walkway between Washburn avenue and McCormick lounge, a path used by all 100-200 percent of undergrad dorm residents.

The lighting in the Quad is nil. There is also no lighting near the gaff dorm. Since they have so many toes to follow for protection, why can't the Institute supply proper lighting around their dorm? My overall view of campus is one of a few dark areas populated with sparse, inadequate lights. There were lights on Thirty-third street and on Washburn avenue but the City removed them after the Institute made Washburn into a fire lane, supposedly another step towards ITE's ultimate development in the form of $25 million investment in Tomorrow? What will be the result? Another great mass of look-alike glass buildings wrapped in darkness.

You see, all these are things that Mr. Well, I was attacked and beaten this week - and inadequate lighting and as inadequate campus police force didn't help one little bit. It may not help you either.

Delts Frat Football Champs
After Beating Phi Kaps 6-0

by Lee Cryer

Delta Tau Delta best Phi Kappa Sigma 6-0 November 19 to win Interfraternity football for the fourth time in the last five years.

The Delts can also claim the all-school championship in football, as the FPEs, IM champs, have Delts starting in 8 of 12 positions on the team and couldn’t field a team without them.

In general the game was dominated by the strong defensive lines of both fraternities. In seven games prior to the final, the Skulls had allowed only one touchdown, while the Delts gave up only two during the year.

Most of the action in the championship game came in the last few minutes, when the Delts scored their touchdown and nearly scored again.

The only score of the game came in the last five minutes, as Phi Mathewson connected with Jim Faulkner for a 30 yard touchdown. Tailing by six points, Phi Kaps quarterback Harries tried to catch up quickly. However, Delte defensive back Nat Papalardo made his second interception of the game and showed good speed in returning it 40 yards.

The Phi Kaps stopped a Delta sweep at the 5 yard line, but were completely fooled when Mathewson faked another sweep then threw across the field to his end who was wide open. However, the ball was overthrown and the Skulls intercepted the next pass to stall the drive and hold the score to 6-0.

Next year the Delta domination of IF football may end, as this year’s team had seven seniors on it. Among the seven were three men, George Derby, Tom Kincaid, and Phi Mathewson, each of whom started for the house all four years while in school.

The Phi Kaps, Phi Kaps, and Triangle will be top contenders for the trophy, with the always tough Alpha Sigas near the top also.

Wrestlers Open
With Elmhurst
Next Wednesday

A strong, well-balanced Illinois Tech wrestling team opens its season against Elmhurst December 6 at 4 p.m. in the new gym. Veterans George Darby (captain), Tom Kincaid, Tom Souris, and Ron Rothermich again form the nucleus of the team.

Newcomers Seeliger, Shank, Anderson and Middel show promise of being able to help the veterans top last year’s fine 9-2 record.

Coach Barens says optimism is realistic, and believes the team has a good chance to equal or improve on last year’s mark, but says that there is still a need for some “beefy, aggressive bodies” to give the squad depth. Anyone with an inclination is invited to show up any night and work with the team.

This season looks like a promising one for the Tech wrestlers. A huge turnout for the meet December 6 will bode well for the matmen begin another successful campaign.

FPEs’ Champions
Of IM Football
With 18-0 Win

by Con Marenak

The FPEs defeated the Derm Animals 15-0 November 19 to win the intramural football championship.

Though the game was scoreless until the last five minutes, the FPEs clearly dominated the game. The Derm Animals had time to pass in the face of a strong FPE pass rush and Ed Lockett and Dick Recks. FPE quarterback Mathewson could pass for 885 yards almost at will.

Late in the second half Jim Faulkner took a lateral from Phi Mathewson and then threw a 40 yard pass to Joe Carter on the 2 yard line. The champs scored on a quick Mathewson to Carter aerial, then added the extra points on a pass to Faulkner.

Soccer Team
Beats U of C
By 7-2 Count

The IT soccer team has added a win and a tie to its initial victory over Loyola while competing with graduate teams from the University of Chicago.

In the game played November 22, Tech scored only in the first quarter, on a goal by left halfback Roman Kao. The only other score in the game was made by U of C early in the second half, and the game ended 1-1.

Tech won last Saturday 7-2 in a game also played at Chicago. Andy Matzenko had three goals, two with his feet and one with his head, and Andrew Rosen- man, Amoreira, and McDonald also scored in the first half. Despite the success of the soccer team there still exists a definite need for trained coaching and added equipment. Some Weissman, Tech athletic director, has said that the department will sponsor a team of eligible players show interest in playing for Tech.

The Animal’s could not move the ball all the time. The FPEs quickly scored twice on a run by Mathewson. The points added were added up as a catch by Blank.

On the ensuing kickoff the Animals fumbled on their 3 yard line, then were caught for a safety as Mike Davis blazed in to tag the quarterback to complete the scoring.

The Animals had moved into the final standings with a 3-0 on the strength of Joe’s touchdown pass, two to Wayne Sanders.
