The Illinois Tech Student's Association held its annual meeting of the 1969-68 academic year on Wednesday, September 25 at 8 p.m. in the LUB. President John Haff directed the meeting, the agenda of which included everything from finances to honoring plans to a review of the financial status of the Board.

The Social Committee announced the tentative plans for the 1968 Homecoming, to be held the weekend of December 6 and 7. The event is centered around the Techhawk's first home basketball game of the season. During Homecoming, the fraternities compete in the decorating of the first houses, to attract students to their halls, and a Homecoming Queen is selected from the women students of IT.

On Friday evening, December 6, a dance is scheduled in the LUB ballroom featuring a big-name band. The Social Committee is checking into the various bands and hoping to organize a group next week.

On Saturday evening of Homecoming, a concert will be given in the Arthur Keaning Hall. Spunky and Classy Giggles are currently being considered for this concert, pending the cancellation of a scheduled Lightweight in conjunction with the annual David Geyer concert report that, "With the raise in our budget, we can promise a better Homecoming than ever."

Dean James Barnett, faculty advisor to the Academic Activity of IT, is also on the list with a budget of $52,500 for ITSA's operational expenses during the year. This sum is to be divided among the various ITSA committees to cover the next two semesters' costs.

Barnett was also discussing the close financial balances from the academic year 1967-68, commenting in particular on the commendable financial state of Technology News.

Dean Barnett closed by introducing Dr. Robert J. Bonten, the newly appointed Dean of Students, to the Board members. Dr. Bonten expressed optimism over the future year and reminded IT students that the doors of his office are always open to them.

The chairman of the special Bennettian Disciplinary Committee, Thomas Burdick, announced his resignation from his post due to his past June graduation. Although the Bennettian Case is completed, John Haff indicated that the Committee continues to function in the event of another disciplinary action.

The dance held at the end of Rush Week, "The End of the Beginning," was termed both a financial and social success by Senator Class President Gene Buder. It was estimated that over three hundred students attended the September 23 dance, the first outdoor mixer ever held on this campus.

The ITSA Academic Committee announced that it is working on a plan which will give prospective freshmen of the class of 1973 a better idea of what IT is like. They will be sending out six senior representatives to area high schools to answer questions about students, courses, and other aspects of campus life.

The only sad note of the meeting was given by Beth Siegel, ITWA President. She announced that approximately 45 female students, including freshmen and transfers, have joined the department.

President John Haff closed the meeting with the suggestion that the ITSA Board adopt two more faculty advisors to represent the schools of engineering and architecture design. The present advisor, Dean James Barnett, is from the School of Industrial Arts. Any interested teachers and professors were requested to contact ITSA.

The next ITSA Board meeting is scheduled for Monday, September 16, at 8 p.m. in the LUB.
Lack of Quad Illumination
Demands Quick Solution

Last spring, if you will remember, there was quite an uproar on campus concerning inadequate outdoor lighting facilities, especially around those areas most frequented by students.

This poor lighting was partially blamed for the rash of incidents which caused much alarm among students and greatly threatened their personal safety.

Many measures were taken by the administration to improve the lighting conditions somewhat. Floodlights were installed around the dormitory and Commons area and in various places in the parking lots and fire lanes. But there still has not been any lighting improvement whatsoever on the fraternity quad, an area which is very susceptible to criminal activity merely because of its isolated location at the extreme southeast corner of the campus.

The only illumination of the quad during the night around such structures is sometimes provided by the inside house lights of the fraternities. This is surprising that such a situation exists, especially in this particular area of the campus, which has been tolerated for such a long period of time.

A logical solution to this demand would be the construction of light poles around at least one quadrangle, which will provide safety at minimum cost.

Since the school holds the deed to some buildings in and around the quad, it only common sense that the students who live and study in the dormitories, residence halls, and fraternity quarters should be given a reasonable opportunity to be safe. This might be decided by the highly responsible administration which now exists in the quad area.

Student Coffee Shop Organized in Dorm

An all-student coffee shop was organized recently in two basement rooms of the East Wing of the Dormitory Complex. The shop has been in operation since Wednesday, September 2, and will be open from 9 pm to 1 am.

The establishment of this type of student meeting place has long been thought about on campus. It was approximately two weeks ago that a student finally took it upon himself to make it a reality.

The two rooms in which the coffee shop is located are those previously used by the Graduate Student Association and occupied by the school cheerleaders. The Rev. John B. Hoag has since moved his quarters to the back of the school chapel, thus leaving the rooms vacant.

The coffee house is safely under the direction of the entire student body, dormitory residents as well as fraternity residents, women students and commuters. There is no specific organization in charge of it, and the school administration does not possess any direct control in its affairs.

Students will serve as the liaison between the students and the administration in whatever questions or problems may arise.

The students are running the shop, they are solely responsible for all aspects of the operation, from cooking to entertainment and management.

Present plans call for a student worker to be assigned, providing for the presence of at least one student in charge of the shop at all times to render service for their customers.

The coffee will be served by a Rev. Hoag's exchange for a $1 donation, which will be directed towards purchasing items for the coffee house itself.

The rooms will be furnished with old dormitory furniture by students. Students will also provide decorations for the room.

For the first time in over two years, the Board of Regents is beginning to see the sense in providing a place for students to congregate. A meeting was held for UB members in the HUB on September 24.

The informal meeting, which was open to anyone interested, consisted of a series of short speeches made by the various UB department heads which were followed by a number of discussions about the importance of the Board of Regents and its role in the community.

The Board of Regents has been criticized for not being sufficiently involved in the community, particularly in matters of education and public relations. The speeches presented by the various department heads were meant to illustrate the Board's commitment to improving its relationship with the community.

UB has Full Activities Program Planned

The Inter-Cultural Center is presently undergoing a major expansion, which will be completed by the end of the month. The Center is expected to house several student organizations and provide a meeting place for students from different cultures.

The Center is currently being used by several student groups, including the Asian Student Association, the African Student Association, and the Hispanic Student Association.

Student Activities

The students are working closely with the Center to ensure that it meets the needs of the various organizations. The Center is expected to provide a space for social events, study groups, and cultural programs.

President Graham was quite optimistic about the upcoming semester, especially in regards to the Board of Regents and its relationship with the community.

Tech News

The University's newspaper, the UB News, is currently undergoing a major expansion. The newspaper is planning two new sections, one on local news and another on national news.

The new sections are expected to provide a more comprehensive coverage of local and national events, as well as to increase the newspaper's readership.

The newspaper is also expanding its online presence, with plans to launch a new website featuring interactive content and multimedia elements.

The UB News is one of the few student newspapers in the country to have a significant online presence, and the newspaper's staff is excited about the potential for growth and increased engagement with the community.

The newspaper's staff has been working closely with the Board of Regents to ensure that the newspaper's coverage is aligned with the University's goals and priorities.

Board of Regents

The Board of Regents is currently considering several significant changes to the University's structure. The Board is expected to discuss issues such as the University's budget, the appointment of new faculty members, and the development of new programs.

The Board is also expected to consider the role of the Board of Regents in the University's decision-making process and to explore ways to increase the Board's effectiveness and accountability.

The UB News is committed to covering these issues in detail, providing readers with a comprehensive understanding of the Board's role and responsibilities.

The UB News is proud to serve as a voice for the University's students, faculty, and staff, and we are committed to providing accurate and insightful coverage of all University-related news and events.
Amer. Riot: Princess of the Age

by Mike Bullert

Believe it or not, there were some who observed the Chicago scene that week of the Democratic convention as if it were a rock concert. I was one of them.

And I must say, it was... well, it was quite an experience. The tension and anticipation were palpable. The atmosphere was charged with excitement and fear.

The police were on high alert, and the streets were filled with people. It was a truly unforgettable experience. I hope to do more reporting like this in the future.

Quadrupling for Various Fall Activities

Action around the quad has been high, with various groups planning events. The possibilities are endless, and the excitement is building.

The university community is gearing up for the new semester, and everyone is looking forward to what the fall will bring. With events like Homecoming and the annual fall festival, there will be plenty to see and do.

Feats at the Greeks

Fraternity, Sorority Pledges Listed

by Doris Haynald

Somewhere beneath the turf of the frats, the seeds of IIT were butting and long forgotten. We do exist (in limited quantity, but nonetheless). Kappa Phi Delta this fall successfully persuaded six girls to give up their time and money for your so- rority. The pledge ceremony held on Sunday, September 22, at Dr. and Mrs. Safford's house, included the following: Becky Matison, Ellen Bogler, Chen's Czechowska, Linda Benksterna, Young Adams, and Bacia Booker.

Gianna Alu, there are even two sororities! Greek traditions and spirit are held high by both; most Greek organizations would be proud to be the sponsor of such a gathering.

Greeks are known for their traditions in keeping the campus and their members in the forefront. To the Greeks, every event is important - from the annual homecoming to the annual Greek week. It is a tradition that is cherished by all Greeks.

Thus, the sorority pledges are the backbone of the Greek organizations. They are the ones who keep the traditions alive and carry them on. The pledges are the ones who are responsible for keeping the campus clean and the Greek organizations strong.

The pledges are the ones who make sure that the Greek organizations are the best they can be. They are the ones who make sure that the Greeks are the best they can be.

The View From Here

IIT, like other universities, is not in a position to comment on educational policies. However, it is important to understand the role of the university in society. The university is not just a place for learning, but also a place for research and innovation. The university plays a vital role in shaping the future of society.

IIT Soccer Club Wins Miller Cup; Ends Season With Perfect Record

IIT's soccer team wrapped up its successful 1968 season by winning the J. Roscoe Miller trophy in a round-robin tournament with Northwestern, Lewis, and Loyola. Miller, who is president of Northwestern University, made the presentation to the undefeated IIT squad.

VARSITY BASKETBALL
All undergraduates interested in becoming candidates for positions on the 1968-69 Techwah basketball squad are to report to Reheating Hall on Monday, October 14 at 4 p.m. All new freshmen and junior college transfer students are eligible to try out for the squad. The Techwahs stand a good chance of improving on last year's record. They will be led by returning veterans Rick Klein, Greg Krueger, Jim Weitz, Eric Wilson and Lee Glenn.

In the final game of the tournament, IIT ran into an off-day test of the season, previously unbeaten Loyola. Our men came out on top with a hard-fought and well-deserved 42-0 victory.

The victors' scoring punch was well distributed. Julian Barklow and Tobi Rosenman provided a goal splice, while Andy Marthaes chopped in with two big tallies. Others who contributed greatly to the championship were Zoha Aniel, Pat Bocikian, Ian McDonald, Al Macanese, and Joe Antonini.
