We can't have education without revolution. We have tried peace education for 3,000 years and it has failed. Let us try revolution and see what it will do.

Advice to the Editor

Dear EIC:

You possess a warped idea of what a college newspaper should be ... your editors are waxy-weakly and usually irrelevant ... Put more pictures in each issue

Use more imagination in your layout ... STOP TRYING TO BE HIP, just be cool ... Maybe the administration's thumb is stuck so far up Technology News' nose that these changes are impossible.

IIT has entered the 1960’s. IIT is becoming aware of the academic and extra-curricular oppression inherent in its rigid and inhuman institutional structure. IIT students and faculty have begun to prostrate in embittered and frustrating submission for too long—we have begun to fight back against long-suffered excesses of administrative authoritarianism.

Why the sudden interest in asserting our long-denied rights and freedoms? Why the sudden surge in nurturing our latent student and faculty power? During the past two weeks, the administration has flagrantly and contemptuously denied to students and faculty their basic rights. This action, an example of numbers, of students and faculty, has beenawaad the president: evasive, prejudiced, irresponsible, and totalitarian.

To students and faculty actively involved in campus politics—attending the long-awaited hearing, being denied the right to be heard, and to students and faculty—this invitation to press in desperately-needed reform: the revelation of the vicious nature of the administration is no surprise. In fact, we have long been aware of the administration’s power coming from directly above and from the general support that it receives from the administration.

Only in the recent events, when the administration has been directly confronted by large audiences of students and faculty have monumen tal changes been publicly exhibited. These events include:

- The incompetency in dealing swiftly and sensibly with demands related to the strike, and disappointing attempts to avoid comment on the major national issues raised at that time.
- The mismanagement, disorganization, and lack of poise in handling the The Student Movement.
- The contemptuous indifference of Dr. Rattalida in the meeting with concerned students on Friday.
- The irresponsible retaliation and provocation in requesting the unnecessary and implicitly repressive requirement against the IIT students.
- It is time for students, faculty, and administration to face the realities of IIT.

We are ruled by an authoritarian institution that has no regard for basic human rights and dignity.

We are ruled by a man who is totally void of any superfluous understanding (or mock understanding) of the rights and needs of the member of the community.

We are ruled by a man who has no open channels of communication with the faculty and students; whose administration is in such a tangle, we feel no concern for the needs of the students.

The recent reaction to teachers and students, which includes my name and that of Managing Editor David Duszczak, is a bit of the abstract and irresponsible action for which the administration owes an explanation and immediate repair.

I demand: a full investigation of the injunction by the Board of Trustees; a full disclosure of the facts revealed by the investigation; and immediate re- vocation of the injunction and stops to ensure that no charges will remain on our records; full assurance of no future reprisals; and a full apology to the twelve cited.

Technology News
I am here to present the case for the free exchange of ideas. Without the free exchange of ideas, we cannot have a free society. The right to freedom of speech is essential to democracy. It is through the free exchange of ideas that we can come to a consensus on the issues that affect us all.

As I mentioned earlier, I believe that the university should be a place where all ideas are welcome. This includes political ideas, religious ideas, and ideas about any topic that people want to discuss. The university should be a place where people can learn from each other and from the outside world.

However, I also believe that the university should be a place where people can learn to think critically and to evaluate the ideas that are presented to them. This means that we must be able to distinguish between good ideas and bad ideas. We must be able to evaluate the evidence that is presented to us and to analyze the arguments that are made.

I believe that the university should be a place where people can learn to be good citizens. This means that we must be able to engage in democratic processes and to participate in the decision-making that affects our lives. We must be able to work together to solve problems and to find solutions that are fair and just.

In conclusion, I urge you to support the free exchange of ideas at the university. This is essential to the health of our democracy. It is through the free exchange of ideas that we can come to a consensus on the issues that affect us all.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. President,

The plug-in style of student campaigning came to a head last week with a series of events and incidents that have drawn national attention. As a faculty member and President of IT, I am writing to inform you of the circumstances leading up to the incident that occurred on May 28th.

The incident involved a group of students who entered the President's office and accused him of corruption. The students were demanding the removal of the current administration and the installation of a new one. The President had previously announced his intention to retire at the end of the academic year, which was met with widespread support from the faculty and student body.

The students, led by a vocal leader, marched to the President's office and demanded immediate action. The President, in a show of solidarity, issued a statement expressing his commitment to the welfare of the students and the institution. He also called for a day of reflection and dialogue to address the concerns raised by the students.

The incident sparked a larger debate on the role of students in the governance of the institution. The President emphasized the importance of dialogue and the need for students to engage with the administration in a constructive manner. He also expressed his belief in the value of education and the importance of maintaining a respectful and inclusive environment.

The students, while expressing their dissatisfaction, also acknowledged the President's efforts to address their concerns. They called for a peaceful resolution and expressed their commitment to the future of IT.

I am enclosing a copy of the statement issued by the President for your review. I believe it provides a clear and concise overview of the events and the President's perspective on the situation.

Sincerely,

MORE LETTERS

Dear Editor,

As many members of the IIT community are aware, the presidential election of Dr. John T. Retallack, the current president of the college, will be held at the beginning of the academic year. It is important to note that the candidates for president have been selected by the faculty and students of IIT. The election process is designed to ensure that the president is chosen by those who have a vested interest in the college and its future.

In light of this, I would like to express my concern about the recent events surrounding the presidential election. There have been allegations of misconduct and unequal treatment of candidates by the administration. As a result, the election process has been called into question.

I urge the administration to take immediate action to address these concerns and ensure a fair and transparent election process. Failure to do so will undermine the credibility of the college and its leadership.

Sincerely,

Dear Dr. Retallack,

I am writing to express my support for your re-election to the presidency of IIT. As a student, I have benefited greatly from the opportunities and resources provided by our institution, and I believe that you are the best person to lead us into the future.

Your leadership has been characterized by a strong commitment to the mission of IIT, a focus on student success, and a dedication to the growth and development of our faculty and staff. I believe that your re-election would be in the best interest of our college.

Sincerely,

To the Editor,

I am a freshman with a GPA of 4.1. I will not last much longer at Tech, but while I am here I would like to convey my feelings about this institution.

I would like to express my concerns about the treatment of students. I have found that many of my friends have been very badly working this past week for our cause—unfortunately, it seems that we will be rewarded spiritually, much less visibly, for our efforts.

I have never before seen and hope I will never again see, the apathy and lack of concern among the people of the campus. Much worse, I feel that those that are concerned have no hope. Many proposals have been made, remediated, and voted upon, etc., but I still feel that we who are active are working in absolute futility. This frustrates and upsets me, as I am sure it does many other people.

Logically, the thing to do is to transfer or drop out by next semester. I wish I had the choice not to attend this hopeless institution next semester but as it is, Tech will not want me next semester anyway.

Sincerely,

Mary Haynes

Tech Sports — Batsmen Score Second Victory

by Harvey Schatz

The IIT baseball team rounded out their second victory of the season May 19, when they played a close game. The 11-11 tie left Northeasern Illinois State able to win their second victory over the Techhawks, 9-7, on May 6.

Northwestern took advantage of clutch fielding errors and rapped out 11 hits, while the Hawks could manage only four.

Things improved the next time IIT took the field. Lewis came here May 19 and took on the Techhawks and ran into a solid pitching performance by Don Fryer. But again, one bad inning defensively bailed Lewis 4-1 victory. The Hawks' defense was shaky and were pounding the spheroid, but Lewis' fine defense limited IIT to one run.

But never this year did the ballatters excel in every phase of the game, as they did against a very good St. Procopius team. Keynote of the attack was Captain Jimmy Werner. A good centerfield man, Larry Strain chipped in with 3 hits, and sluggers Jim Tucker and Ray Fuld scored in 2 runs apiece.

All told, the Hawks rapped out 11 base hits to back another superb pitching performance by catcher Carlos Lucas. The lefthander allowed only 3 hits, with striking out 4 and walking 2. Lucas, who is only a sophomore and looms as the possible ace of the Techhaw team next year, does not have an overpowering fastball. But more important, he has excellent control and a master at keeping the runners on balance. It was his change-up that spelled the difference in this game.

The St. Procopius contest is an indication of what this team can do when it is in its game. Coach Tony Delgado said, "We are improving all phases of the game." The St. Procopius match was our first complete game, but it was taken. The motion carried. After three unsuccessful motions to adjourn, the 4th motion passed. Dr. Remmick said that he might present the recommendations to the Board of Trustees at the Executive Board meeting or the fall Trustees' meeting in June.
B & E Balks on Inquiry; Bernath, Beechy Resign

Carbon copies of the response were also sent to all chairmen in the college of Liberal Arts and to Dr. Brophy.

In response to administration actions in the past year, two B & E instructors, Wayne Bernath and Tom Beechy, have already resigned. Beechy further professed that seven, and possibly eight, faculty members in the B & E department would eventually resign as a protest against administrative policies and actions.

Numerous rumors of other resignations were also reported on Wednesday, but none of the rumors were confirmed.

Commons Monopoly?

Mr. Skip Bernistein's lease on the campus grocery store will not be renewed next semester. Bernistein feels that it is not being renewed because the administration wants to own the grocery store as they already do the "non-profit" Bookstore and Drugstore.

Four years ago Bernistein signed a two-year lease with a two-year option. He has stayed all four years but was informed two years ago by the administration that they want to consolidate the drug store with the grocery store.

Bernistein claims that he even though he informed the administration he would accept any reasonable conditions for a new lease, they would still not renew. He claims that the administration says they are satisfied with his service, since they have given him letters of recommendation.

In addition, Bernistein feels that the settlement is very unfair—the administration wants him to give them the store, leaving all the groceries and all the workers.

Bernistein stated: "They want a monopoly of the campus stores."

1970 IIT Gress Report: 'Selective Apathy' All Year

by EMB

I've titled this the IIT Gress Report because it's hard to say if IIT progressed or regressed in the last academic year. In some ways things improved, in others they got worse. In yet others there was change, but not really forward or backward. Maybe sideways.

One doesn't agree with the Moratorium last fall and the recent Strike (I sure don't) to notice their ability to unite at least part of the student body. The lefty issues they involved created the illusion of participation that they are raising above the comparatively irrelevant process of attending IIT. I make this as a flat statement, because Student Awareness (at least in the first term) was quite selective—the Moratorium, dealing with international matters, got solid support; Fall Conference, a meeting of students and faculty meant to upgrade IIT, was a bust.

On that basis, it's my opinion that reality at IIT has changed over the past year—neither progressed nor regressed, but grossed into selective apathy. In other words, the student body (or at least a measurable segment of it) has decided to be active in issues pertinent to the world at large, but maintain the Tech tradition of going home on the weekends and acting like Tech doesn't exist. As further argument for this belief, I cite the dormitory response to this year's fine basketball team, the antagonism with which the student body met the news of Spring Conference, and the prevailing attitude (particularly among commuters) that IIT isn't worth any effort.

However, this selective apathy may be not long-lived; it may be focusing on campus issues now, at the end of the year, when it's just about too late. Writing on the Bill of Rights and the Activity Fee, along with the controversy of this injunction, may help the student body become aware of issues that involve them directly, and the issues on which they should and could influence administrative action.

One wonders if there are others who feel that the Big Issues should be supported. I guess there's no way of finding out just who is the majority opinion at this late date. So I guess it's nothing but progress or regress. Just gross.

President Battles Turbulent Faculty

The IIT Faculty met for three hours Monday to make recommendations to Dr. John T. Retzlaff concerning the recent events on campus.

In an attempt to abide by the regulations, Retzlaff refused to consider any motion suspending the rule that students not be allowed in the meetings. Several motions, however, were made for this rule to be suspended. Technology News was allowed to send its information from several faculty members to the meeting.

A motion was made to suspend classes in the full for one week. Students were opposed to this action, as they were already losing their political activities. There was much discussion on the wisdom of such a move, but the faculty was the only one taking part in the discussion. The motion passed and the faculty agreed to suspend the meetings.

A vote on the motion was finally taken. The first speaker was by Dr. Retzlaff. The vote was then followed by the vote, a hand vote was taken. One faculty member, and 79 for and 83 against. Another member, around 84 for and 83 against. The chairman suggested averting the prospect for the rest of the week, while more than 200 other colleges and universities shut down their campuses for the day and day at least eight others closed their doors for the rest of the semester. In the office of the vice president, the administration announced that it would not talk to any students who had been suspended in the HUB Auditorium. At the same time, University of Wisconsin President Fred Harrington was looking at his shattererd campus in Madison and was soon announced his resignation.

About a thousand people filled the HUB to protest against the confrontation with the "Phantom of IIT." The motion that was presented to President Retzlaff permitted a Kent State of the United Nations was passed to declare that IIT was not a member of the United Nations.

Since some faculty members also objects to this method, a written vote was proposed. It was suggested that the vote be on the bill from the paychecks so that all faculty members would get to vote. One member opposed the suggestion, saying that the type of resolution would eliminate the need for faculty meetings. "Mr. President," he stated, "you would become the phantom President of the faculty as well as the students." A written vote was taken, and the vote was close so that a hand vote was taken. The motion passed.

The next order of business was for the President to do something in his power to with- draw the notice. Dr. Retzlaff gave the following reasons for initiating the injunction: to prevent the sheriff from coming on campus; to counteract threats that the leaders not respect violence and that glass doors would be broken, that buildings would be burned, and that screwdrivers would be used to open locks.

The IIT University State- ment was instrumental in his de- cision. An excerpt is included, part of the Statement, "We ask for the release of concerned students and faculty members from normal academic activities..." as an impetus to the recommendation.

Although the faculty was disturbed that Dr. Retzlaff, as chairman, was the only one to speak in his defense (during several instances), a vote on the above motion was subsequently taken and the motion passed.

Are you tired of going to classes like Theory of Reinforced Concrete? You ROTC guys want to learn about your peacemongering counterparts, who want to make your jobs obsolete? Peace University as IIT offers courses that would normally be deleted.

Here's the schedule of Peace University classes, to be held on campus, starting next week:

Tuesdays and Thursdays: Judicial Prevarication, 10-11 a.m.

Legalism, 11:15-12 a.m.
Theology, 1:30-2 p.m.
Electro Physics, 2:30-3 p.m.

On Monday, March 4, and Friday, there will be seminar lectures on such topics as Draft Evacuation, ROTC on campus, and the ARM situation.

These courses will be taught by faculty and students with expertise in each particular area. Some faculty members who have already agreed are professors Caito and Deferei. Rev. Houch will instruct the course which will be held discussions throughout the Peace University sessions on draft counseling.

The organizers of Peace Universities are now beginning to plan their fall semester.

Technology News has received the following statement from Seiten-Treasure Nelsen, director of the Peace University Committee to promote awareness within the IIT community of potential and current national and/or local importance.
President Rettalia Stresses Education as Nation’s Hope

Dear IIT Students and Friends:

Welcome to the campus for the beginning of the 1970-1971 academic year.

There remains in our society a mixture of emotions about the present and the future. Hope collides with frustration, competency struggles with impatience, excitement stumbles against indifference. The economic situation, the employment situation, the military situation, the environmental situation, and many others seem to be combining an already perplexing existence.

Considering the current state of affairs, higher education assumes even greater importance for our nation’s strengths and future. The ability to reason, to comprehend, to perceive relationships and differences, to extrapolate into the future are qualities of pressing importance. Leadership in all areas of our society requires a breadth of knowledge and a sensitive understanding of which change may be developed through a course of study in the subject of higher learning.

IIT is dedicated to this end. As a university encompassing seven schools and colleges, IIT’s fundamental purpose is to search out and disseminate truth in the areas of expertise. It’s curricula are designed to develop professional competency and an understanding of the human situation. It strives to ensure that all undergraduate students, regardless of their major fields of study, have the kind of liberal education essential to modern life. As it continues to spend its academic scope and effectiveness, it offers a unique educational environment particularly suited to the needs of today and tomorrow.

I urge all of you to take full advantage of the many opportunities for furthering your intellectual possibilities to be found within the university and throughout the larger community. IIT provides a rigorous educational environment on your part to education and to the education of your fellow students. IIT makes available a range of extra-curricular activities which, together, are meaningful, require your reasoned and active participation. IIT is situated in a major metropolitan center which offers unparalleled opportunities for personal and professional growth.

I am confident that we will have a rewarding and significant year. IIT has the necessary faculty, facilities and equipment.

Truckers Start Trucking

The events of Cambodia and Kent State aroused deep feelings in IIT students for perhaps the first time. They were frustrated and angered by the realization that the decisions that influence their lives were being made by others. Some of these students got together to rant about the situation and what they could do about it. It soon became apparent to us that part of the problem was within ourselves. We felt that the forces of society had alienated us and that we needed to begin changes within ourselves. We joined together to seek help from each other and to try to form a free community. In order to fulfill some of our needs we started these programs.

The Truck Stop is an informal center—a place for us to get together and talk. We hope that this will expand to a center for the campus communities.

The Truck Stop will be held every Monday, Sept. 7 7:00 to 9:00 at the closed Truck in when you feel like it.

Another aspect of the community spirit is the Information Center, modeled along the lines of the free information Exchange. We will try to provide a source of information to the people on campus.

The center is in the basement of the ISCB, located on the first floor.

We are not asking for money for the center, but we would like to encourage any who wish to help in any way.

WIIT Boasts FM At 88.9

Seizing new transmissions facilities, radio station WIIT resumed broadcasting Sunday, August 30 with a special on both the AM and FM bands. Tech's student radio station has expanded its service and is now able to transmit its frequencies to include a span at 88.9 MHz on the FM dial. Future plans for WIIT include the installation of a new console by early spring with the addition of FM stereo transmitters.

More immediately, WIIT will be broadcasting live from noon until midnight during Orientation Week and on Thursdays. A WIIT record producer will be available at all other times. A WIIT newsreel produced in color on LP records will also be available during Orientation Week. Dev-Del will be heard over WIIT.

The station will have an Open House all week where station members and persons will be on hand to broadcast from the AM and FM bands.

Each year our hopes swell with each new group of entering freshmen, only to drop again when no one answers the call. Many people become caught in the trap of apathy, a creature that will never let go once it gets a hold of you. Its hard to come up with reasons why people refuse to participate or why they accept apathy so willingly. It could be the nagging fear in each of us that we won't be accepted, that we will be unable to produce what may be expected of us. I know that I speak for more than Technology News in saying that any effort, no matter how small, would be welcomed with open arms.

You are college students now, a much different person than in high school. This school is a greater portion of your life than you realize. You are now at the point in your life where the maturing process goes into high gear. Participating in a student activity helps along this maturing process, and increases it tenfold. You are given responsibilities, an opportunity to find out your capabilities and to build on them. The activity is a means to an end. There is a place of shelter from the problems of school, and the camaraderie of your fellow members. The acceptance here may not be there.

As much as you would not put a gun to your head and take your own life, do not take the gun of apathy and put an end to your student life. We all at one time stood in front of an organization's table during Orientation Week, swallowed our fears, and said: 'I want to join.' When I look up from the Technology News table, I will see myself of years ago in your faces. We the organizations need you.

Herzog New Dean of Kent; Zacharias to Retire

JIT Public Relations — Professor Fred F. Herzog has been appointed dean of the Chicago-Kent College of Law of the Illinois Institute of Technology, effective September 1, it was announced by Dr. James B. Brophy, academic vice president of the university.

Previously associate dean, Dr. Herzog will succeed Dean William F. Zacharias, who is retiring after an affiliation with Chicago-Kent of almost 40 years.

Dr. Herzog, in his capacity as special counsel to the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, and in other work, has gained a reputation as a leading legal expert on environmental pollution.

He has been a special legal counsel to the Metropolitan Sanitary District and a legal consultant to the Attorney General in water and air pollution matters.

A native of Austria, Dr. Herzog studied at the universities of Graz, Vienna, and Graz and received his doctor of law degree from the University of Graz in 1931. After a short period of practice, he was appointed a federal judge by the Austrian government, one of the youngest men to serve in such a lifetime appointment.

Students To Vote on New Schedule

During last spring's series of college campus strikes across the country a demand came forth for giving students time off from classes to enable them to work for the candidate of their choice during the election period.

Last semester the faculty of JIT voted to recommend that the fall 1970 Institute calendar be arranged to permit students to work one week for their candidates in the November elections and that there be a provision to make up for lost time. A referendum of the student body in this matter was suggested. The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees approved these recommendation in principle, subject to the referendum showing that a majority of the student body is in favor of this change.

Activities Fair Planned

Campus social life at JIT is often dull and void. This year the campus organizations plan to hold some new members and fill the need for freshmen participation in all facets of student activities.

On Tuesday, Sept. 1 at 1 o'clock, master of ceremonies Mike Coriann will present on stage in the Hubbard auditorium a series of various skits by the organizations. Some of those organizations to be represented will be Technology News, WITT, Newman Club, and the Young Republicans. Following the skits there will be booths set up in the Hub for all campus organizations, this will begin at 6 pm.

Union Board Offers Variety

The Union Board is the organization responsible for "providing something to do" on campus in the way of concerts, films, coffee houses, and other activities. Each year, they allocate funds from ITA with which they operate the "Create Your Own Atmosphere" programs.

We feel the results are worthwhile. First of all, there is the obvious advantage of better student attendance and participation. More important, we feel the members of the Union Board feel they are gaining an advantage over the typical IT student, by learning and enjoying working with people. Industry will agree that life in the "real world" is more challenging and more complex. More companies are interested in people who have had the kind of experience the Union Board has to offer.

In the next week, we would like to demonstrate some of the things we can do. We invite you to try your hand in helping us organize these events. We'd love to have you join us.

Wednesday afternoon and Thursday evening, Sept. 2 and 3 — all during upperclassman registration — HUB Auditorium, come and stay as long as you want and enjoy W. C. Fields. We're showing West, Laurel and Hardy, and the Roadrunner... what's more — IT'S FREE!

Friday at 7:00 (more time change) HUB Auditorium—FREE ROCK CONCERT Saturday, Sept. 12 — 8:00, HUB Auditorium — Music Sale Friday, Sept. 18 — Union Board's first off-campus Beer Blast.
