Farr’s ‘Unmentionable’ Raid

In a surprise raid, members of the Farr Hall Association overthrew the dorm’s Residence Hall at 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 2. The unattended mass of students destroyed the dorm’s Residence Hall. The raid was condemned by President John Calwell, who declared the dorm to be in a state of emergency.

Apathy In Women’s Dorm

Source of Concern for All

by Dorothy Pugh

Most of the male students in the dorm are quite curious about the dorm’s Administration. The dorm’s Residence Hall is in a state of disrepair and effectively abandoned.

Debby Meyers, Women’s Dorm Council President, agrees that there should be more publicizing about the dorm as a whole, as well as the dorm’s policies and regulations. She observed that dorms should be more visible in the direction of the campus, and that the dorms should be more open to suggestions.

In any case, the big problem in the Women’s Dorm is apathy, which is often accompanied by the dorm being ignored in the campus’s plans.

Editor’s Last Lament; Tech Is Still Tech

It is now my time to be sage-like and reflect back upon our times as Editor-in-Chief of Technology News. I have worked for the paper for three years. I have viewed a changing world with great interest for these three years. I have also noticed something that has changed very little in those three years—the Illinois Institute of Technology and its students. The world of Technology, I believe, has remained in a great period of turmoil. People are finding it more difficult to remain untouched from these problems. Let’s accept the fact that your school is your second home, and that it is a place where you can find comfort and support. Your school is a place where you can make friends, and where you can learn valuable lessons. It is a place where you can grow and develop as a person. So, let’s respect our school and its traditions, and let’s work together to make it a better place for everyone.

Dear Tech Students,

I am writing this letter to express my concerns about the present state of our school. It seems like we have lost our sense of community and our values. The culture of our school has changed, and it is not the same as it used to be. I am worried about the future of our school, and I hope that we can come together to make a change.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Dear Tech Community,

I am writing this letter to address an important issue that has been affecting our school for quite some time. It is about the need for us to come together and work towards a common goal. We are facing challenges that require our attention, and it is important that we address them as a community.

Let’s remember why we are here and what we stand for. Let’s focus on the values that we hold dear, and let’s work together to uphold them.

Sincerely,

A RELIGIOUS CHRISTMAS SONG (that I should write)

After reading the latest issue of "Time" magazine, I was supposed to be up to date on the newest news. I was informed that the latest news was about the new Christmas song that is supposed to be hot. So I got a friend to buy me a copy of the magazine and I started reading it. I was shocked to find out that my friend had bought the same magazine. I tried to explain the situation to my friend, but she wouldn't understand. I tried to explain that I had bought the same magazine, but she wouldn't accept it. I was really frustrated. I decided to write a Christmas song myself.

The title of the song is "My Turn for the Stones."

I was really excited about writing this song. I wrote it in my best songwriting style. I tried to make it as catchy as possible. I wanted people to love it. I was really proud of myself.

Then, I went to my friend and showed her the song. She was excited too. We decided to record it together. We arranged for a session at the studio. I was really nervous, but I tried to stay calm.

We recorded the song in one day. It was really fun. We had a lot of fun singing it together.

After we recorded it, we decided to share it with the world.

We released it as a single. It was really successful. It became a hit. We were really happy.

I hope you like it.

Sincerely,

Amos

If You Can’t Beat It, Play With It

For the first time in its six-year history, TECHNOLOGY NEWS presents a diversion which not only stimulates the reader's intellect and gives him a break from routine, but takes up both space, too (two thirds of a page we don’t have to plug with copy).

"Life at Tech" (copyright 1970, patent pending) is a board game that is complete as you see it here—except for dice, markers, ID cards, tuition money, and any book you buy. The rules are simple—and should go without saying if you’ve been here for any length of time: GET OUTTA TECH (unless you have a degree). Any number can play—up to almost 3000. Each player finds a table (any personal artifact will do) and places at it the space marked START. Then, either roll the dice or add the haircut randomly along your slide rule until you get a number. Move your marker that many spaces. Ain't that rigorous?

Any time you come to a square marked REGISTRATION or FINALS, move your marker into the space in the center of the board. However, if you don't land exactly on that square, you don't have to go through either one. But once you're in REGISTRATION or FINALS, you have to land exactly on the last space to get out. That is, if you're three spaces from the end and you roll a four, YOU CAN'T GET OUT! You're stuck there until you roll a three!

However, when you finally get to the space marked REGISTER GAME, provided, of course, you live that long, move your marker to the REGISTRATION or FINALS space and take your next turn from there when it comes up.

You will note that the first term is very long and tiresome. Don't complain, though—the fact that the terms get shorter as you go along just means that FINALS and REGISTRATION come more often. And the spaces in between them aren't bargains either. (Oh, you've noticed?)

The winner is the first one to GRADUATION. This, however, does not mean your idea of winning—for instance, if someone hits the TRANSFER space and successfully throws five dice in a row, he wins. However, most players may find it difficult to get all the way through. Some may suspect that the game is rigged against them. A select few may eventually realize it is so.

Still, this game can present an interesting challenge. Next time you're in the HUB with your buddies, postulate your usual game of hearts or Four-ball and try "Life at Tech." You may be enlightened, amused, and entertained. Or you may break down and cry.

Not long after Jimi Hendrix's death, Eric Burdon claimed that he was going to make the world love him. Since Jimi's death as the lead figure in rock, I agree with the people who wrote to Rolling Stone not too long ago... "... the only similarity between Hendrix and Burdon is that they are both dead." However, his cut "They Can't Take Our Music Away" makes it big on Top 40.

The same team that has plagued activity for active duty here at ITT has struck again. The 1970-number of team members. There were only five swimmers comprising Coach Ted Ilkman's club, far less than enough to compete in more.

There were nine major letter winners in swimming last year. One is basf on the team, he graduated, and seven are on campus somewhere, and, for whatever reason, didn't come out to swim this year.
