The homecoming queen of ITT is elected almost purely on looks. It is true, people look through the pictures in the yearbook and say to themselves, ‘She looks like the cutest; I’ll vote for her.’ That is not how she should be elected. The queen should also be chosen for her personality, that’s very important.

Many girls are really interesting to me. There are so many different kinds of people here. You’ll see the preppies, the ones who spend all their time with their books, and then there are the hipster types, and a whole spectrum in between.

Here isn’t enough social activity here. Homecoming is really a good time for this campus since it provides the occasion for most of the dances and concerts.

Sue is a member of Pi Phi Delta, and is from St. Louis, Mo. She is 18, and she plans to be a stenographer. She is well liked and popular, and she enjoys her future as concerned. Sue doesn’t really relish the idea of being a housewife. Buying. ‘Personally, I think it would be boring. It’s not around doing housework all the time.’

Debbie Kriess

There are a multitude of reasons to attend college, and one of these must be dull and routine. The college cannot seem to be a place where people can just be students. The student activities are not enough to keep a student interested.

The queen should be someone who is not self-centered, someone who tries to understand how other people feel.

Debbie Kriess tells that this kind of social activity, would like to have more girls in the ITT campus. She is also a member of Pi Phi Delta.

Wine Dealers

More than 50 students of Northern Illinois U. were in agreement with a national wine preference survey done during a consumer blind tasting held in DeKalb, Illinois, January 13, 1973. The students took part in one of a series of tastings of California wines selected by the Wine Growers of California. With labels hidden, the California wines were served over foreign wines from other regions.

Nationally, California wines are preferred by over 40 percent of the students. More than 33,000 young adults have participated in the test for the past 10 years. The participants belong to such groups as extramural college organizations. An accompanying survey of the group supervised the purchasing and preference scoring of the wines. The wines are tasted in a variety of places and in two foreign wines in each test. All are purchased locally.

UB Needs PR Director

It hurts to continually harass and denounce the people who work on Union Board. We also go through hard times, and no encouragement so we know what it is like. This is no excuse for the haphazard work that UB has recently put forth. This is an excuse for the lackadaisical attitude that they have shown in their recent publicity work, and no excuse for the misinformation concerning UB activities that runs rampant on this campus.

There was a UB movie last Saturday and though "Waldorf Dora" has been shown on national television it is still popular. A lack of publicity, however, leaves it standing attended by only 87 students. A pitiful showing for an organization that receives the bulk of funds appropriated to student activities. It seems that the only UB events that are well attended are the beer blasts, whether this is because a certain few will forsake all in the hope of a good cheap drink or whether one can always be sure that a certain percentage of Techewil will feel that the only thing left to do is drown their sorrows is not in the scope of this editorial.

Why is it that an organization that feels the weight of publicity is suffocated comes out with an activities calendar two months late? Why must an organization that seeks no use for someone to co-op or donate all their publicity and try to pump up an event more hours before it begins? Why do we find that an organization receives over 50% of the student activities fund and can not find a place for PR. Large commercial firms realize the importance of it and budget accordingly: why does UB feel that they can do better without it? It may be true that many of the past publicity directors were inefficient and at times perhaps even detrimental, but this is due to a lack of flow in the method by which people are approached.

As it presently stands a half dozen or so people are appointed to the Union Board at "large" with only the financial vice-president (treasurer) being appointed specifically. And it also turns out that many of the people that and up doing the appointing don't have any connection with UB nor do they understand the problems that are often encountered. The remaining people chose among themselves what positions they are to hold, if three people wanted to be UB President two lose and go on to seek out that they perhaps neither care for or are qualified to hold.

We suggest a few things the first that UB appoint a capable qualified Public Relations Director immediately so that one of the greatest problems that UB has ever suffered from might be alleviated. Second we urge UB to consider it a constitutional right to have the people appointed to UB are both willing to take on the position and are qualified to do so, and third we suggest that UB once again go out to the masses and try to make sure that which will attract and interest the average Tech student. For the Romans, it was circuses, perhaps the common Techewil will be less demanding.

Letters

Dear Editor,

I have been a rather faithful reader during the years that I have worked at UB. I am pleased to see the improvements that you have brought in since your appointment as editor. Editorials, features, news, more readable sports page and even better cartoons. Please keep up the good work and may it serve you for another five years.

Sincerely,
Jay Allen

Nixon Peace Prize?

It is one of the paradoxes of our time that a man who kept a war going for four years and who only a month ago was bombing hospitals and villages could be nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize. Yet, that man, Richard Nixon, is one of those under consideration for this prestigious award.

The problem is it is nearly impossible to justify this nomination short of redeeming the world peace. Years of war might have been averted, and Mr. Nixon could have proven he was truly a man of peace if he had initiated serious peace overtures sooner than April. As we know, this was just the case.

As it is, whether Mr. Nixon is really responsible for peace is debatable. If we believe the administration's version, it was the North Vietnamese who unilaterally opened talks. The U.S. had a standing offer pro- posed by Mr. Nixon in May of 1972, which, supposedly, the North Vietnamese are demanding. Abandoning most of their demands, this is how it happened. So, Nixon obviously deserves the peace prize. Nixon is the only one who has nominated for the U.S. Peace Prize in 1972. It is not fair to say that Nixon has been saying since October 5 that he did something. Why this might be Mr. Nixon a better candidate for the peace prize, it wouldn't help him win any credibility awards.

Supporters of the nomination want us to forget the past, and argue that there is no other suitable candidate. However, the prize commission would be setting a precedent if it declared no prize this year. Hopefully, the Peace Prize Commission will realize what an inappropriate choice Richard Nixon would be.
