Committee to Evaluate Tech Re-Formed

Academic Vice-President Joseph J. Brophy heads the board, acting as an official chairman of the committee. The other administrative include Academic Vice-President and President Robert T. Bollard.

The committee, comprised of the president, vice-president, and three faculty members, was formed in an interview made last Monday, February 10.

The planning committee is ac- cording on every two years to examine the progress of IT during the preceding decade and to set new goals and objectives for the future.

The new members of the commit- tee include 11 faculty, two student representatives, one faculty: student represent- atives, and two administration-offi- cials.

Festivities Succeed Despite Storm

The worst opportunists of the win- ter threatened to put a damper on the big campus of Homecoming Week, but the dinner dance at Sheraton Hotel every single night, with the weather turning for the better, was a success.

A packed house made reservations took the weather into consideration and did not prevent the rest of the program from going on.

Only a few tables were still left at the time of the crowd, and even those that were taken were promptly filled. Everyone was enjoying the evening, and the program was a success.

Comedian Dan Akroyd was the highlight of the evening, demonstrating his magical tricks while keeping the audience in stitches. His performance was a hit, and the audience loudly applauded.

The high point of the evening was when Bob Wagner announced the new IT student government. Rebecca Kreisler was crowned queen, only after winning the contest. The competition was tough, and the candidates did not spare any effort to win the crown. Rebecca Kreisler stood out from the rest, and her performance was impressive.

The dinner dance was a success, and the students and faculty were more than happy to celebrate Homecoming Week.

Students Take Note!

ALL DAY UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS DESIRING TO DECLARE A COURSE IN MATH MUST DO SO BY SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 27. THIS IS THE DEADLINE FOR STUDENTS TO VISIT THE REGISTRAR'S OFFICE AND ELECT THE MATH OPTIONS FOR THE Fall Term. Seniors, who have not already done so, must file their "Application for Graduation" copy at the Registrar's office IMMEDIATELY.

The AFROTC program at IT faces a possible shutdown due to a continuing enrollment growth.

The appointment of Ted Kennedy as the new president of the company was announced at the recent meeting of the board of directors. The move is seen as a strategic step to strengthen the company's leadership and improve its overall performance. Kennedy, with his extensive experience in the industry, is expected to bring new perspectives and innovative ideas to the company.

FPE Loses Money!

The company reported a loss in the first quarter of the year due to increased operating costs and decreased sales. The management is taking steps to address these issues and improve the company's financial performance. The loss is attributed to the global economic downturn and the increased competition in the industry.

Check-Ins

What is the purpose of any education? Is it for the people to go beyond any. It is a sketch for "good" job, others view it as a goal in the course for its own sake. is it a tool to be applied to the problems we all face?

Admittedly, a private institution like UTI will not find itself exposed to the same educational discipline as an engineering or architecture school. What does it do in the other two needs of the student?

The UTI Placement Office, using those who have undergone an education here, appears to be quite able to 10110 the emphasis of teaching students with jobs. I have never even been in all... is this the future of this institute?

The second function in the one which is probably the mostimportant in society and probably the hardest to fulfill! How is one trained to solve unusual problems? How can one be taught to find solutions to problems unsolvable by any human theory?

In most engineering curriculums, this process of problem solving is not provided until the later year.

Tech Education

Common core courses (Chem 111/113, Mach 103/4, Physics 101/2, and ES 104) attempt to build on the computer/controls course. Rarely does the classes serve for student oriented problem solving, or for self motivated work in line of certain required units.

In the liberal arts, another section and more personalized introduction, this process evolves carrier. At least the student has earned to think intelligently about certain problems. The free-standing unit in a humanities course, or the unstructured essay or term paper in a science course a vehicle for student exploration of an area of interest.

There are three fields which can be exceptions to the three department. Architecture, Design and Etering. In these three programs, even from the first semester, project work and "real-world" problem solving is utilized as an ed-national method. Although the first two lead the way in this technique, the success of the E-unit program stems the way that may be followed in other areas.

The proposed "Honors" program a possible solution to this problem allowing the student to perform independent study courses, as an alternative to forbreaders. It is a very constructive idea of achieving the third pur-purpose of an education. This progress being supervised by an instructor, brings promise of injected illumination into many dark cor-ers of the UTI curriculum. It an-ters the criticism raised by the recent North Central Association reports, that the education here is too

Next week The UTI Administration.
Community Respect?

The cancellation of Triangle's blood drive last week by the IIT administration is a setback in improving the community's attitude. The drive, which is a national event, was supposed to be held on the campus. It is a time for the university to realize that it has a responsibility to the community by providing services that benefit both students and the community. The drive has caused confusion among many IIT students and some members of the community.

Only by making definite commitments can this school achieve the respect of the community. To state that the blood drive has caused confusion among many IIT students and some members of the community is ridiculous. This university should require coverage that other organizations have had in the past.

With planning of the blood donor drive dating as far back as spring quarter registration, the timing of the cancellation was not regrettable. The students who spent time getting pledges for blood and the people who would have benefited from the drive should not have to suffer for what can only be described as an administrative blunder.

If this school wants to improve the image it has in the eyes of the community, they believe this was the wrong way to go about it.

Dear Sir,

I am writing to express my concerns over the lack of coverage in the IIT newspaper about the recent blood drive. The drive was scheduled to take place on the campus, but it was cancelled at the last minute, causing confusion among students and members of the community.

Four Losers and One Near Miss

by James B. Mohler

Wolfe City - Amaon Dull II (United Artists) This is one of the more famous German rock groups. Unfortunately, I can’t say why they’re famous. Possibly their staff is a bit too large and poor for their reality. Their presence at a concert or rock festival is an event that brings out the vocalizing and composing abilities of the audience.

Dorothy Lamour-Hawkswood (United Artists) This is billed with the flashy chord patterns and covered in a shiny, mechanized bubble-like form of electronic trashy music. This must have been some really good group that we haven’t heard in a long time. Worked fine, especially for people who remember Dino and the Belmonts. You’ll be amazed at how these guys recreate the old songs after being apart for years.

Nothing Like A Sunny Day - Robert Thomas Villari(UCLA) There seems to be a rush of these old folk singers who have playing the same old songs. This guy isn’t half bad, though. Just not terrific.

Sounder No Shaft

by Anthony Jenkels

When Sounder first opened in Chicago, many people in the movie industry decided the commercial value of a simple story about a sharecropping family. They wondered how it could succeed in a market of theatrical musicals, shorts, and the usual run of sex and violence.

Ten weeks later, all but one of these crowd grabbers (“The Outlaw,” “The Outlaw,” “The Outlaw”) have vanished on the relatively offbeat neighborhood circuits. While Sounder always draws a downtown crowd with the usual run of sex and violence, the old black movies are all about coal, when black is the coal, and shifting white people are in for a surprise.

Sounder is an unusual movie in several ways. For one thing, it is not a “black picture” but rather a picture about black people intended for all people. Also, unusual is a family film that doesn’t come across in a child’s level.

Paul Winfield and Clorise Tyson star in Sounder as the parents of a poor sharecropping family in the South of the 1930s. They try, sometimes successfully, to keep their farm going and to make life better for their children. Times are hard and food becomes scarce. To keep things going and to keep their farm going, the family and the children are often forced to make hard decisions and sometimes fatal conflicts of what the future might bring.

Jailed and humiliated, Nathan Lee (Paul Winfield) reaches an embrace with his son David (Kevin Hooks) and holds the ending is hopeful, yet realistic.

Paul Winfield, nominated for Best Actor for his moving portrayal of the father, provides the movie’s strongest presence. Clorise Tyson puts on a brave show as the mother and should be a threat in Diana Ross for the Best Actress Oscar. Young Kevin Hooks as the son.

But keyed again by their superb defense, Hawks have won three games in the second half. As ITI be- came more aggressive, their defense forced GWC's offense and made the ball drop into set of ITI's scores. This happened up the middle, and the Hawks began playing "model" offense exactly the way Coach Cossey devised it with Shablak and Wayne Boyd scored the game, and they could play their game's offense into their own. Though faced with the end of the half, ITI refused to flab and played "their game" to the best of their ability. Thus, when Hawks scored more of a lesser dia- logue than UGW, they continued to play off the way, and are much more confident.

The two A&H victories have shown that even the Hawks, led by Ray hopes to cut the score to 2-0 in the final game. The more he's roughed up, the rougher he gets. Hawk's defense is so strong that GWC's offense will have difficulty in ITI scoring.

All of the Hawks have come into their own and a bright future is in sight for all of them. As it is now, the ITI is driving in the direction of the other team, and they are steady. The Hawks are playing with a new found strength, as they scored 2-0 in the first game.

Hawks Get it Together

By Harvey Schutz

A team was born last week, with the stock and gain column of Congress and the Board of Directors of the National Basketball Association. It has been a rarely heard from the area, but now it's on the rise. And the stock and gain column of Congress has been a frequent visitor to the board.

Tired of the slow start, and the lack of interest, the Board of Directors decided to do something about it. They announced a new team, the Hawks, to compete in the NBA. The Hawks have been playing well this season, losing only one game so far.

The Hawks are coached by Tom Shaflin, who has been with the team since its beginning. Shaflin was hired to bring some professional experience to the team.

Hawks Drop Pair

By Harvey Schutz

A lost weekend for Coach Shaflin, as the Hawks lost in three games. Shaflin blamed the losses on poor
