Jinxed Directory Out Next Week... With Bit of Luck

Student Directory... It's a good idea to get it out, according to Bob Foertl, this year's SD editor.

The directory was supposed to be out October 19, but it has been plagued with delays and errors. Foertl said he has no idea when the directory will be updated.

The problems began when Foertl's business manager quit during the summer. This meant that Foertl had to gather ads for the directory himself.

Then, earlier this year, it was discovered that the computer used to edit the directory had been damaged, which meant that much of the directory had to be re-created from scratch. Foertl said he had to get information on the freshman registration card and keys to campus.

There were no major problems until the beginning of November. According to Foertl, the final print run was half an hour before completion when it was discovered that almost half of the binding had been inadvertently removed. "We had to do it all over again," Foertl said. It has taken the SD staff almost four weeks to get back to where they were in November.

With a little luck, the directory will be out during finals week. Foertl said he expects it to be out by the end of November.

The Student Directory is a new product of the University and is expected to be a hit with students.

We All Share Blame For Energy Crises: Oil Spokesman

Everyone shares the blame for the energy crisis according to Michael E. Thompson, field communications coordinator for Standard Oil of Indiana. Thompson was at Stuart School Wednesday, November 23, to discuss the current energy situation.

Thompson's talk concentrated on how energy consumption has grown in the last decade. The presentation included a slide show with graphs about the rise in energy use.

The main causes of the crisis, according to Thompson, are the rise in consumer demand for energy and United States dependence on crude oil. Thompson's remarks made the public aware of the high costs of energy and suggested ways to reduce consumption.

Thompson said that all of us -- government, industry, and consumers -- are going to have to participate in the effort to work out a solution. "The solution will require cooperation," he said. "The solution will require cooperation both here and abroad."
CTA Alive - Rekar Elected

by Pamela Hamel

Pam Rekar was elected as the new CTA Chairman after Ernst Gristad resigned. She was elected at the November 26th meeting. The topic of discussion at the meeting was the proposed constitution. The constitution was ratified by a large majority of the attending students. Approximately 55 students came to the meeting.

The new constitution went into effect after the beginning of the new semester. However, it will be amended before going into effect. Chairman Rekar and Co-Chairpersons Paul Stanek and Dean Storno are scheduled to attend the first meeting. Storno has been appointed to the position of CTA's co-Chairperson and Treasurer.

The John T. Retaliata Loan Fund, established by the ITT Board of Trustees, was considered at the meeting. The fund is intended to provide financial assistance to ITT students who are enrolled in the College of Engineering and Physical Sciences. The fund was established to help students pay for their tuition and other expenses. The fund is available to students who meet the eligibility requirements.

Rekar is a senior and four graduate students. Figures were released this week by the ITT Dean of Students Office. They show that the fund will be available to students who are enrolled in the College of Engineering and Physical Sciences. The fund will be available to students who meet the eligibility requirements. The fund will be available to students who meet the eligibility requirements. Impeach Nixon

We think Richard M. Nixon should be impeached.

Nixon's record is long and dirty. It includes a profound disrespect for the civil liberties of the people, as evidenced by his approval of the Charles Hutton document and the Ellsberg break-in. A corruption and tolerance of corruption, best illustrated by the Watergate fraud; criminal destruction of evidence, and usurpation of Congressional power.

Especially bothersome is the energy crisis, which Nixon let sneak up on him. Some economists are predicting that unemployment will rise to 10 percent of those employable, but at Nixon's hands, Hong Kong is back in, the more optimistic place it at a percent. Nixon's handling of the energy problem alone should be grounds for impeachment.

Nixon has certainly made some positive steps in some areas, particularly foreign relations, but these do not provide reason enough to keep this corrupt administration in power.

Someone recently said that Americans have gotten to the point where they would accept a dictatorship, if it was a benevolent dictatorship. We do not think that this is true, but we do think that it is time that we prove our commitment to freedom by working for the impeachment of Nixon.

We urge everyone to write to their congressmen and let them know how you feel. To paraphrase the campaign slogan: "Impeachment now more than ever."

CHRISTMAS - IIT STYLE

Admissions

Dear Mr. Anderson:

In your news story concerning IIT enrollment in your November 19th issue, you state that the power to "limit admissions" is now held by the Office of Admissions. In your editorial you say, "The Office of Admissions determined how many students are admitted." These statements are not true. Any limit on admissions is made by the President's Office. The Admissions Office admits those students it considers able to do IIT work—and it does not consider, either, "space and budget limitations." These determinations are made at a higher level, namely, the President's Office.

In your news story you quote Professor Danforth as wanting to take the power of limiting numbers away from the Admissions Office. I am sure you must have misunderstood him because Professor Danforth knows that the Admissions Office is willing to meet any request for maximum numbers approved by the Department of Architecture or by any other department if the President's Office has the approval of the President of IIT.

You state further in your news story that the Director of Admissions had no explanation concerning the increase in transfer admissions this year and state that there is "no indication that transfers have been increased to keep classrooms filled." The reason for the increased number of transfer admissions this year is actually very simple. College transfer students, like freshmen, are admitted to IIT if they seem capable of doing IIT work. There was one valid reason for discriminating against them—again by young men or women applying to IIT. There were more transfer admissions this year because there were more transfer applications, twenty-four per cent more than there were a year ago. There were only possibilities for explanations for the increase in applications. The actual reasons for the increase are unclear. Only with the passage of time may a valid explanation be proffered.

Sincerely yours,

David A. Dudley
Director of Admissions

WIIIT Replies

Dear Editor:

First, if Bob Kmak had been listening to the radio last spring when I requested working hours, he would have found WIIIT was broadcasting a Lenny Bruce tape as a special program. This is the reason we could not play "working hours.

Second, WIIIT is not "no damn structured." There's not a list of music that we play over and over again because the program director told us to. Further, if Kmak had bothered to really listen to Chicago's great progressive shows, such as Speaks, Barrence, and Quick, Scoff, Purcell, Maffei, and Steve Burke, he would have had something to say.

One very interesting full-page advertisement appeared in last Sunday's New York Times "Work in Review" section. The ad was sponsored by the National Christian Committee for Fairness in the Presidency. The name of the organization was sound, and the idea behind it seemed to me that the situation in the United States has reached such proportions that it is almost impossible to tell what is happening. The ad said that Nixon was going to run for President again in 1972. Nixon's campaign slogan was "A New Kind of President." The ad went on to say that Nixon would do everything necessary to save the Presidency, and that if he were elected, he would do as much as he could to save the United States. The ad ended with the statement, "Nixon: The Image and The Truth."

After reading the review in the Chicago paper about the show "Greed," the reviewer was reminded of the Blackstone Theatre. The show was a hit, but it was short-lived. The reviewer wondered if the show had been a success originally, and if the audience would have enjoyed it more. He thought about the New York City where many shows are made, and if people there would have liked the show as much as those in Chicago. The reviewer mentioned that the show was not as successful as expected.

The plot of the show is centered around the relationship between the two main characters, played by Toilet. The audience is interested in the couple's relationship, and how it affects their lives. The reviewer mentioned that the show was a touching and emotional story, which left a lasting impression on the audience.

Remember "The H" was a comedy that had a few years ago. The story was about a comedy adventure that led to a revelation. The movie was made by the author, Donald Woodhull, who had written the story. The movie was adapted from a comic strip, and it featured crime and murder. The author, Donald Woodhull, wrote the story, and it was adapted into a film by a group of criminals. The author, Richard D. Woodhull, wrote the story, and it was adapted into a film by a group of criminals.
By Robert Weinberg

Remember, "The Hot Rock"... it was a comedy that came out a few years ago that featured four criminals as heroes in a wild comedy adventure where they tried to rob a bank. The movie proved so popular that the studio wanted to make sequels, and the characters were turned into a television series. The story is about a group of "greasers" (lower-class youth) who are members of a gang and are involved in criminal activities. The movie is characterized by its fast-paced, humorous dialogue and its unique portrayal of working-class characters.

The story is set in a small town where the gang members are trying to pull off a heist. The lead character is a tough, street-smart kid who is the brains of the operation. The rest of the gang members are portrayed as dim-witted but quick to react. The plot is filled with misunderstandings and near misses, but they manage to pull off the heist in the end.

The movie is a classic example of the"greaser" genre, and it is still enjoyed by audiences today for its humor and depiction of working-class life.
The real test in life is not whether X covaries with Y; or whether the GNP is dependent upon unemployment; or whether the form follows the function, rather, it is whether or not you can successfully relate yourself and your ideas to others.

Gull Soup, Anyone?

by Jim Chapman

Maureen: "We're always parking, we're always saying goodbye."

Jonathan: "I'll be here sometime, but goodbye, for now."

Maureen: "My love goes with you."

Jonathan: "I love you, Maureen."

"Jonathan Livingston Seagull" is a love story among sea gulls. The sea gull motif has been made here in Boston. I can imagine Hal Hartletti flying in the air and singing about the sea gull's love story.

I was inspired by Hal Hartletti in the movie "Gull Soup, Anyone." He sings a song about the sea gull's love story and it's beautiful. The sea gull motif has been made here in Boston. I can imagine Hal Hartletti flying in the air and singing about the sea gull's love story.

Hartletti: "Then it's all settled. I'll get a rewrite man on it right away. Don't worry. Rach. We're going to turn your book into something really good."

So we have Hal Hartletti in a dark room, working on the movie "Gull Soup, Anyone." He's ready to create something special. The sea gull motif has been made here in Boston. I can imagine Hal Hartletti flying in the air and singing about the sea gull's love story.

Hartletti: "I don't care if the thing doesn't have a line. It's not important. It's a great theme. Let's call it 'The Story of the Sea Gull.'"

Hartletti: "But I'm not worried. The story is about the sea gull's love story and it's all right."

Hartletti: "I'm going to turn your book into something really good."

This film never should have been made. You can't make a full-length motion picture out of a short story. Did you ever see the movie version of "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty"? They took Thurber's simple, charming story and padded it until it looked like a best seller on the walls of a mental hospital. And was it as funny? Thurber hated the movie. And by all accounts, Richard Bach hates this movie. In fact, the following disclaimer appeared in the movie just before "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" started: "This agreement, the producer, the author of the book, and the composer of the score, certain changes are now being made in the film you are about to see."

Probably Maureen's gonna get dumped. But really, the best change they could make here would be to chuck the whole movie and start over. Because for the sake of padding, all that pseudo-philosophy about 'The Search for Perfection' is just repeated too many times. It hits you over the head like a ton of rain on gull meat.

"Gull Soup, Anyone," thing, Hartletti. Forget about making gull movies. Have Richard Bach read his original story as the soundtrack. Orson Welles, let the trained hawks go through their silent passages, without dialogue. It would make a nice hour-long TV film."

Well, not真的 listens to me. I suppose this crock of gull soup is going to make a million dollars.

Soccer Honors

The ITT Athletic Department awarded the Soccer Team, in its first sectional, the top honors. The players were awarded the N. I. A. A. District 20, Honorary Mention. Ambrose Auch, of Elmhurst, who was the wonderful mid-field back for the team's offensive play. He was named the "Most Valuable Player" for his outstanding offensive play at the middle back positions. Mark's play who brought praise from opponents as he spearheaded the defense.

Ambrose and Marcell head the list of letterman which includes Jerry Jolster, Kerri Brandt, Tom Darcy, and Bill James. All of our letterman will be returning next season, which should be a strong point for a better year.
MIT B-Ball Conference Stronger Than Ever

by Richard Anderson

Coaches from the new Chicagoand Collegiate Basketball Conference were at MIT Tuesday to discuss their teams and talk about the conference, which is making its debut this year. MIT basketball coach Rick Aronson was spokesman for the league and said that he hopes the league will be "meaningful and long lasting." He also explained that the conference is much stronger than a lot of people think it would be and that he spoke about his own team.

Coach Bob Fossum, from the College of St. Francis, said that the six players returning from last year's squad will form a solid nucleus for his team. The squad looks to be in good shape, he said, as there is a lack of skill at the front line. Coach Fossum feels his team is a lack of quickness and rebounding power. He says the defense will be better, and more successful. Fossum is a 6'8" center guard who is averaging 25 points a game. The team, he said, is probably the shortest team in the conference.

A coach who believes says that the league is moving members of the Northeastern, a team all well-coached. He feels his team has the depth to get them through their tough schedule.

Each Hunt of Dakota in 7-6 victory鑫dalke, bad and optimistic about his team, the club is doing mostly of freshmen. The older players, including 3 guard Talles, have taken over most of the slack left by the former guards.

New coach Rob Hallberg anticipates an exciting season. Gary Nichols, NAIA

The enthusiastic support of more than 1,000 Hawkeye fans was not quite enough to lift the young Scarlet Hawks over a hustling Lewis University nine in the season's opener at Keating Hall in the Second game of the season, Lewis held on an early 1-0 lead with Jim Kelly and Ross O'Leary blanking the way. A charge of subbed-out look was not answered until Gray had the score at 1:13 through a powerful righting. The Scarlet Hawks, led by Captains T.K. Daniel and Tom Shaw, had their hands full controlling both boards, but the Hawks capitalized on several opportunities in the second half. Lewis fouled Rodney Rose hit two jumpers to take a 2:35 lead with 37 seconds remaining in the first half, 6. 67's shooting percentage of 15 percent, despite a 12 to 10 rebounding superiority, hurt Lewis again. Not to cope with ITT's rebuffing on a man in man basis, Lewis switched to a zone defense and came out flying in the second half to take a 10-point lead. Led by Captains Tom Shaw and Wayne Ben, the Hawks battled back to 53-3, but Lewis excited guards Bill Moreman and Jim Kelly cashed in two jumpers to put the Hawks down by 12 with 10 seconds to go. This Hawks went on to a convincing 75-51 win. Freshman guard Willy Williams had "opening night" problems but will settle down. Our shooting will not be as bad again—we'll put it together next time out." Next time out will be Wednesday night at Rockford College, and the Hawks open the season on Saturday night. The Scarlet Hawks lost for exams next week and are set to play at home in the Westmont College Tournament at Rockford, Illinois, on December 23 and 26.

CSU Rolls Over IIT

by Jerry Silman

ITT's blowout was a crucial match to the Chicago State University last Sunday. Winning only one of five games in the season opener held at the University of Illinois at Chicago, the Hawks were looking to get their season moving. Larry Klein was sent to the bench for elbowing. A couple seconds after Purdue had put the Scarlet Hawks out, Purdue's power play put the sixth, and final, goal into the net.

The Hawks defense has tightened up and kept the net empty for the rest of the game. Purdue's defense was decent, but their offense fell apart. The Hawks offense just couldn't add to the score.

The Techawks lost the first game of the season and were looking to bounce back and win the second game by a decisive margin. As the third game seemed to be within reach, a defeat was snatched from the jaws of victory by the Techawks in the third game by a single point. Try as they might, the Hawks were unable to make a comeback in either of the two remaining games. In addition, the extra point for the game, was awarded to the Chicago State team.

With only one remaining in the semester, ITT needs to win when they take on DePaul University on December 29. The Hawks will have the advantage of bowling on their home court, so this match should prove to be an exciting one. The second game will begin at 7:00 pm in the Heritage Hall Recreation Room.

Coach Tony Barbato opens his third season Saturday at Lake Forest College in a triangular meet. Despite the loss of veterans George Lewski and Bob Manley, who transferred to other colleges, the veteran coach looks for improvement over last season. Veterans are Ron Pedriano at 142, Ron Crocco at 150 and Jim Holmstead at 165. Bill Stimpson and Calubine are wary for the 190 spot. Howard Grrrton, who didn't have the right spot, will hold the 185 spot with a big 120 newcomer, Charles North in the heavyweight class. The 137 and 177 pound slots are still open with a newcomer—Rickie, Todd, Ziemann and Kunter—to begin the season.
