The following is the first in a series concerning off-campus housing since half of IIT students are commuters and many live closer to the campus than is commonly thought. Here is the first in a series of reports on living off campus. Future installments in the series will include the varieties of lodgings, houses, rooms, and neighborhoods.

Harold Thompson

Bridgewater. The name triggers images of brotherly love, shared rooms, and neighborhood bars in the minds of most IIT students. That's due in part to recent Technology News articles highlighting the "entertainment scene" of the popular neighborhood. Bridgewater is also home to at least 100 students who have left the noisy state of campus life for a quieter, more intimate setting.

A simple analysis of the last Student Directory shows that 30 percent of these students are graduates of the architecture program. Beacon is a name often associated with Bridgewater apartments due to their attractive appearance and reasonable housing costs.

But I'm really not sure how much longer I can remain in this article.

Waiting

The name of the student housing area is Bridgewater. The area is known for its close-knit community and its proximity to the IIT campus. The housing options available in Bridgewater include both off-campus and on-campus apartments.

Housing in Bridgewater

Bridgewater is a popular housing option for IIT students due to its affordable rent and easy access to the campus. The housing options available include both studio apartments and two-bedroom units. The area is known for its close-knit community and its proximity to the IIT campus.

The Curious Case of the READER

I always read on campus. Finals, March 27 was the last day of classes, and the second day of finals week. I was looking forward to the rest of the semester, as I had finally finished all my exams. However, I soon found out that the last day of classes was not going to be so easy.

The news of the day was not reassuring. The administration had announced that the campus would be closed for the rest of the semester. This was a complete shock to me, as I had been looking forward to the final exams and the end of the semester. I couldn’t believe that the university had made such a decision.

I tried to call the administration, but the phone lines were down. I was completely alone, with no one to turn to. I felt like I was being abandoned.

Then, I remembered the READER. I had always trusted the READER, and I knew that they would tell me the truth. I dialed the number, and I waited.

The READER answered the phone, and I told them my story. They were shocked, and they promised to do everything they could to help me.

They started by organizing a protest on campus. They gathered hundreds of students, and they marched through the streets, chanting and singing. It was beautiful.

The administration was forced to listen, and they agreed to reconsider their decision. They promised to reopen the campus on the first day of the next semester.

I am grateful to the READER for their help. They are the true champions of the student voice. I will never forget what they did for me.

I am now back on campus, and I am looking forward to the rest of the semester. The READER has given me hope, and I know that I will make it through.

The READER is the voice of the student, and I am proud to be a part of it.
EXXON-IIT Merge

Institute of Technology plans to introduce a new Bolivian department which presumably will focus on developing a special oil-producing plant. Grade points are being offered to students who find new crude deposits beneath the fifty-four square miles of gravel that will make up the new IIT parking lot, hopefully to provide funds that will help to reduce the $30.00 per day mandatory parking fee for which resident students are also charged. Rawe says that, "with luck, we'll be able to hold the yearly tuition stable at somewhere around fifty thousand dollars, maybe less."

EXXON Arthur Strauss also reports tremendous progress in their development of the totally synthetic protein, partially digestible edible gruel, which can be recycled or disposed of through a pending contract with the Chicago Sanitary Commission. Made of easily palatable polystyrene foam, the "burger" will solve the problem for many students who need not "run the risk of allowing them to eat as much as they wish in the dorms. The non-edible plastic object fills the stomach in much the same manner as does antiquated food," without the craving distractions and discomforts of that outdated commodity. Mr. Strauss has agreed to distribute the more palatable edibles, and will call them "blanders."

Charles Cahoon, explaining the changes which led to new president, said: "Our need is to reach a reasonable situation."

EXXON Communications Board, and the IIT Board of Trustees, are charged with the responsibility to see to it that Technology News Editor resigns by the end of the fall semester. Cahoon said: "I'm sure that any journalist will agree that a good newspaper prints only news that is relevant to the people who read it."

IPC Printing Augmented

by Chuck E. Faryk

The pressing problem of the day has been significantly reduced with the advent of a new device, the inkjet printer, which eliminates the need for expensive photosetting equipment. In many cases, this is a welcome development, as the printer allows for efficient and accurate reproduction of text and images.

The printer is designed to work with a variety of media, in various sizes and thicknesses. It can also handle different types of ink, which can be customized to suit specific needs. This makes it a versatile tool for different applications.

The inkjet printer uses a series of small nozzles to spray ink onto the paper, creating the desired image. This process is very precise, allowing for high-quality results.

One of the main advantages of the inkjet printer is its cost efficiency. It is significantly cheaper than equipment like plotters or laser printers, making it a popular choice for many businesses.

Overall, the inkjet printer represents a significant step forward in the field of printing. It offers numerous benefits, making it an ideal solution for various applications.

King Faisal the III of Saudi Arabia was appointed Chairman of the Board of the President of the Board of Directors of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) in Washington, D.C. on Tuesday.

The appointment follows the resignation of former Chairman, Maysan F. Verembrue, as well known for his association with the Justice Department. Collingwood Chase, who was asked to resign by President Verembrue, was cited for reasons of personal ethics and a lack of discipline in his work. Chase had previously served as General Counsel of the FCC, a position he held for 15 years.

NAB: King Faisal, do you think that your appointment to the FCC and the fact that your country holds more than 13% of the world's known oil reserves will be a help or hindrance in your work as Chairman of the Board of Directors?

Faisal: It can only help. My goal is to bring the FCC to the attention of the world as a key player in global communications. I believe that the FCC can play a vital role in promoting peace and understanding among nations.

NAB: What about the efforts of the 'Presidential Search Team'? Do you think they are creating the public image you desire?

Faisal: I have only seen a few of their efforts. One of them, Rock M. Stone from SNB Lighting, seems to be our best bet. Besides, they are far too busy with the 'Presidential Search' to deal with the problem of a lack of diversity in the top positions at the FCC.

NAB: How do you see the relationship between EIT and industry?

Faisal: They must go hand in hand. Industry needs EITs in order to keep up with the latest technological advancements. On the other hand, EITs must be aware of the needs of the industry to provide relevant education and training.

NAB: How do you view the situation with EIT programs, especially in countries with senior students?

Faisal: I am not sure what you mean by 'senior students.' Are they graduating seniors or are you referring to the senior management level of the EIT programs? In either case, we need to ensure that the EIT programs are meeting the needs of the industry.

NAB: What about your own qualifications?

Faisal: I am not sure what you mean by 'qualification.' I believe that my experience as a king and my knowledge of the oil industry qualify me for the position. I have always been interested in education and I believe that the EIT programs must be at the forefront of technological advancements.

NAB: But what about the economic, environmental, and social repercussions of your policies?

Faisal: I am aware of the concerns. I believe that the EIT programs must be economically sustainable and environmentally friendly. We must also be mindful of the social impacts of our policies, especially in countries where there are high unemployment rates.

NAB: Mr. Faisal, how do you feel about your role as Chairman of the FCC?

Faisal: I am honored to have been given this opportunity. I am committed to the FCC's mission and I believe that we can make a significant impact on global communications.

NAB: Thank you, Mr. Faisal.

A new discrimination suit at EIT was announced today by the 11th grade student, identified as the Secretary of the Association of Student Students (ASSA). The class-action suit alleged that the undergraduate male of the EIT student body was denied the opportunity to participate in the EIT administration and in the previous parties.

NAB: What about the female members of the EIT student body? Have they been accorded the same rights?

Ms. Ritz: Yes, they have. The female students have been represented in the class-action suit and their rights have been protected.

NAB: As part of their legal strategy, Ms. Ritz said that EIT males in grade 12 have been denied the opportunity to participate in the EIT administration and in the previous parties.

NAB: Ms. Ritz said that the suit was filed on behalf of all EIT students and that the suit was filed to ensure that the rights of all students are protected.

Qualifications for Leadership

One of the first things around here that needed improving in the quality of leadership, there’s no president and what we need is our own fearless leader. He should be able to organize and fundraise, raise campaigns, keep accounts of large sums of money and keep secrets.

Another thing that Tech’s new president should be is sneaky, sneaky, sneaky, sneaky! A sneaky is the only one capable enough to get something done around here. The sneaky has the added advantage of keeping the students as well as the faculty, administration, and his wife guessing as to what his next move will be. This added element is definite plus to any campus and especially at Tech where apathy runs high.

If the new president were a majority stockholder of some major corporation or perhaps it’s Tech would receive whatever balance out any damage Tech would suffer due to inflation, devalued enrolment, and embattling.

Another thing that the new president would HAVE to be is CRAZY! Rest assured that no man in total possession of his faculties would even consider accepting such a job—especially if he possessed all of the aforementioned attributes.

Having outlined carefully the qualities that would make up a good president, we hereby suggest that Frione M. Rowe be seriously considered for the position.

No Responsibility!

The Federal Street News and Blues is intended to be taken as a serious publication. We hope no one will take it too seriously. However, the following letters are NOT intended to be humorous. They are for real, believe me. Would I lie to you?

T.S. Editorial Page Editor

Dear Michael,

The purpose of this memo is to hopefully clear up some misunderstandings among Tech’s reading audience, and to urge you to take steps to avoid what appears at this point in time to be an inevitable confrontation.

Mr. Knak has gone for three weeks without sleep, stumbling around the dorms, ordering Wild Turkey in the case, throwing empty bottles around & screaming, “I’m gonna get those rotten bastards.” Need I go into all the gory details? I hope not.

The landlord is extremely upset... and Mr. Knak’s attorney is at this minute preparing a court brief.

The situation at Munzio Manor is DIRE.

But I am confident that we can deal with this situation like rational human beings—reasonable facets thereof—without alarming the entire Tech community. What would the people of Tech think if they knew that Dean Carl Godshart, working on Communications Board, is desperately trying to get Mr. Knak fired? Now, now, Michael, don’t get upset. I realize that evil shit is “Top Secret,” but due to the circumstances, it’s absolutely ESSENTIAL that we come to terms with this issue.

The trial of the whole thing lasted, as I see it, is this:

Dean Godshart is working on a campaign to force the firing of both Mr. Knak and a cheap technical, i.e., Mr. Knak isn’t a full-time student at Tech, so he shouldn’t be writing for the campus newspaper.

The Big Lie becomes obvious when you realize that Mr. Knak’s status has been a well kept secret since the beginning of the interview series. That this issue should surface now, when Mr. Knak is interviewing the full clean (Smith, Griffin, Chiarutti), is, in a word, suspect.

But hell, we’ve been thru this shit before, right? Ruts and bolls is my specialty. The legal technical fixes I engineered over the last five years—to keep Mr. Knak out of jail—would make Godshart & Company look like stone punks.

And that’s putting it mildly. Mr. Knak is in the throes of a blind rage as this is written. He simply can’t understand how the Dean can work up the Impeach go to question his writing ability— and lean on Communications Board to force you into firing him, or else fire the deans himself, when EVEN THEY admit that he’s the best writer currently published by Tech News. As far as I’m concerned, I’ve said that anyone in the Dean of Students office can even SPELL journ.

Well, now that I’ve defined the PROBLEM, maybe I can move on to a possible RESOLUTION.

As you know, Mr. Knak also writes for the Hyde Park Herald, Marvin Bohman, the managing editor there, has been urging Mr. Knak to write some articles about Tech. Does that switch on any lights? I thought so.

Just yesterday Mr. Knak told me—I PROMISED—that if he is fired from Tech News, he will write a vindictive spin on this whole sordid affair. Even the ‘nuff ‘nuff ‘nuff ‘nuff ‘nuff records he heard during the interview with Godshart.

Can you even IMAGINE the IMPLICATIONS of that sort of thing? Front page, 2,000 words, laid in the lap of the new紙 South Commons, Lake Meadows, Prairie Shores... it’s mind-boggling—the Evil Truth, out in the open. I’ve tried to talk him out of it, but I realize he’s no longer willing to follow the rules.

And so I leave it up to you. Make it clear to whoever is responsible for this hot night of all it is, or unwise, to Ford with a Professional Journalist in his first term—and look where it’s gotten him.

Yours in Foar and Laathiing,
Jonna Collins

Dear Editor,

After reading Dr. Smith’s reply, I cannot but have the following thoughts. Indeed we are getting to know a lot about the campus characters. One thing you have left out, however, is the fact that Mr. Knak and Company are as much bound by the ‘not stepping on the superiors’ toes’ ethic as any employee in an industrial outfit, rather than adhering to the fundamental human decency of respect for the responsible and moral for the excellent at all cost. Dr. Smith went as far as to label being overly candid a disease to me, that sounds like too much of the truth is evil, or just as ridiculous. If we are to be able to understand how the truth can be a disruptive force to the career of a Dean, we are inevitably expected to endorse, if not encourage, clandestine operation of the Administration. I would rather bend to it, if I may assume anything rigidly can be known, why all of the marked in any course of action that is not possible of the whole truth? is the hand won intellectual freedom and integrity in the Western World to be preserved even in the academic community? It was announced yesterday that an agreement has been reached between the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Eastern Telephone Corporation, that the latter had been willing to pay large sums for the right to operate its own telephone system in the city of Boston. This agreement will probably result in the establishment of a new telephone company in Boston, which will be known as the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company. The agreement is expected to be signed within the next few days.

The agreement will provide for the payment of a large sum of money to the Eastern Telephone Corporation, which will, in turn, be used to finance the construction of a new telephone system in Boston. The new system will be operated by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, which is expected to be entirely financed by the state of Massachusetts.

The agreement is expected to be signed within the next few days, and it is hoped that the new telephone system will be in operation by the end of the year.
The Legend of Beaver Bob

Legends are as much a part of the American way of life as elections, snails, and mom's apple pie. One of the most famous of all these is the lovable legend of the Bold and Beauty Beaver Bob. The stories that are currently known about this colorful character are just a small portion of the legend. Those of you who are familiar with some of these tales can begin to appreciate the legend and the man (beaver) that go well with it.

It all began one not-so-distant day on the north side of Chicago. The TURKEY turkeys have been delivering offspring for eons—and that's another story brought Beaver Bob to a deserving house somewhere on the pious north side, where Beaver had a relatively uneventful childhood building dams, imitating Gus Gillette, and taking pictures. He also has a collection of what he calls "Beaver Slides" which is the best collection of art slides in Chicago.

Bold and Beauty Bob, after years of dreaming of becoming an engineer, was an engineer of the animal kingdom; he attended an in school of higher education for study engineering. His first year of study showed him that he was placed entirely too much faith in the system—the result could have been disastrous but Bob salvaged his study from the ashes of defeat, improving his skills and entering into the world of photography.

Although all of the legends about Beaver Bob mention his enormous income through the use of his camera, very few tell about the high degree of professionalism that he has in his work. He only told the very best prints that were not only technically perfect but also had a human appeal. His camera style is reproducible by several upper echelon officials at his university.

performing weird and obscene root to mention forbidden pagan rites.

The story goes on to say that they sound too fantastic! They are all true. Let me give you an example. You probably have heard about the time Beaver took pictures in the woman's restroom (he followed these three guys in), well there's another story similar to that only in the men's restroom (he followed these three girls into) in a current interview with Beaver Bob, I asked his opinion of the recent stalking incidents. He replied that it was just a "normal way of getting off steam and besides it gives me plenty of opportunity to do some amateur photography." Yes, folks, it's true. Beaver Bob is a legend in his own time.

Milk: Udder Abuse

...details of the recent ill treatment of a group of R muders in an early edition of the Times. A number of the victims are children. Authorities have reported cases of abuse in countries as distant as India and China. Many of these cases are believed to have been caused by the constant exposure of the children to harsh conditions. The shocking and horrific details of the abuse were revealed in a report on the international situation for the Prevention of Child Abuse in the United States. The substance is prepared from the healthy rearing of male infants, most commonly cows, and has the appearance of a white creamy substance although it is sometimes described as having brownish tinges in color. It is packaged in a variety of ways from aseptic pasteurization to instant milk powder and is stored in refrigerated stacks around the country.

A recent study of the effects of a large breast milk on the health of the nation's children was published in the Journal of Pediatrics. The study found that the consumption of breast milk by children was associated with lower rates of childhood illnesses and higher academic achievement. The authors of the study concluded that breast milk is an important source of nutrition for children and should be encouraged as the primary source of nutrition for infants.

Potato Talk is a weekly feature pertaining to news and information concerning S.A.F.E.T. members. Our guest this week is the marvelously literate Pope Murray HJMIC, who resides in the plush Papal Palace in Vatican City, Pennsylvania. The interview was conducted by the venerable Darlis William Baxter Brown, who recently returned from exile in the ruins of Lake Warheath to resume his coaching career at the South Holland Institute of Technology.

WB: How did you come to hold this highest of positions in the Church?
PM: You should be so lucky as to find out! Actually, I fed the demo chart some Maggie David, and threshed out of his slave girls to dump his decrepit old body down the laundry chute. I mean, it’s about time we got this robot work the hands of those cruelly dago ways—the Mafia’s enough, you know, without organized religion overworking with entanglement and pasta.
WB: I see. But what prompted you to move the Papal State to the U.S.?
PM: Putz, kid! Farkel! Go to Sheba! Such a tough subject! Actually, I was originally Archbishop of the Alleghenies. With my mule just a few miles away, I felt so much more at home in old Keystone State than by that Goonan Sea. Yankin spirit, you know.
WB: What are your feelings on the Duck-shaped Potato and the Grand Spud?
PM: Penny you should ask! I just had dinner with my old pal Chudha the other day—had lasagna and bagels with matzah and chicken soup, and he had octopus—what are you nut, or like bread like, or whatever—I prefer a Pesto Chardonnay myself, or maybe a Creme de Menthe with herbs d’herbes—and I found this God damned Duck-shaped Potato in my salad! You can be sure that I called down the wrath of God on that restaurant the owner is still resting on a spot in the catacombs, but Chudha got just a little carried away, and ate all the other custodians in his excitement he couldn’t tell where the table ended and the appetizers began. I’m letting him take sanctuary in Saint Schwyts’s Fortress for now, but who knows when the National Guard’ll move me.
WB: Quite a problem.
PM: Yes, so it seems.
WB: But back to the question.
PM: Yes, back to the question.
WB: PM: Well?
PM: Well, what?
WB: The question!
PM: Ah, yes, This Grand Spud, this noodle schle╯lmeister, he’s got some character, but, I think, not enough to carry across this whole monumental face. This Potato Murray—it’s just a little too far.

For you frivolous Spud worshippers out there, try the new Chudha costume on your Tabletop Yoker—it’s sure to tickle your liver!

Announcement to S.A.F.E.T. members and devotees: The Sacred Manifold is in dire need of fuel, due to the current energy crunch. If you have any unnecessary alms in your family, please sort them down to the pump room in downtown EIT and have them converted to useful, readily combustible shodge, at no extra cost!

P.S. From Pope Murray: The New Saint Schwyts’s Edition of the Holy American Bible will be available in September. Highlights are: the gospel according to Alison, the new Mass featuring the Kaiser Excherat, and the sizzling, steamy, X-rated New Apocalypse otherwise known as the Book of Revelations. We know better! Don’t miss it—pick up a copy!

Dear Grand Spud: As a former student of the renowned Samuel Schwyts; I consider myself well fit to warn you against the possibility of a merger of the S.A.F.E.T. with the EXCONUT Superorganization. I have been an employee of the company since its merger, and have found that a project is underway to manufacture polystyrene Duck-shaped Potatoes for commercial distribution. This would, no doubt, threaten the security of your operation; besides introducing the probability of the real Duck-shaped Potato being actually eaten by the starving multitude; when they find out that it’s edible. I have here a plan to drown the excess technicians in a flood of potato juice; if you are interested, contact me.

Dear Hungry,

After yet another year of waiting, I finally set foot in the mysterious locale of the "Omnivore" Cafe. The place was packed to the gills, with patrons eager to try their hands at the culinary arts.
A basket of delicious hors d'oeuvres greeted me, accompanied by an artists' gallery and a wine bar. The atmosphere was electric, and I knew I was in for an unforgettable dining experience.

Food was served in portions small enough to satisfy hunger, but large enough to give a taste of the diversity of flavors at Omnivore. Each dish was a work of art, presented with care and attention to detail. I savored every bite, savoring the craftsmanship of the chefs.

I hope you have a enjoyable dining experience as well.

Crown Claims Two

by Archie Tech

There were two, a pair of nuns, who entered a long list of unfortunate Archbishops, who persisted in a desire to set aside the brightest and most attractive of St. N. (Crown Hall), better known as "Iona Hole." The two first-year students were working at their drawing tables; early in the afternoon, when a large glass window was broken, scattering the fragments across the floor of the building. As the paper and plaster fell, the students appeared to be in a state of shock.

Several days later, when the window was boarded up, an attempt was made to paint the board up. It has been suggested that the students be given a permanent memorial to the breakage.

For the protection of the students, half-hyphs are being sold for fifteen dollars each by the Idaho News Company, Idaho, Idaho.

- $100 a month, tax free, during your junior and senior years.
- the chance to win a full Air Force scholarship (including tuition, lab fees, the works).
- a challenging job as an Air Force officer upon graduation.
- a future where the sky is your limit.

Contact CAPTAIN WILCOXON at 725-9400, ext. 543.

(Valid only to college juniors or seniors, at least 2 academic years left before graduation)

Find Yourself A Future In Air Force ROTC...
Dear Vatican: What kind of demon haunted amulets would you want to talk to Hamilton, Bermuda? Or what kind of food would you want to mail a letter to Page Paget? Here about Tim Tim, or Janeiro, or Africa, or the sea of Abkhazia? What can be done about such ignorance?

Who the luck lives on Prince Edward Island, anyone? You got a problem, sir or Ms., and I sure ain't got the answer. In the way, what part of Africa is Malabo in?

Dear Joyce: Yesterday I was seventy years old and yesterday in high school. I am here today for the inaugural elephant team. I am slightly overweight, weighing in at over hundred and seventy-six pounds, but I am constantly making a valiant effort to lose weight. I mean, I have resigned myself to thirty-five cream sodas a day. After all these efforts to make myself more attractive, I cannot see why I cannot get dates like the other girls. All the good looking guys just pass me by, and only this little gnomish Hilton major wants to take me out. I have short hair to even call, but I have big tits, and consider myself quite desirable. I have a Cadillac and a Road Runner, and my father makes lots of bread for Bimini. What's wrong with me? What can I do? I mean a doctor. I'm all screwed up.

Gimme a hand.

Turkey casting a shadow.

If The Spirit Moves You

On campus theatre is again presenting finalists at I.T. Theatre for the second time, sponsored and funded in part by Union Board. The play is "Bitte Spirit," written by Noel Coward. "Bitte Spirit" was directed by the first-year student, Peter Schaffer. The play will be performed at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. The cast includes Ruth, Charles' second wife, and Dr. and Mrs. Bradman, friends of the Condemines. Unfortunately, things do not go as planned. The scene produces results and Elvira, Charles' first wife, who has been dead for seven years, is materialized. Charles not only has the problem of having two wives, but also the problem that he is the only one who can see and hear her. "Bitte Spirit" is the story of the "Three Sisters" and many other movies were derived. It was written in 1944 and first produced on June 30, 1944, at the Manchester Opera House and has been an audience favorite since.

Shakedown

HIT's Chapter of Sigma Xi, the honorary research society, has selected Dr. Sidney Burtz at the outstanding student lecture of the year. He will be presenting a lecture April 3 on "Hydroponics, Shakedown and Fatigue" in Crawford Auditorium at 4 p.m.

Student Advisors

Any student interested in becoming student advisors for the fall 1974 semester should pick up application forms from either the offices of the HUB Director or the Office of the Dean of Students Office.

Evaluation

ATS has distributed questionnaires to the faculty requiring participation in course evaluations. Many of the questionnaires have not been returned yet. Please return them as soon as possible to ATS in the HUB. If you are waiting a day or evening undergraduate course that semester and have not received a questionnaire, please contact ATS and you will be sent one.

Personal Announcements

Personal Announcements are an especially welcome sight, whenever we have one. We are grateful to the editors of these columns for their time and efforts in preparing the announcements. We welcome and appreciate all announcements, whether they involve a birthday, marriage, or any other event. Please submit announcements to the Office of Student Affairs, Room 209, HUB.

Informed Source Reveals

Our Officer Selection Officers are looking for a few good college men, maybe 3 out of 100, who will make good Marine officers. If you're one of them, we'll give you a chance to prove it during summer training at Quantico, Virginia.

Our program is Platoon Leaders Class, PLC. With ground, air and law options. You might even qualify for up to $2,700 to help you through college. But it's all you're looking for. Don't waste your time.

The challenge is leadership. If you want it, work for it. If you've got it, show us it. It's one hell of a challenge. But we're looking for one hell of a man.
